Amusements

"WOMEN OF ALL NATIONS"

Gretel Nissen leads Victor McLaglen in a merry chase in "Women of All Nations." "Flags" and "Quirt" have gone blonde!

In "What Price Glory," which introduced "Flags" and "Quirt," raven haired Dolores Del Rio was their chief charmer. In the record-breaking follow-up, "The Cock Eyed World," the fascinating Lily Damita, whose coloring was of a Titan shade, caused them much woe and warfare, and now comes the truly blonde Gretel Nissen, whose coloring and ivory skin caused a famous writer to refer to her as "The Perfect Pearl," and leads the fighting buddies in a merry chase through the most hilarious adventures.

This time the rough and rowdy dame clatters took their audience to Nicaragua, Panama, Sweden and right into the midst of a harem in Turkey, on the most hilarious mis-adventures they have ever had. El Brendel is also featured.

"OH, FOR A MAN!"
Really, his intentions were those of any honest burglar—jewels, but she took one look at him and the prayer of "Oh, For a Man" was answered. Not that she was hard up for men, like any beautiful, temperamental prima donna she had men; but what she wanted was a man! When two supreme egotists such as the burglar and the prima donna get into that state known as matrimony—

"DIRIGIBLE"
Jack Holt, who plays Commander Braden, zeppelin chief in Columbia Pictures' air epic "Dirigible," coming soon to the Vox Theatre, was a western star exclusively, appearing in whole series of outdoor pictures. Holt played in a number of Zane Grey's stories of the great open spaces, as well as in other western pictures by popular writers. However his ability to enact serious drama soon took him out of Westerns and into this type of characterization.

Ralph Graves is co-starred with Holt in "Dirigible." Supporting these stars are Fay Wray, Hobart Bosworth, Clarence Muse, Roscoe Karns, and Harold Godwin. Frank Cava, director of this co-starring team in "Flights," "Submarine," and "Hell's Island," also wielded the megaphone on "Dirigible."
