

BATTERY DANCE AT MOOSE HALL

When first call is blown at the first annual hall of Battery D, Klamath Falls' own and justly renowned battery of the 24th Coast Artillery, in the Moose hall tonight all appearances point to one of the largest and most colorful affairs of its kind in the city. Reports of the ticket committee under the leadership of Sergeant Morris indicate an advance sale of tickets that will bring the friends of this prize winning company in droves and assure an evening of merry-making long to be remembered.

Special decorations have been placed by a squad of men under First Sergeant Dewey Powell and the hall will resemble a typical post barracks dolled up for a special occasion. Sergeant Powell has also arranged a special program of entertaining numbers that will intersperse dance selections. Almost any kind of dance entertainment will be on the cards with the old time dances in the upstairs hall and all the latest toe-ticking numbers booming across the lower hall.

Uniforms are being pressed and brushed in 74 homes today and tan shoes are being made to resemble the well known mirror shine, for all of Klamath Falls' best are planning to be present with their ladies fair. Officers, too, are considering whether it wouldn't be better to have the tailor let out that waist just a bit before being seen on dress parade.

Altogether it will be a night long to linger in the memory and a testimonial that Klamath needs and deserves a "Vote for Your Armory."

A country has about reached bottom when it can't keep anybody in jail except the fairly respectable.

Scouts Plan Toy Hospital to Help Poor Children Here

The Boy Scouts of the city are making preparations for a "toy hospital" which will be conducted near Christmas. It was announced Tuesday by Oscar Hoover, scout executive.

The Scouts will call at the various homes in the city and ask for broken toys which might be mended and painted. These will be collected at some room, probably the chamber of commerce, and each scout will be detailed a day to work on the toys.

Christmas Eve, these toys made like new, will be distributed to a number of homes in Klamath Falls where the children's Christmas stockings won't be filled this year.

Another activity of the scouts during the holidays will be winter camp at Lake of the Woods, where they will be joined by the Medford troops. Mr. Hoover stated. The trip in to the lake may have to be made on snowshoes and skis for about seven miles, and supplies will be hauled on toboggans. The winter season at the resort will enable the boys to enjoy sports and gain a knowledge of camp lore which is not attained at summer camp.
