Local Soothsayers Dope Scores for Oregon Oregon State Battle Saturday

By JOE FIGNEY

The civil war battle at Eugene Saturday has been won and lost a dozen times by each team...

The Dope the state authorities and enjoy a free ride to the nut-house.

Leslie Averb is a football coach and he should know exactly what he is talking about...

Otto Vitus, who used to crack the Oregon State line a few years ago as an Oregon halfback, likes the Webfoots...

Frank Johnson has a pair of old shoes he will give anyone who can prove Oregon State won't win, 21 to 7.

Arundel Keane says the Beavers by a couple of touchdowns, 21 to 6.

Pervey Murray chooses the Oraves, 14 to 6.

Ben Wood, one of those fellows who went to Oregon State when it was called Oregon Agricultural college, gives a 12 to 7 vote for the Orangemen.

Mac Knealy, a journalist and journalista are proverbially ignorant—chucked in an ugly fashion when someone mentioned an Oregon State victory...

Al Sinclair, captain of the 1931 Oregon team, hid out when he heard there was a canvasser making the rounds...

Lee Jacobs, the sage of Spring street, scratched his thinning hair, pulled his mustache and cried, "Oregon State, 19 to 13. Lee's an Oregon man, too!"

Henry Joyant, stronger on post-mortems than predictions, thinks Oregon will wipe out the State, 12 to 0.

Chief of Police Guy Merrill declared very emphatically he would bet his best gat on Oregon State, 14 to 6.

Bill Elliott, ex-Klamath Falls fight promoter, is a cautious fellow when it comes to picking winners...

Herb Hemingsen snapped his fingers and actually shouted, "Hurrah for Oregon. It is a 6 to 0 cinch."

Jim Driscoll was quite positive of an Oregon victory, 7 to 0.

Bob Galloway, another ignorant scribe, has a peculiar notion the Webfoots have the right end of a 15 to 13 score.

Andy Collier is for Oregon, 14 to 7. Andy would bet!

Paul Schuur is devoted to Oregon to the extent of 7 to 0.

George Schaefer, who always thinks Stanford will win—and still thinks so—said he was going up to Eugene to see the game, "Stanford, er—I mean Oregon," will win, 13 to 6.

Marcus Schneiderman, who called the Oregon-U. S. C. game within three points of the score, would bet his business on Oregon State, 12 to 0.

The writer of this column still has use for the only pair of socks he possesses, and can't afford to volunteer a prediction.

Oregon, Washington To Settle Titles

OLD RIVALRY TO PLAY SATURDAY IN HARD GAMES

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13, (AP)—Two games to decide state honors in Oregon and Washington, two conference clashes of minor importance and a "breather" comprise the Pacific coast conference football program tomorrow.

Old rivals clash for state honors when Washington State and University of Washington line up at Seattle, and Oregon State and University of Oregon at Eugene, home of the latter. All four teams are out of conference title running but close fights are expected on the basis of the sectional honors at stake.

Beavers Face Idaho Of the "Big Three" of the conference, California faces the hardest task in whipping Idaho. The Vandals lost 9 to 3 to Washington State, a team California defeated by a lone touchdown.

Cards Play Nevada Stanford looks forward to an easy day against University of Nevada in a non-conference game at Stanford.

Spears Cheerful As Last Practice Held EUGENE, Ore., Nov. 13, (AP)—Only light signal drills were on the program today for the University of Oregon Webfoots who renew their annual football feud with Oregon State college in a homecoming game here Saturday.

Homecoming alumni, who began arriving here yesterday, were not quick in choosing a favorite. The two rival teams were considered even in the line but some gave Oregon State a slight edge in the backfield.

The battle here Saturday not only will be the "Big Game" of the season for the two teams but will decide which team shall play the University of Utah at Portland December 5 in a post-season charity game.

CARNEGIE TECH COACH TO QUIT AT YEAR'S END

By WILLIAM WEEKES (Associated Press Sports Writer) CHICAGO, Nov. 13, (UP)—Judge Walter P. Steffen, Carnegie Tech's "commuting" football coach, will join the "second-guessers" at the end of the 1931 gridiron season.

Steffen, who for 18 seasons has directed the Skibos in battle, last night announced, at the University of Chicago's annual football banquet, that he would resign at the end of the campaign.

Is Tough Game "Football coaching is a tough game," said Steffen, who has hurried out of Chicago for Pittsburgh, or wherever Carnegie was scheduled to play, on Friday night before games.

Steffen has served as a Cook county circuit judge since 1923 and his present term will expire in 1934.

He played his football at the University of Chicago in 1906-07-08 under Amos Alonzo Stagg, and was named on the late Walter Camp's All-American team in his last two seasons.

Two victories over Notre Dame were the high spots of Steffen's career at Carnegie Tech. In 1925, while the late Knute Rockne sat in Soldier Field watching Army and Navy play their thrilling 21-21 tie, a well-favored Notre Dame team went to Pittsburgh and took a stunning 19 to 0 beating.

Stanford Team of '94 Dines With President Hoover and Returns to Play Net Ball

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13, (AP)—The football team of Leland Stanford '94 switched its game to medicine ball today and pined President Hoover in his morning exercises on the south lawn of the White House.

So thoroughly did the President and the team help manage enjoy their reunion last night, that Mr. Hoover's parting words were an invitation to return, and most of them did, within eight hours after they departed near midnight.

Dinner Quiet Affair The President's gridiron dinner turned out to be a quiet but pleasant affair. There were no cheers or songs.

But its keynote was a turning back of music and conversation to the college days of the '90's, and those who attended said Mr. Hoover made a "good listener" and seemed to "particularly enjoy" the whole affair.

In all, 15 members of the team returned to sit about an oval table in the state dining room of the executive mansion, decorated with Stanford's colors of red and white, and swap tales of their football days.

Won Championship The men now bankers, doctors, lawyers, engineer, author and rancher, but who won for Stanford in 1904 the football championship of the west, came from east, west and south to attend.

Although dinner was not scheduled until 8 o'clock last night, greatest eleven went to South Bend to defeat the Irish, 27 to 7. The defeat wrecked a highly-prized Notre Dame tradition, for it was his first and only defeat on Old Carter field.

Eastern Teams Play Saturday In Many Games NEW YORK, Nov. 13, (AP)—The East's football giants generally will do their arguing tomorrow among themselves, but there are a few violent for that.

It is said that 500 different kinds of material are used for the manufacture of shoes.

Mexico produced almost 25 per cent of the world's oil in 1920.

SOUTH'S TEAMS ENTER BITTER FOOTBALL FEUD

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 13, (AP)—The South has had some right smart battles in its day, but down here among the red clay hills of little Athens, they'll tell you that the football game between the University of Georgia and Tulane on Saturday is going to lay such affairs as Chickamauga and Missionary Ridge in the shade.

Apparently the good citizens of Athens are not alone in their opinion, for tonight people were pouring into town from all four directions, and in a hurry. Some 3,000 New Orleans fans are expected to arrive tomorrow.

Enthusiasm Runs High This double-dipped, double-barrelled, self-cocking, nickel-plated enthusiasm is easy to understand when you remember that the championship of the South, and possibly the national title for 1931, will be riding on the outcome of the game between the Bulldogs and Greenies.

Both Tulane and Georgia boast outstanding teams. Neither is defeated nor tied, despite impressive schedules.

Here in Athens, where the finest specimens of 100 per cent, all wool, hand woven Georgia supporters are to be found, the general opinion is that the game is an even money affair.

In the street, so to speak, we talked to Coach Harry Mehre of Georgia, and asked that very outspoken person what he thought of the game.

Coach Uncertain "To be quite frank with you," Mehre said, "I'm a trifle uncertain, and I think I have a right to be, considering that twice this season, once against Vanderbilt and once against N. Y. U., I have seen our running attack stopped cold. The only thing I can say is the right thing, and that is that my boys are in shape and are going to play the best game they know how."

But in the main the excitement will come from such outstanding sectional contests as those between Army and Pittsburgh; Harvard and Holy Cross; Syracuse and Colgate; New York University and Fordham; Cornell and Dartmouth.

It is said that 500 different kinds of material are used for the manufacture of shoes.

Mexico produced almost 25 per cent of the world's oil in 1920.
