FARM BOARD IS FACING A NEW BARRIER

WASHINGTON, April 10, (AP)—The farm board faced a new barrier today in its drive to reduce the surplus of domestic wheat.

Piled high in front of it was an estimated production of 644,000,000 bushels of winter wheat, 40,000,000 more than last year. This bumper crop was seen as a nullifier of the board's success in obtaining a 3 per cent reduction in total acreage planted, both winter and spring.

Should normal weather prevail and a normal yield be harvested, the total 1931 production would be $55,000,000, as compared with $51,000,000 last year.

Such an indicated production possibly would create another emergency in view of expected large world carry-overs, and only a slight reduction in world acreage exclusive of Russia, which has said it would increase its plantings.

A relatively light winter, conducive to good growing, brought winter wheat to a high April 1 condition of 88.8 per cent of normal. The abandonment was only 4 per cent.

With the winter growing season considered abnormally favorable, it is possible the indicated yield may be cut through adverse weather prior to harvest time. Some economists believe that even under normal conditions the production will not equal 644,000,000 bushels.

The United States surplus available for export and carry-over on July 1 was placed yesterday by the agricultural department at 290,000,000 bushels, 15,000,000 more than last year.

The farm board is believed to hold a large part of this.

Even though an emergency should exist in the 1931 crop, the board is not expected to alter its decision not to authorize stabilization operations. It may, however, cause delay in plans for disposing of surplus stocks which have been placed at 200,000,000 bushels in actual wheat and futures.

SIDE GLANCES

TESTIMONY IS GIVEN OF BIG RUM OPERATION

PORTLAND, Ore., April 10, (AP)—Charging that a well-organized liquor manufacturing and distributing syndicate was operated by the defendants in Oregon and Washington, the government today introduced its first evidence in the Toole-Brown liquor conspiracy trial. Walter L. Toole, Jr., Portland attorney and former republican state committeeman, and Joseph Brown, alleged leader of the ring, were indicted with 24 others in connection with the case.

John Gilliland, government witness, who has pleaded guilty to the conspiracy charges, testified that while employed to haul whiskey he was instructed to call Toole or Frank Hodgson if he ever got "knocked over." The "gang," he said, agreed to pay him $5 a day for time spent in jail. He testified he often delivered as much as 50 gallons at a time.

Frank Dodelle, state prohibition agent and former federal officer, testified to following a truck driven by George Moffett, one of the defendants, from a downtown Portland district to the Fullmer ranch near Salem. The truck was escorted, he said, by a small coupe. Six of the alleged conspirators, a still and equipment were seized there, he said.

Earl Hartman of Silverton, an automobile dealer, told of selling two trucks to Joe Brown, and described them.

Amber is said to be a hard lustrous resinous substance composed of a fossilized vegetable gum which originally exuded from an extinct kind of cone-bearing tree standing in prehistoric forests.
