

CARS CHANGED BY FUGITIVES AFTER HOLD-UP

At a distance but which officers could not overtake.

A highway employe working a scraper on the new Lakewiew highway reported that a car passed his scraper and three men were in it. The car was a large coach, either a Willys-Knight or a Buick. The highway worker said the car was traveling fast and away from one side of the road to the other.

Another report said that a large man driving a big car had picked the men up north of Bonanza where the bandits left the stolen car.

Deputy Sheriff Cy Combest said that he halted a man driving a large Buick with California license P or D 1879 but that the man speeded up and did not stop. Officers traced the car and found that the driver was a salesman who thought he was being held up.

Car Remembered

Bonanza people related after the robbery that they had seen the stolen car being driven about Bonanza streets at about 10 a. m. and the robbery did not take place until 1:55 p. m.

Two men who were standing in front of the bank when the bandits entered said that they thought the bandits were just talking to the bank officials.

From the time of the robbery officers of the state police from Klamath Falls, deputy sheriffs and citizens combed the country around Bonanza, and guarded roads.

An unlicensed small coupe in which two roughly dressed men were riding entered Bonanza from the east a short time after the robbery and asked a storekeeper for a gun saying they wished to help hunt the bandits. They left, headed toward Klamath Falls.

A small coupe was reported to police as stolen a few days ago.

Barnes First Theory

John Horn, vice president of the bank, said today that approximately $4000 was taken by the holdup men. He discounted later a report that as much as $5200 was lost.

Since Policeman Marion Barnes was the first to reach the abandoned car of the bandits. He took the distributor from the car. The road scraper operator reported that the bandits must have turned over onto the new Lakewiew highway from the old cut back toward Dalry.

Dairy reported that the car did not go through there. Following the clue Deputy Sheriff Ross Brown followed the Hildebrand road, Young's market road to the old Lakewiew highway and traced the holdup men by reports along the north side of Pop Valley road to the place where it joins the Lost River road.

After following tracks reports toward Klamath Falls on that road Brown lost track of the reported car near the Rex Board ranch, east of Olena.

Deputy Nearly Run Over

State police and deputy sheriffs believe that the holdup men have been in this section for some time to know the roads as well as they appeared to know them and follow them, and from the Deputy Sheriff Cy Combest, manner in which they acted, who was nearly run over by the bandit car as it sped away from the bank, but who was unarmed, was sprinkled with gravel by shots fired by Dewey Horn, president of the bank. Combest states that he could identify the bandits. Combest was helping to move a gasoline engine at the time of the hold-up, and was not armed.

Believed Desperate

Citizens and business men have been warned to notify officers when suspicious looking men or women attempt to cash any large amounts of money or show a large amount.

Some officers believe that the men are desperate, and will shoot Horn had reported that the smaller bandit, who continually swore to officers attempt to arrest them during the hold-up, was drunk, and officers believe that the men may be trapped in that manner or give away their identity.

Officers are following all possible clues in the attempt to catch the daring bandits, who entered the bank without masks; forced President Dewey Horn to open the vault and the safe, made the president's father, John Horn, and Sarah Pooie, assistant cashier, lie face down on the floor until they could get to the stolen car and escape.

Story of Slaying Told by Beckley

wives and of worse acquaintances among his belongings. Frequent quarrels resulted. He said his step-daughter, Margare Clutter, joined with the mother in the "abuse."

He said they refused to do the housework and made him prepare his own meals while they stood around and jeered at his efforts. He said his wife hid the silverware and made him use battered utensils, knives and forks.

On July 2, he said, he prepared his own breakfast and went to the fields to cut hay. His wife and step-daughter went out to pick berries. He carried a small rifle, he said, with which to shoot rodents. During the afternoon he came upon the two women. He testified they declared they were going to leave home. He said he became angry over "continued abuse" and shouted "I'm going and I'm going to take you both with me."

He testified Mrs. Beckley turned to the girl and said "don't be afraid—he's too big a coward to do anything like that."

Then Beckley shot. His wife died first. The girl flew at him and he shot her, too.

He went to his house, he said, got coverings for the bodies and returned to take his own life. But then he decided, he testified, to see his mother first at Klamath Falls. He drove to that city where the next day he shot himself, inflicting injuries which it was first believed would be fatal.

On cross-examination Beckley said that before leaving for Klamath Falls he destroyed several papers including a note for $4,000 his father owed Mrs. Beckley.

Price Stability Held Vital Need

decline may be attributed to changes in the effective supply of money.

Since the price of gold is fixed by law, the change in the supply of gold and the demand for it are reflected in the price of other commodities, he said. Some of the measures to be submitted to congress will not only direct the reserve system to stabilize the purchasing power of money but to do it on a price level substantially higher than the present deflated level, Mr. Gregory said.

At last night's session, Louis J. Taber, national master, declared that the federal farm board attempted to stabilize wheat prices for the benefit of banks rather than farmers. Addressing C. B. Demman, member of the farm board, who also was a speaker, Mr. Taber said:

"I am not blaming you nor criticizing you but the fact is that rural America has been too modest in protecting the farmers' interest and too silent when their interests were getting theirs."

Dr. Demman's address concerned the part the farm board was playing in fostering co-operative enterprises among farmers. He told the grangers farmers must learn to cooperate among themselves and he urged the farmers to fight for the "inherent right" to market their products cooperatively.

More than 3,000 members of the grange were given the seventh degree, highest in grange ritualism, today. The conferring was in charge of the assembly of Demeter with Charles M. Gardner, Springfield, Mass., as high priest.

The fifth or Pomona degree was conferred upon many members of the organization this morning and later the officers of the Wisconsin State Grange, headed by State Master Herman Hilde of Neenah, bestowed the sixth degree.

Various resolutions were submitted today and are expected to be reported out by committee early next week. S. G. Goss, Seattle, master of the Washington State Grange and chairman of the executive committee of the National Grange introduced one for increased federal income and inheritance taxes.

It calls attention to the national deficit and opposes proposals to balance the budget by the issuance of bonds or by a sales tax. It suggests the levy of additional taxes on the principle of "ability to pay or benefits received."

Goss also sponsored a resolution asking for a federal old age pension system under which every person receiving any income of any nature will contribute a percentage sufficient to establish a fund so that all persons having reached the age of 65 years shall receive a uniform monthly stipend sufficient to meet the necessities of life.

Charles C. Hulet, master of the Oregon State Grange, introduced a resolution calling for the drafting of wealth as well as man power in time of war.

Fugitives Caught By Fingerprints

SALEM, Ore., Nov. 13. (UP)—Almost 1,900 fugitives from justice were caught in this country during the last fiscal year as result of fingerprint identification work. Federal officials report 4,848 convictions, carrying a total of 5,647 years imprisonment and more than $300,000 in fines.

Oregon state police contribute to records of the federal bureau through monthly reports gathered and tabulated according to recommendations of the justice department, Assistant Superintendent Harry Niles said.

Dolan Scheduled To Referee Game

Sam Dolan of Eugene will referee his second football game in Day, when Bend plays the Pelican Klamath Falls on Thanksgiving day here. The game is called at 1 o'clock, so that it will not interfere with the annual Thanksgiving dinner.

AUTHORITY LACKS FOR MERGER PLAN

SALEM, Nov. 13. (AP)—The state board of control has no authority under the statute to merge the physical properties of the Oregon state school for the blind at Salem and the Oregon employment institution for the blind at Portland, an opinion rendered today to Governor Julius L. Meier by Attorney General L. I. H. Van Winkle stated.

The board recently combined the management of the two institutions under one head, and it was understood consideration was likewise given to merging the physical plants. No opinion was requested on the legality of the administrative merger, which was effected by the board. Walter C. Dry of Salem is in charge of both institutions.

Van Winkle held that the state laws do not include power to the board to move any of the institutions or to consolidate them with other institutions.

In another opinion Van Winkle ruled that the county court has a right to include in its budget items for stenographic assistance and other expenses incurred by the district attorney if it so desires, even though the district attorney is a state officer. The question was asked by District Attorney Earl A. Nott of Yamhill county.

Palaces Repaired

It was understood that plans for an imperial restoration at Mukden, where a new administration, under Japanese auspices, was installed earlier this week, are far advanced. Repairs are being made to the palace, it was learned here, under the direction of a group of Manchurian elders who went there recently.

The former emperor's uncle, Prince Kung, known as Pu Wei, who refused to accept the abdication of the dynasty a decade ago, recently went to Dairin, swearing not to leave until he became premier of Mukden through a restoration.

When the matter was broached last month the former emperor was reported to have said he had no desire to go to Mukden to become a Japanese puppet.

He expected a note of thanks from the Nanking government, however, for his resistance to the Japanese suggestion last month. The government has been silent.

Many monarchists favored a restoration under any circumstances, believing that the influx of foreign capital would curb the Japanese power.

ties and need for new markets and a discussion of new developments in machinery and manufacturing methods.

At 6:30 the manufacturers will enjoy a cabaret dinner at the hotel.

J. N. White is chairman of the meeting, and A. H. Gordon is secretary. No final decisions will be arrived at today and tomorrow's session will be closed to all but members of the association.

The box manufacturers present are from the states of California, Oregon and Washington, and represent the majority of the manufacturers on the Pacific Coast.

The sessions are held to arrive at the best methods of improving business, increasing sales, lowering production costs and of generally benefiting the industry.

the old superstition which lingers as one of the ancient human follies, and in many hotels there are no rooms or floors numbered 13.

On the other hand, there are many who take the opposite viewpoint, declaring that the figure 13 is for them a lucky omen, and deliberately flaunt the number before the eyes of the quaking superstitious.

But after this Friday, the 13th, those who regard it as a day for anything to happen, may draw a long breath and be at peace until next May, which contains the only Friday in 1932 to come on the 13th, whereas in this past year there were three such days, one in February, one in March and today.

JAP TROOPS THROWN BACK IN STRUGGLE

concentrated 20,000 Chinese troops between Taitshar and the Nonni river bridge with a strong front line half way between the bridge and the Chinese Eastern railway.

Cavalry Active

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Nov. 13. (AP)—The Japanese military intelligence bureau reported today that a large force of Chinese cavalry has practically enveloped the Japanese right wing in a battle at the Nonni river and that the Japanese position and communications are seriously endangered.

Japanese headquarters said that their detachment had not yet been reinforced, however, although four infantry companies are held in readiness at Cheng-chai.

Meanwhile additional Chinese troops have been arriving in the Taitshar region and the Japanese claim to have intercepted orders from General Mah instructing one of his cavalry commanders to attack at Taonan in an attempt to cut off the railway and prevent further supplies reaching the Japanese.

Washington Hopeful

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. (AP)—Washington sees a promise of brighter skies over war-clouded Manchuria, although officials here realize the complete restoration of peace may be a tedious process.

Secretary Stimson said today his official dispatches did not bear out unofficial reports of recent serious fighting.

Much faith is placed in next week's conference in Paris, where Japanese and Chinese representatives will consult under League of Nations auspices, with American Ambassador Charles G. Dawes present.

The possibility that Dawes may play an important role for peace was discussed at today's cabinet meeting.

Hunters Awaiting Season's Opening

according to H. M. Worcester, federal game protector. The largest Canada goose is included in the open season; the small Canada goose, known as the Cackler, is closed; the Hutchins goose is also open, and the lesser white goose, known as the Lesser Snow, is open, while the Ross white goose is closed to hunters.

There is a good deal of confusion resulting from restrictions placed on some varieties of geese which differ but little from those that may be shot.

The U. S. Biological Survey is anxious to have all bands found on ducks sent into headquarters in Washington this year. Owing to the scarcity of migratory birds, the department is anxious to keep a careful check, and asks that all hunters comply with this request. The bands may be sent to H. M. Worcester at Merrill if more convenient for local sportsmen.

Damage Case Goes To Jury Today

The case of Thurman vs. John and Edward Bruner went to the jury at 11 o'clock this morning, and at 2:30 this afternoon the verdict was still deliberating.

Thurman asks for $15,000 for alleged personal injuries sustained when he was struck by a truck belonging to the Bruners who operate the Home Bakery.

Closing arguments to the jury were made Friday morning by David P. Vandenberg, plaintiff's attorney; Ralph W. Horan, defense counsel, and Henry E. Perkins, who summed up the case for the plaintiff.

Anti-Fag Bill Is Started By Atchley

SALEM, Nov. 13. —An initiative petition for an anti-cigarette bill was filed with the secretary of state by E. F. Atchley of Portland. It was announced today. The measure, similar to the one defeated by the voters last year, calls for prevention of the manufacture, importation, possession, advertising and sale of any cigarettes in the state. Atchley also filed the 1930 initiative.

The measure was submitted to the attorney general for a ballot title. Signatures of 17,088 voters must be secured before next July to place the bill on the ballot.

$82,000 Payroll Taken by Robbers In National Bank

RAHWAY, N. J., Nov. 13. (AP)—Five robbers today escaped from the Citizens National bank with $82,000 payroll of Gibbs and Hills, Inc., after threatening a dozen customers and bank clerks.

The robbers, all armed, disappeared in a black sedan a few moments after taking a registered mail pouch containing the money from J. H. Farrell, paymaster of the company which employs several hundred men engaged in electrification work of the Pennsylvania railroad in this section.

The oldest attempt at keeping weather reports is said to have been made in 1844 by a minister, in what is now Wilmington, Del.
