Here's "Little Little Eva"

Presenting Vivian Duncan, formerly of the Duncan Sisters, and now Mrs. Nils Ashter, with her daughter, Evelyn Rosetta Ashter, her American daughter born in Europe.

We always have before, and we will now.

THOMAS A. EDISON, we are told by his physician, no longer cared to live after he realized that complete recovery of his health was improbable.

That is to say, if he couldn't go on working he didn't care to go on living.

It was this complete absorption in his work that made Edison great. Work, you see, is the big thing in the lives of big men.

PERFECTION of the telephone for commercial use was one of Edison's many achievements, which recalls a story told to this writer by a hale and hearty man in his late seventies the other day:

"When I was a youngster, just getting started in business, I went into the office of a friend and found him talking into a funny instrument. I asked him what he was doing, and he said he was talking to his wife.

"I said: 'Like hell you are,' and he handed the thing over to me and told me to see for myself. Sure enough, his wife's voice spoke into my ear. I nearly fell over."

"I got all steamed up. My father and I were running a little mill, and every day we had to talk to the station agent about shipments. It was a lot of bother to drive over to the station with a horse and buggy, so we fixed up a little hay-wire telephone line between the station and our office.

"It was great stuff, but telephone bells hadn't been invented yet, so there was no way to call the fellow at the other end to the phone. We got around that by fixing up a schedule, and at certain exact hours of the day we'd go to the phone and talk."

REMEMBER, this tale was told by a man still in his useful business years. These modern conveniences of ours aren't very old.

Turn on the light so that you can see better and take a look at the telephone on your desk, or on the wall. If you are a business man, take another look at your typewriter and your adding machine. If you are a housewife, glance at your electric washing machine and your vacuum sweeper.

If you are a manufacturer, look at all the complicated machinery that turns out your product. If you are a laboring man, look at all the machines that save the drudgery of your back.

DO this, and you will begin to realize what this modern world owes to men like Edison who had BRAINS and the will to use them.

DYNAMITE JACKSON LOSES TO DE KUH

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 20, (AP)—A bad cut over the left eye, which developed into a major disability in the seventh round led to the defeat tonight of Dynamite Jackson, Ocean Park, Calif., negro, by Arthur de Kuh of New York, when the referee stopped the fight at the Olympic club's boxing arena.

De Kuh obtained the technical knockout after opening the cut in the fifth, and striking his long arm out to harass the injury throughout the sixth and part of the seventh. The referee stepped in when it became obvious the negro could not continue.

Jackson, former state heavyweight champion, weighed 210, his opponent 217.

In honor to the memory of Thomas A. Edison, lights were dimmed and an American Legion bugler blew "taps" just before the start of the main go.

LEGION COMMITTEE SELECTION SLATED

Appointments of all committees of the American Legion for the coming year will be made at tonight's meeting of the Klamath post by Commander P. D. McMullan. All appointive officers will also be named this evening.

A committee will present a mobilization plan at the session and the program and arrangements for Armistice Day, November 11, will be discussed, McMullan stated.

One of the features of the Armistice Day celebration will be the dedication of the memorial fountain in Moore park at 11 a. m., November 11, according to O. D. Matthews, chairman of the committee in charge of that part of the program.

Editorials on News

THIS isn't intended to minimize the importance of relief of those who are in need. That is always important—SUPREMELY IMPORTANT.

In a great, rich country such as this, simply bursting with clothing and with food and with fuel, it would be an indictment of our civilization if we should knowingly permit anyone to go hungry or cold.

But let's not lose sight of the fact that here in fortunate Oregon needy people are not going to be so numerous this winter that we can't take care of them.

EDUCATION SMALL IN PUBLIC COSTS

Higher education has been responsible for only one per cent of the increase in public expenditures, local and state, in Oregon for the last 10 years, it was declared by Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, president of the University of Oregon in an address here Monday night before a group of university alumni and parents of students.

In view of the widespread charge that the higher schools were loading an ever-increasing burden on the taxpayers, Dr. Hall said he had a statistical study made of the increases of public expenditures for the decade. He represented the increase as 100 per cent, he said, the divisions are as follows:

- Roads and highways, 21.9 per cent.
- Elementary and high school, 49.1 per cent.
- Towns and cities, 22.6 per cent.
- Ports and docks, 5.4 per cent.
- Higher education, 1 per cent.

Income Less

Dr. Hall said that it was found that the University of Oregon at Eugene this year has an income of $7.7 per cent LESS than it had 10 years ago. This is due to the governor's veto and the referendum filing on the $1,151,000 special appropriation by the legislature, it being necessary to shift money from the Eugene operation to Portland to keep alive deserving work which heretofore has been supported by special appropriations.

The university head discussed damage he said was done by referring to the special appropriation. Because the money was for operating expense, and the vote by the people on the referred measure does not come until the November preceding the close of the biennium for which the money is intended, the filing of petitions to refer the bill actually votes it.

Denies Charges

President Hall described the work done by the Portland medical school, the Doernbecher hospital at Portland, the out-patient clinic, and other institutions supported by the special appropriation which is now filed up. He said the Portland medical school was offering a service to the indigent poor of Oregon valued at $574,905, while the support of the school cost only $250,000.

Dr. Hall denied the charge that Oregon devotes the largest per centage of its wealth to higher education, declaring that such a claim is entirely unsubstantiated by fact. In per capita wealth, he said, Oregon is the sixth state in the union. In the proportion of students attending higher educational institutions, it is fifth. And in the proportion of wealth devoted to higher education, it is twenty-second.

Rutledge's collection is one of the most complete in the city. Edwin Friel, Fremont instructor, and Miss A. G. Foster, principal, will accompany the pupils.

TO EXTINGUISH LIGHTS

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 20, (AP)—All the electric lights in Chile will be extinguished for a brief time at eight o'clock tonight as a mark of respect to the memory of Thomas A. Edison. Today's newspapers carried long editorials on his death.

Peter B. Kyne Pays War Debt and Frees Ponies From Arrest

CHICAGO, Oct. 20, (AP)—A 13-year-old debt overlooked the race horses of Peter B. Kyne, the author, yesterday at Hawthorne track—and the nags are not so slow, either.

They were just bounding up the runway into a railroad car to leave the track, when a deputy sheriff and attorney representing R. G. Sherman sprinted up. Sherman's story was that Kyne, then a captain in the army, suddenly needed 5,900 francs after the armistice notice in Bordeaux, and that he advanced the sum on an I. O. U., payable when Kyne arrived home.

"Ever since then I've been trying to catch up with him," Sherman said. Yesterday he learned the horses were here and swore out a writ of attachment.

The race between the deputy sheriff and attorney on one side and the horses then got under way—though the horses didn't know it—and his entries rewarded Sherman with $852, the amount of the debt. Kyne in New York ordered the money advanced to release his ponies.
