

STATE MAKES PROVISION FOR INDIAN PUPILS

SALEM, Oct. 21, (UP)—Indian school children are far from a nonentity in Oregon.

School enrollment figures credit Oregon with 1,173 Indian children between 5 and 15 years. Of these, 76 per cent are in some school. Public schools have 443, government boarding schools on reservations, 142, other federal boarding schools, 163, government day schools, 37, and mission and private institutions, 109.

Oklahoma is the highest state in the Union in point of Indian school children, 25,322 being entered in some type of institution out of a total of 37,325. Oregon is 14th on the list in point of numbers. Other states near the top are Arizona, New Mexico, South Dakota, Minnesota, California, Montana, North Dakota and Washington.

Contracts were made during 1930 for payment of tuition for Indian children with 251 boards of education. Federal reports pointed out: Some probable next steps in federal-state relations in education include a program whereby Indian schools will put into a position where they constitute a real part of the educational program of the state.

State contracts of study will be used as a basis wherever possible insofar as these are consistent with an education planned to meet the needs of Indian children," the report said.

A more modern type of supervision is being planned. In places where the number warrant, a state supervisor of Indian education as part of the staff of the department of public education, working directly under the state superintendent or commissioner of education is recommended.

"Real progress in the past two years on the physical side of Indian schooling, particularly in feeding in boarding schools, has been noted. Of the $1,106,000 allowed by congress in 1930, $195,000 was for additional subsistence, $58,000 for noonday lunches in the day schools, $40,000 for subsistence of children during the summer, and $59,000 for clothing.

"Provision was made for a daily per capita food allowance of 23 cents a day, this being the amount set by an impartial committee of specialists from government departments.

"Of late years, when Indian children have more nearly come to approximate whites in age, at which they start school, considerable institutional labors have been eliminated. As a result, in nearly all institutions boys and girls are attending the full day's session through the sixth grade, and three-fourths are for higher grades.

"Teaching requirements have been raised to a point that, while still below requirements of the better urban-school systems, they are above the minimum requirements of most states."

FOOD CHATS

by ETHEL M. HALL

All foods are good. In this column Saturday we talked of food combinations. To select our foods we need a schedule or a division of foods from which to select our own needs. As I said before, all foods are good—wrong combinations are the chief cause of dietetic errors.

To begin with, know the classifications of foods and know the foods belonging to each classification then your combinations will take care of the rest. This is not complicated or hard to understand—it means a Fruit breakfast, a Starch luncheon and a Meat dinner.

Foods are divided into three classes:

No. 1—These foods, which act as antiseptics, eliminators, laxatives and purifiers, are such as raw fruits and cooked non-starchy vegetables.

No. 2—These are the foods which build or rebuild the body and are known as building foods—such as lean meats, fish and legumes. (Legumes are dried beans, dried peas, lentils and peanuts.)

No. 3—These are the foods which supply warmth and energy—such as starch, sugar and fat.

Classification No. 1—Raw fruits, non-starchy vegetables contain vital food salts. These salts enter the chemical processes of the body, transforming the foods to heat and energy. Ofttimes fruits and vegetables are looked upon as side dishes when as a matter of fact they contain all the elements necessary for nutrition. Always eat either raw fruits or raw vegetables with a meal to keep stable foods from fermenting causing toxic poisons.

Classification No. 2—Foods belonging to this class, chiefly lean meats, fish, fowl, game and legumes, build. Chicken and game are easy of digestion. Lamb and mutton are the most wholesome. Mutton is more digestible than beef because its fibres are much finer. Veal is considered difficult of digestion because it does not stimulate the flow of digestive juices. Cheese is a meat substitute for those who digest it well. Do not combine with starch. Cottage cheese is the best of the building foods. Eggs—persons of slow digestion and sluggish liver should not eat eggs. Eggs should be combined with fruits and vegetables—not starches. Coddling of eggs is best. The peanut is not a nut but a legume and belongs to the dried bean-lentil family. It is a concentrated food and should be used sparingly. Two ounces is a liberal serving for main part of meal.

Classification No. 3—Energy, heat. We need starch in moderation—properly prepared and properly cooked. Starch poisoning (or acidosis) is America's most prevalent disease because of overeating of starch and sugar. Grain alcohol is made by a process of fermentation not unlike the process within the digestive tract. This explains why we have the habit we can't give up. Starch and sugar together is a bad combination. In baking use honey, maple sugar and dark brown sugar. Starch and sugary foods must be eliminated in cases of pyorrhea.

Note—If you have any questions you want to ask or if any of the suggestions given here are not clear I will gladly answer them either in this column without names or direct, if you will send a stamped return envelope to me care of this newspaper.

CREAM AND GREEN KITCHEN COLORS

An investigation covering thousands of homes all over the country brings forth the conclusion that the average American housewife prefers a kitchen of color to the conventional white and that a large majority of them lean toward cream or buff as a base with green as a trim.

Green in varying shades ranked as first choice for one-color kitchens, while red, at the other end of the spectrum took last place. The preference of the green, however, almost unanimously preferred green as a trim, rather than as an all-over color.

Manufacturers of enameled kitchen utensils report that the results of this survey are borne out in the preponderance of preference shown by housewives for utensils of cream or buff with green handles and beading.

Whether the results of this survey were or were not anticipated by General Electric students is not known. If not, then it is a peculiar coincidence that the new Advanced 1932 model GE Hotpoint Electric Range, now being featured by The California Oregon Power company and local dealers is being had in cream colored vitreous enamel with cascade green trimming as well as in the pure white enamel with silver wing gray trim.

Many new and exclusive features distinguish this new GE creation, which was featured at the Herald-News School of Economics at the high school this week.

IDAHO FIRM LOW SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 20 (UP)—Bids for work on the Howard Gulf National forest highway were opened at offices of the United States bureau of public roads today and revealed that Morrison Knudsen company of Boise, Idaho, was low with an offer of $54,912.

CANNED BISCUITS LATEST WRINKLE

By RUTH BALDWIN COWAN CHICAGO, Oct. 21, (AP)—For the bride who fears she's paving the way to the divorce court with biscuits—canned biscuits!

They were exhibited at the National Food exhibition today as a solution to her problem. These biscuits—Southern variety—come already mixed, rolled and cut. All that is needed, so the demonstrator said, is a can-opener, a hot oven and two minutes' time.

And speaking of can-openers, there was one among the array of ultra modern kitchen conveniences that folds down the edge of cans to eliminate cut fingers and ruined manicures.

Among the housekeeping shortcuts on display was an electric stove that will turn itself on, start cooking dinner in the late afternoon, and have it ready when the housewife comes home from work or bridge. Its sponsors said it just stops short of putting the roast on the table.

There was an ironless ironing square as such, serves as a white enamel kitchen table. When opened up this device resembles a pressing outfit in a tailor's workshop. It is operated by means of levers and dials.

Nearly stands a washing machine that washes clothes in one bin and gets them almost dry in another. The housewife's job is to supply the machine with water and soap and lift the clothes in and out.

Water in the kitchen tap is used as power for an egg, mayonnaise or whipped cream beater. The contraption is attached to the tap by means of a hose.

When a baby cries for a 1 o'clock morning feeding there is an electric milk warmer that can be kept by the mother's bed and says a trip to the kitchen to warm the infant's bottle. Also there is an electric egg cooker that turns out one-minute eggs with one teaspoonful of water, and two-minute egg with two teaspoonful. It boils them hard, with but little more water.

Prisoner Slays Chief of Police

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 21 (AP)—B. H. Beasley, chief of police of Southern Pines, was shot and killed near here today while en route from Boydton, Va., with Everett McLean, negro, charged with attempting to drown his wife. McLean later was arrested at Tarboro.

Pearl McLean, who also was in Beasley's car, told police her husband shot Beasley in the back and then wounded her in the shoulder.

Portland, 70, Is Killed by Car PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 21 (AP)—Struck down by an automobile as he was "jay-walking" on an unlighted street, Nels Anderson, 70, was fatally injured last night. He was crossing the street midway between the intersections when hit by a car driven by Myer Brown, who stopped within a distance of nine feet. Police absolved Brown of blame.

Cattle T. B. Test to Start Nov. 2

Annual tuberculosis test of dairy cattle will start in Klamath county Monday, November 2, 1931. All applications for this work must be in the county agent's office not later than October 27, as schedules will be made out at that time, and it is difficult to include herds after a district has once been tested.

TAMMANY HEAD RETIRED NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (UP)—The committee of the whole of the board of estimates today voted retirement at full salary of John R. Voorhis, 102-year-old grand sachem of Tammany, as president of the board of elections.

TRIP OF LONG AGO TO PARK RECALLED

CRATER LAKE NATIONAL PARK, Ore., Oct. 21—A rare record is claimed by George L. Humphrey of Klamath Falls, a recent Crater Lake visitor, Mr.

Humphrey recalled that he made his first visit to the lake in 1883 as a youth and since that time has not missed a season in coming to the lake. He usually makes three or four visits every summer.

He rode horseback to the lake on his first visit with three other young men, taking several days for the trip. The quartette descended to the water down the precipitous walls of the Rim near the present location of the Sinnott Memorial. The descent was made in a short time, but several hours were consumed in returning to the Rim due to the loose formation of the walls.

In subsequent seasons, he came to the lake by wagon and it was not until 1916 that he enjoyed his first car ride to the lake.
