DONCASTER, Eng.—(Saturday)—Nov. 21 (UP)—At least 17 men were killed and more than 30 injured seriously last night when a terrific explosion in the Bently Colliery mine near here was followed by fire.

The 17 bodies that had been recovered today were charred beyond recognition. Most of those injured were in a critical condition.

The mine still was burning.
 Rescue squads were impeded continuously by the flames and falling roof timbers.

The Bently colliery was one with a weekly output of 25,000

MURDER MYSTERIES BELIEVED SOLVED

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 21 (UP)— Armed with fairly definite knowledge of two murders, police and sheriff's deputies tonight believed they had uncovered a plot in which men were killed for their automobiles and personal possessions.

Gilbert Francis Collier, 51-year-old blacksmith, was held in jail facing a charge of murder, and police said he had confessed to killing George Walker, 33, and Dale Slater, 20.

Walker was believed to have been burned to death in a shack which Collier was said to have fired in Carbon canyon last night. The body of a man, burned beyond recognition, was found in the structure after the flames had been extinguished.
 Collier reportedly told police he had had a fight with Walker, knocked him out by hitting him over the head, wrapped him in a blanket and started it with gasoline and touched a match to the cloth.

MOORE WILL FILED AT CIRCUIT COURT

The will of the late Rufus Scudder Moore, Klamath county pioneer lumberman, who died here November 6, was filed in circuit court Friday. Moore left the bulk of his $375,000 estate, which includes a large amount of Klamath basin property, to his widow and other members of his immediate family.

Rufus Moore was one of the earliest settlers of the Linkville district, and was a pioneer lumberman of Klamath county. He was a native of Oregon, born in Marion county, and as a youth spent a great deal of his time surveying in southern Oregon.

He donated the city park, on Lakeshore road, to Klamath Falls. The park bears his name.
