AT THE PELICAN

Joe E. Brown and Bernice Clair in "Top Speed"

In a profession like that of acting which is said to breed envy, jealousy and all sorts of other unamiable feelings between its members, there are occasional exceptions; and one of these is the case of the firm friendship and admiration for each other between Joe E. Brown and Bernice Clair, two of First National's stars who appear together in "Top Speed," which opens Sunday at the Pelican Theatre.

The comedian and the very youthful prima donna met each other last summer at the First National Studio; and not until "Top Speed" went into production, many months later, were they ever in the same cast. But a strong friendship sprang up between them while they were working on separate sound stages.

Partly they agree, the bond of comradeship between them is due to similar backgrounds of theatrical experience. Both had won laurels on the stage before being summoned to Hollywood. For as number of years Brown has been one of the most popular fun-makers on Broadway, and Bernice, before the pictures called her away, had sung the leading feminine role in the original stage production of "The Desert Song."

Their first picture together, "Top Speed," is based on one of the outstanding musical comedy successes of the past season. Jack Whiting, another recruit from the stage, is also featured in the cast, as are Laura Lee, Frank McHugh and other popular players. The picture was directed by Mervyn LeRoy.

AT THE PINE TREE

JOHN HADDON, JOHN WRAY and BETTY COMPSON in "THE GREAT ZERKOW"

One of the most amazing revelations of the power of the underworld politics is made in the story of "The Great Zerkow," a Universal production which will be seen at the Pine Tree Theatre beginning Sunday.

"The Great Zerkow" presents in a stark realistic manner the political problems of our citizens living in the larger cities. A sincere love story adds to the flavor of the production.

The clever maneuvers of the underworld characters in their attempts to run the governments of our cities, is a revelation which will cause many of us to gasp. The thrilling situations which confront a young newspaper man who attempts to "go the low-down" on the underworld add greatly to the entertainment.

Among the various "big business" enterprises of the gentlemen crooks is an insurance agency which is used as a blind and a money-making business for the bosses of the underworld. It serves as the principal alibi for the leading character of "The Great Zerkow."

Another "business" which thrives under the strict supervision of the gentlemen crooks is a night club. It is here that most of the conferences take place, and it is here that much of the action of the story transpires.

A splendid alignment of talent was engaged in the making of the picture. Gene Towne, noted for his underworld stories, is credited with the story and dialogue. John Wray, recognized as one of the greatest crook characters of the New York stage, plays the leading role. Betty Compson, long noted for her work in this type of story, plays the girl. John Haddon is the ambitious young reporter. The supporting cast includes the names of King Baggot, Wilbur Mack and George Byron.
