

HEAD OF MODOC FOREST TELLS OF CONDITIONS

"The depth of snow in the forest areas between Klamath Falls and Lookout is great, or deeper than at this time a year ago," said P. J. Cronmiller, Jr., supervisor of Modoc national forest, who was in this city yesterday from his headquarters at Alturas. The present depth varies from eight to fifteen inches. He reports, however, that the district immediately surrounding Alturas is exceedingly dry for this time of year.

Cronmiller was accompanied to Klamath Falls by Dan A. Davis, road foreman of Modoc forest, and the two report that a crew of 10 men is at present engaged in constructing and improving roads in the Lava Beds area. Approximately $100,000 will be expended on the trunk road to Alturas during the coming spring and summer.

Cronmiller is well known in Klamath Falls. His father was founder of the Evening Herald and the visitor says that he set type by hand for the initial issue in 1906. He has been with the federal forest service for the past several years, and he recently over which he is now supervisor is one of the largest in the country.

Postmaster Says Business Isn't Wanted

DISCO, Wis., Jan. 21. (UP)—A postmaster who developed his station from fourth class to third class by buying and mailing eggs has decided that the government "doesn't want the business."

Willard H. Potter, who is both storekeeper and postmaster here, increased his earnings as postmaster by mailing cases of eggs he bought at his store instead of sending them by express. A fourth class postmaster is paid a percentage of his receipts. Then he offered two cents a dozen more for eggs than other buyers in the vicinity. Additional postoffice receipts more than covered the price increase.

His office was changed from fourth class which paid only $160 a year to third class, paying $190 plus desk and allowance for light, heat and water. He paid the clerk's salary to his wife.

But the egg cases piled up so high that the rural mail carrier refused to carry them to Black River Falls for shipment. The post office department ruled that later must mail the eggs to the nearby town. The crossroads postmaster has stopped trying to increase his business.

"Just because I went out and got some business for my post office, I've got to haul to town," Potter says. "Doesn't seem like the government wants the business, does it?"

MUST KNOW ENGLISH

CANTON—Because the English language is widely used throughout the world, all Chinese students at the Military Aviation School here must take an intensive course in English. One hundred students are admitted to the school each year. After a strict course in aviation, each student is commissioned and receives $140 a month.

NEW ARMY AIRPORT

ALAMEDA, Cal.—Another airport in the increasing network of U. S. Army ports is expected to be erected near here in the future. A deed for 1100 acres has been officially presented to President Hoover for Army use by Mayor Victor L. Schaeffer. It is expected that the port will be one of the most modern in use.

THE woman who knows how to transform left-overs never has any left-overs. That sounds like a paradox, but it is absolutely true. Without a single exception that I can think of, left-overs can be combined and transformed into delicious dishes that will possess an appetite appeal quite equal to the original.

It isn't always exact to give exact recipes for left-overs; so a certain amount of imagination is usually a necessity. Another necessity is a proper use of seasoning ingredients. A dash of sugar will touch up and blend the various flavors. A little tomato or onion will often add interest to what would otherwise be a flat dish. Peppers and pimentos, too, have an important place. Season with care and imagination, and just see how enthusiastically your family responds.

Steak Savory

Arrange sliced, left-over steak in baking dish. On top of the steak put a thick layer of sliced onions, one cup stewed tomatoes, one chopped green pepper. Sprinkle with parsley and add one-half teaspoon salt, an equal amount of onion and pepper to taste. Bake until onions are tender.

"Unfurnishing" Your Home

Simplicity is Preferable to Over-Decoration, And a Certain Shabbiness is Better Than Air of Chill Formality, Declares Lady Mendl

By JULIA BLANSHARD
NEA Service Writer

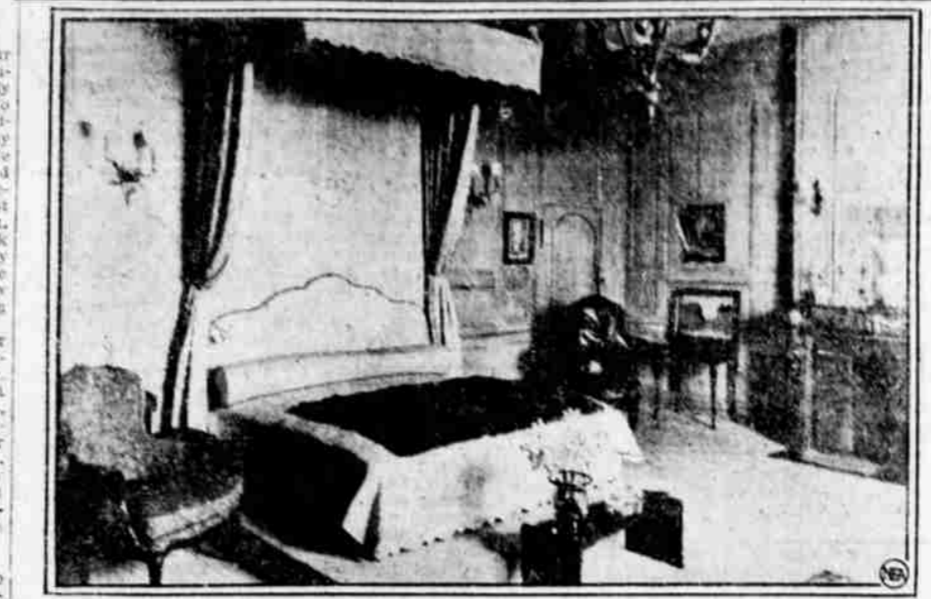

New York, Jan. 20.—Your home should be "beautifully unfurnished" if it is to be really smart this winter, according to Lady Mendl, the amazing American who leads an extremely busy life, being Elsie de Wolfe, interior decorator abroad and here, and Lady Mendl, social celebrity, known as one of the best dressed women on the continent.

"Don't have that souvenir look about your home," Lady Mendl's first bit of advice to the woman who cares enough how her home looks to do something about it.

"Go in for elimination, rather than over-decoration. Don't litter your home with bric-a-brac. Everybody should have a place in the living room's scheme, even the pets or 'little people,' as Lady Mendl calls them. In a smart room she once was doing she made an old Chinese lacquer box with a canopy top and little gold bells into a perfect spot for the family pet Pekie.

Apartment homes have rules all their own. Some of them are as follows:

"Never buy any wallpaper because it is 'new,' 'different' or 'pretty.' If you do a small apartment in ivory, cream, gray or soft green for woodwork and walls, every single room will look bigger than patterned papered walls and imitation grained woodwork. It is unwise to try to work out cut-and-dried color schemes in small apartments. If you keep your floors and walls neutral, you can introduce dozens of soft colors into your home. Beware of big figures hanging in small spaces. Why not use plain coarse linen or raw silk in dull blue, orange, brown or whatever color you select for your key tone and get the figured complex out of your system by covering the arm chair with gay chintz?"

Lady Mendl's own bedroom in her new Paris apartment has plain paneled walls and the most exquisitely dainty decorating plan in ivory and Elsie de Wolfe brown. The carpet is the rich cream color and the coverlet and wall hanging behind the six-foot wide modernistic bed are of ivory satin hand-stitched in reproduction of a Queen Anne 17th century cover. A modernistic glass table and a modernistic vase crystal flowers has a place here for Lady Mendl sponsors contemporary art whenever it fits in with her schemes.

Household Suggestions

Saving Decorations

If you carefully save all the house decorations from Christmas, Valentine's day, and so on, be sure to mark each box separately because it saves time and wear and tear on the decorations.

Peppermint Ice Cream

Peppermint sticks, broken up and used as flavoring in homemade ice cream, makes it delicious and the prettiest color in the world.

New Handles

New handles for your percolator can be obtained for 10 cents in any color you want to dress up your kitchen. You can screw them in yourself.

Silver Polish

If you boil your flat silver up in an aluminum pot before you start shining it, you will find the mere bath is a good polish.

Egg Stains

It is a mistake to let egg stains remain on silver. When you have eggs for breakfast, dip the spoons or forks that you used for them into a pan of salt solution as soon as you clear the table.

Unbreakable Glasses

For the children you now can get unbreakable glasses and cups and saucers that come in merry colors that they will like. They are thin like ordinary glasses and attractive.

Colored Desserts

The same old bread pudding or custard takes on new interest for the family if it comes out in a new colored garb. Vegetable colorings are harmless and do wonders to dress up a dish.

Shick Irons

A bit of an old candle, used on a folded newspaper to rub your iron over, is one of the most efficacious methods of making your electric iron smooth and slick.

Sleeve Board

With styles more complicated, a little tapering sleeve board is indispensable to the home maker. It is useful for all kinds of lingerie touches and handkerchiefs, too.

NO PLANET LUE

WASHINGTON—Contrary to many beliefs, Dr. George F. Kutz, of the American Museum of Natural History, believes that there is no planet life in the universe other than that on our earth. He bases his idea on 859 meteorites which he has examined after they had fallen on the earth. Thirty-one of 87 known elements have been found in these bodies.

TAKES HOME WITH HIM

COLEMBIA, Mo.—When John Davenport came to the State University here, he brought his home with him—on wheels. John couldn't afford to rent an expensive room at school so he and his father fixed up a small cottage on wheels. The cost of the home was $250. It is wired for electricity, heated by a coal stove, and has all the accommodations of a home.

SOME FLYING!

LONDON—Some idea of how much territory a fleet of airplanes annexed in war will travel was recently given here when the Red Colony and the Blue Colony of the British Royal Air Force engaged in a sham battle. Two hundred and fifty planes took part and flew more than 300,000 miles. More than 2500 men and officers took part in the imaginary combat.

Savant Finds Few Inhibitions Among Sage Boys and Girls

By ROBERT N. BLUM
United Press Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21.—Application of modern psychoanalysis to the savage tribes of New Guinea and Central Australia has revealed some interesting facts about the younger generation in those countries.

The complexes and inhibitions of savage youths and maidens were laid here in San Francisco by Dr. George Rehm, eminent Budapest psychologist, who arrived here recently with his wife on the Matsun liner Ventura, after a two years' research expedition which took him on camel back into the heart of Australia and by canoe into the wilds of New Guinea.

Savage youths, revealed Dr. Rehm, have inferiority complexes, but do not suffer from them as do their civilized cousins, because their desires are not so difficult of achievement as in more cultured lands.

For example, if you are a young bushman in central Australia, and you fall in love with a girl, tribal rites and customs permit you to kidnap the object of your affections with or without her permission, and to carry her off to your hut for better or for worse.

Dr. Rehm, applying psychoanalysis to the field of anthropo-

Truth Revealed About "Tell It To The Marines"

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. (UP)—"Tell it to the Marines," the popular phrase familiar to millions in the United States and Great Britain, was exploded with a bang as a genuine bit of history as the result of an inquiry by Brigadier General George Richards of the U. S. Marine Corps.

According to the original legend which has been accepted as gospel for a generation, the maker of the phrase was Charles II of England and the incident is quoted at length in the diary of Samuel Pepys. According to the quotation, the king possessed an adviser who was a retired colonel of marines and had traveled everywhere and seen everything. Whenever the monarch heard a remarkable story, continues the quotation, he would refer to his marine adviser to find out whether or not it was true. Hence the king's remark.

General Richards searched in all existing Pepys material, including an unindexed manuscript in the library of congress, to prove or disprove the legend.

Then he wrote a letter to W. P. Drury, English novelist and retired colonel of the British marine corps. The answer ended the hunt.

"The story of 'Tell it to the Marines' is taken," Drury wrote, "from my earliest literary crime.

Earl Sande Is Lyric Tenor And Champion Jockey

SALEM, Ore., Jan. 20 (UP)—Ability to ride the world's fastest race horses and to sing in a silvery lyric tenor is a combination that is rare.

But those are the accomplishments of Earl Sande, world's most famous jockey, who recently visited his parents here.

Sande's ability to ride soared to greater heights during the 1929 season while wearing the colors of the stable of William Woodward, New York financier and owner of Gallant Fox.

But Sande's other attainment, that of singing, may also claim more attention.

For two years he has been studying vocal under Estelle

SECRET OF ROOM'S BEAUTY MAY LIE JUST AROUND THE CORNER!

Here are Ways to Get The "Right Angle" of Home Decoration; Cupboards May be Used to Advantage

By JULIA BLANSHARD
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Corners come into their own in the new home scheme of decoration. There is charm in a corner that no open space can possibly possess. It is surprising how timid homemakers seem to have been about utilizing these intriguing spots of a room to make them yield individuality and hospitality.

Instead of sticking something cat-corner in a room, as if there were some bogey man likely to dodge up and protect the actual corner from being useful, some rooms can be arranged to play up the last small inch of a corner's right-angledness to advantage.

Corner cupboards are the most obvious and one of the most successful ways to utilize this space. These may be old-fashioned three-cornered "whatnots," enclosed china closets, or a combination of both.

READING BOOK IDEA

A new way to use the corner cupboard idea is to build bookcases along both sides of the room having them meet in friendly manner at the corner. Against this enticing background build up a reading nook with easy chair, lamp, foot stool and low arm chair table.

Quite a daring idea for utilizing such meek furniture as colonial to have an early American love seat against one wall of a corner, pushed against the other wall, with appropriate picture or book rack above, a lamp on the outer side of the love seat and a cute hooked rug or some other rug compatible with colonial furniture right in front of it to draw the eye to this inviting spot.

Corners and desks would seem to go together naturally, but seldom do so. Both have a sense of privacy about them. Both seem a bit withdrawn from the busy life of the room about them. An admirable desk arrangement in a warm living room with tan walls, a rich Persian rug with coordinating rose tones and furniture upholstery that plays up to the rose, is to place a flat desk of rich warm woods in gold and reddish tones flanking the side wall, against the end wall and back it with a screen that is painted in yellow, rich red, blue and gold.

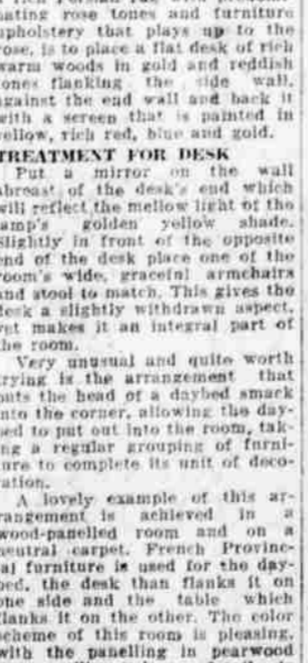

It is possible in a large room to place a grand piano in a corner of its own with great effectiveness. Place the keyboard toward one wall of the room, the piano along the side wall, the box of the piano towards the center of the room. With a painting behind the piano, or a paneled wall, a lamp for illumination and perhaps a vase of flowers on the box portion of the piano, you have a very handsome arrangement. You may use a small table and chair, or just a chair, where your piano box long, narrow table, with books and lamp, flanking the whole side of the piano.

Bedrooms can use their corners very early. A little corner dressing table, with glazed chintz curtains to match the window drapes and bed cover, will be perfectly at home cut to fit a corner and put in it. A corner seat, with chest space underneath it and corner book shelves above is a cozy bedroom arrangement, also. Given a grandfather clock, a rocking chair, footstool and table with lamp, you have the coziest corner in the room.

A day-bed may feature a "corner ensemble." Here you see one in mulberry stripes in a setting of French Provincial furniture. Pear wood panels, red and white valances, and red, black and gold vases lend a quaint charm to the scene.

A rich decorative effect is achieved in this room corner by a tan paneled background; a rose-colored rug; an antique chair with gold and red rose chintz, and a footstool to match; a screen painted yellow, red, blue and gold; a yellow lampshade that brings out the yellow in a disk.

GREEN COSTUMES HINT OF SPRING

Modish Effects Are Achieved By Necklines

(Dresses from Carolyn)

Modish effects are achieved by necklines. This neckline is given its flare by a graduated little collar of white organdy chiffon that has just the least little bit of pardonable pride in the way it holds itself stiffly. There are accordingly pleated flowing cuffs from the elbow of this same white chiffon and a roundish bouquet of little white chiffer flowers singles at one corner of the neck.

If you, on the other hand, were born with a round face and have a yen for an oval one, you will be interested in a charming green crepe dress (right) that points its whole dress up to a charming V-neckline effect. The surprising closing of the jacket with its three crepe buttons the cut of the poplin and the way the skirt's gored are shaped, all emphasize the V-neckline. To rescue it from any suggestion of severity, there is a perfectly lovely real Irish lace collar and yoke made to remove for cleansing. The cuffs of self-fabric are cut in a most intriguing manner, fitted close to snap shut at the wrist and then flapping a pointed top slightly below the elbow, with a button and buttonhole.

ALL foods can be listed under one of three main headings, and the health of your family depends upon a proper balance between the foods in these groups. Meats, eggs and dairy products are builders and repairers of body tissues. Cereals, sugars and fats are the chief fuel foods, the source of heat and energy. Regulating foods—chiefly fruits, the outer coverings of grains, and green vegetables—keep the body in good running order.

The last is the group most likely to be neglected. Make sure that your menu provides fresh fruit, and two or more green vegetables every day. Serve dishes prepared with such cereals as bran and whole wheat, which retain the mineral salts and fiber of the grain. Watch for new recipes and you'll be surprised at the appetizing variety of such dishes you'll be able to prepare.

REDUCED AIR FARES

MONTREAL—Air travel is getting cheaper. The Canadian Airlines Ltd., on its Montreal routes, have reduced its passenger rates to slightly more than five cents a mile. Each person will be allowed to carry 30 pounds of baggage free at this rate. A charge of 50 cents a pound will be made for all excess baggage.

IMMUNE TO COLDS

WASHINGTON—The city zoo has just received a gift of three gibbons, a type of monkey, which have been valuable in scientific experiments. The gibbons have reduced to almost zero the incidence of some time-under-the-ice inoculations of cold germs. Scientists at the university have discovered that the monkeys are immune to colds.

If you are looking for a particularly rich and delicious cake to have on hand during the holiday season, potato caramel cake will prove satisfactory.

If, on the other hand, you want an inexpensive cake that is not rich with butter and eggs, but is nevertheless fruity and delectable, apple sauce cake will meet your needs.

Both these cakes keep excellently and are even better several days after baking them than when fresh. Cut in slices and served with whipped cream, they can be used as puddings.
