

1932 ARRIVAL IS MARRED BY TRAGIC EVENTS

CRASH KILLS FOUR

SPRINGFIELD, Jan. 1 (AP)—The death toll in the wreck of the Cleveland-Cincinnati passenger plane rose to four today when W. D. Wieback of Cincinnati, a salesman, succumbed to injuries. Three men were dead when they were pulled from the smashed ship near here last night. The pilot remained critically injured.

Wieback died at 6 a. m. The cause of the fall was sought in an investigation by Capt. Frank McKee, state director of aeronautics, who inspected the wreckage today.

The plane, a single motor craft, en route from Cleveland to Louisville, was flying low when it went into a barrel roll, according to Lewis L. Bowen, of Louisville, the pilot and one of the injured.

The other dead: A. L. Wonnor of Cincinnati, an engineer.

Louis E. Stone, 34, of Cincinnati, personnel director of the Emory Riddle division of the American Airways.

A. C. Mayer, Jr., 28, of Louisville, merchandising manager of the General Electric company refrigeration division with headquarters at Cleveland.

FOUR KILLED

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 1 (AP)—Two young men and two girls, all of Philadelphia, were killed and one girl injured while on their way to a New Year's eve party in Delaware when their automobile was struck by a Baltimore & Ohio train at Glenolden, a suburb.

Although the accident occurred before bells rang in the New Year, positive identifications were not made until today. The dead were:

Oscar L. Davis, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania law school last June, who was driving.

Charles Danenberg, a senior in the University of Pennsylvania veterinary school.

Miss Linette Lacheen.

Miss Regina Roof.

A third young woman, Miss Rosamond Claus, is not expected to recover. Because there were three young women in the party, police believe there may have been a third man with them.

Hours after the crash, however, searchers had failed to find any additional victim.

ODD MISHAP

WATERLOO, Ohio, Jan. 1 (AP)—Fire built to make a safe a pleasant place to celebrate New Year's eve with a card game and turkey roast, caused tons of earth to crumble and crash into the lives of three men and injured two others last night.

The dead: Samuel Cooper, 62; Amos Woolum, 34; Paris Cooper, 55.

The injured: Roy, 24, and John Woolum, 21, brothers of Amos.

The Woolum brothers, with their father, George Woolum, a farmer, went to the cave to get a turkey. They gathered firewood and started a roaring fire for their party.

Awaiting the feast, five of the men went into the cave, the roof of which consisted of a rock overhanging about 20 feet, and 10 feet above the ground.

Heated by the fire, the earth and rock dried and crumbled. Standing near the cave entrance, George Woolum escaped, and spread the alarm. Amos was killed outright. Roy's feet were crushed, while Samuel Woolum escaped with only slight injuries.

SIX CHILDREN DEAD

MARYSVILLE, Mich., Jan. 1 (AP)—A working mother returned home last night to find her four children and two older children who cared for them during her absence dead in a gas-filled house.

Investigators said one of the children, too young to realize the consequences, probably had opened the jets of a gas stove, and all were overcome without knowing their peril.

The dead, four children of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen McClure, were Olive, 9; Rayfield, 7; Phyllis, 4, and Rowley, 2, and two children of Mr. and Mrs. Levi S. Earl, Martha, 16, and Shirley, 10.

Both Mr. and Mrs. McClure are employed. The Earl children were

TEX PLACE "FIXED UP"

CHICAGO, Jan. 1 (UP)—"It was a tough job, but I finally got it done," sighed Texas Gulshan last night after she had replaced all the tables and chairs that were carted from her "Planet Mars" cafe today by dry raiders.

"I thought for a while that all the New Year's eve customers would have to sit on the floor," she said, "but it really wouldn't have been so bad, because that's where most of the night club patrons land, anyway."

RESOLVED TO DIE

SEATTLE, Jan. 1 (UP)—A. K. Marinder, 35, was determined today to die before January 22.

Marinder was arrested on a forgery charge. He swallowed a slow poison. If he died before January 22 his mother will receive $22,000 in life insurance, paid up to that date. Doctors fear Marinder's wish will be fulfilled.

OLD YEAR TROUBLE ENDS

sey ended their marital difficulties today with the filing of a property settlement.

It provides that Miss Taylor, film actress, will retain her $100,000 Hollywood home, $30,000 in cash and $10,000 for her attorneys.

The couple separated last summer and Dempsey obtained a divorce in Reno. Miss Taylor filed suit for a divorce of her own, but dropped the negotiations a week ago.

LAST COUPLE TO WED

The last marriage license for the year 1931 was issued Thursday to Russell Howard, 13, and Gabrielle N. Anders, 16, both of Klamath Falls.

Three hundred and thirty-seven licenses were issued during the year, as compared to 305 of the previous year, according to County Clerk DeLag's figures.

NEW YEAR CHEER

PORTLAND, Dec. 31 (UP)—The Union Pacific Alhambra shops here will re-employ 259 workmen January 4 for three weeks on a four-day basis, Manager J. P. O'Brien announced.

Pageant Players In Year-end Party

The players who presented the Christmas pageant two Sundays at the Community Congregational church held a New Year's eve party last evening at the Community building of the church.

Proceeding the party a reel of moving pictures of the pageant was taken by Mr. Hagar of the photographic department of the Star Drug stores.

A program of games was enjoyed by the large company under the direction of the Misses Dorothy Killian, Patricia Preston and Jacqueline French. Refreshments were served by a committee as follows: Mrs. L. J. Brink, Mrs. A. G. Pearson and Mrs. Bert Hawkins.

Rev. Preston, who directed the pageant, expressed his appreciation of the fine work done by the cast and musicians, and suggested a committee be appointed to perfect a dramatic organization for the church. The following committee was appointed: Mrs. M. Terrell, Mrs. G. Bagley, Mr. F. Killian, Mr. A. G. Wilkinson, Mr. A. F. Jones.

HERE'S HOW THEY FLY

The lifting effort on an airplane is due to about one-third push from below the wing and two-thirds suction from above caused by the creation of vacuum above the wings.

KEEP IT DOWN

Losing one's temper is dangerous because the heart gallops, causing the blood to be forced to the head and brain at such speed and pressure that there is a chance of a bursting blood vessel.

POOR FARM WARD STABS TORMENTER

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 1 (AP)—A new year dawned today for Cornelius Sullivan, 32, but he met it with bewildered gaze and a saddened face. In a jail cell he told that he has stabbed George Cannel, 66, who died last night. Both lived in the county poor farm.

"I never harm anyone if I am left alone and not picked on," Sullivan said today. "The boys out at the farm will tell you. But several of them tormented me half to death and I got so I couldn't control my temper."

And he related stories of men who fly into child's rage. "They kept calling me 'booby,' 'crazy' and other 'names,' he said. "I stood it as long as I could but went too far and I began calling them 'crazy rats.'"

Yesterday Cannel taunted him. Sullivan said "I pulled out my pocket knife and flicked it at his stomach. The wound was small but fatal; Cannel died from a pleural hemorrhage. Police who investigated said Cannel bore a reputation as a quarrelsome man."

Sullivan is held on an open charge pending investigation by the county grand jury.

by the Japanese, were advancing on the city from the northeast.

The already terror-stricken population feared a reign of unrelenting looting and disorder.

Communication with the east was broken, and it was impossible to ascertain the conditions in the areas recently occupied by the Japanese army.

Complete confusion reigned in the railway yards as fleeing civilians, including large numbers of women and children, sought to escape for the east, believing every train would be the last before the Japanese occupy the city.

ters and parcels. Business will be resumed again Saturday.

The Haines golf and country club was the scene of one of the most joyous celebrations of New Year's eve Friday.

Members of the Elks lodge and their friends gathered at the Elks temple where a dance was in progress until after midnight.

Dance Draws The Veterans of Foreign Wars dance carnival at the fairgrounds exhibit building drew a large crowd. Favors were distributed among the guests.

The Lake Lake American Legion dance at the Merrill community hall was also well attended, as was the annual New Year's eve carnival dance at Main.

Bomb Plot Strikes Widespread Terror

Detectives William Schoemaker as being powerful enough to wreck a whole city block. It was taken by police to an outlying stone quarry where it was exploded by rifle bullets.

Other apparently intended victims were: Giuseppe Castruccio, Italian consul, Chicago; "Tony Masillo" to whom a package was sent in care of the Associated Press, Chicago; Count Ugo Beral Casini, Detroit Italian vice-consul; Count Cesare Buzzi Grandinico, Italian consul at Cleveland; and Dr. A. Hiasappe, Italian consular agent at Youngstown.

The package addressed to "Tony Masillo" at the Associated Press in Chicago and that directed to the Chicago Italian consul are to be fired at today to see if they too contain explosives.

There is no such person as "Masillo" on the rolls of the Associated Press whose offices are situated in the Ashland building, which also houses the headquarters of several Italian organizations, including the Italian chamber of commerce and the Unione Siciliana.

Like the bomb sent to Durante in Chicago, those in Cleveland and Youngstown were exploded by the police with rifle bullets, with results that indicated they were not so powerful.

The Detroit package, also believed to have contained an infernal machine, was intercepted shortly after it was delivered to the hotel residence of the vice-consul.

All of the bombs, except that addressed to "Masillo" in Chicago, were sent by express from New York, and Postal Inspector Harry E. Getchel at Easton said he had been informed that four other packages suspected of containing explosives, were expressed from New York to Cleveland in addition to the one found in the Ohio metropolis yesterday.

He was unable, however, to give the addresses to which they were dispatched. The "Masillo" package was mailed from Chicago.

Rail Construction Best News Story During Past Year

street marked the second "biggest" news story of the year. Bank robberies contributed to the sensationalism of 1931. January 20 the bank of Chiloquin was held up by a masked bandit and robbed of $4,000. Three days later F. B. Stout, ex-manager of the Oregon Woolen Mills store at Chiloquin, and Nichols, cashier of the bank, were captured as accomplices in the robbery.

November 17 the Bank of Bonanza was robbed of approximately $5,000 in one of the most daring hold-ups in the history of the region. Several days later two youth were taken in Sacramento, and then a third alleged accomplice was captured in Klamath Falls. The fourth man escaped.

The gruesome death of Pearl McGinnis, registering at the Willard hotel, February 29, as Lottie Mason, stunned the city with the horror of suicide. McGinnis, in a fit of violent insanity, slashed herself to pieces in the hotel room.

One of the most outstanding of a series of shootings occurred here March 31 when Joe Swindler was believed shot by his wife, Letha, who afterwards attempted suicide by suicide. Swindler was charged with murder and then acquitted May 16.

The death of Russell Fogg on the desolate sheep ranges near Bonanza recalled the days of the old west. Fogg was shot by Fred Morrow over a wage dispute. Morrow was released by the grand jury which declared the shooting self-defense.

The development of the Shasta-Cascade Wonderland Association this fall was one of the most important projects in the tourist trade.

Throughout the latter part of 1931 the question of city and county taxation was in the front. Other stories of major proportions here were:

Suicide of Nina Hanson, 26, to avoid arrest by prohibition officers, May 2.

May 29—Assurance by Weyerhaeuser company of a perpetual lumber industry in Klamath Falls.

June 1—Lena Smith shot in scuffle with her husband, N. T. Smith. Smith was charged with murder and then released.

August—Forest fires swept timber area.

November—Ranger Roy Beamer attacked by thugs at Cascade Summit.

Completion and dedication of Federal building.

Death of Robert Chayne at Redding in accident following meeting of Wonderland Association.

Death of Rufus Moore, Klamath county pioneer.

Main road placed on 1932 road slate.

Start of heavy winter season. Tale Lake leases.

Organization of Klamath county dairymen.

December 18—Michael Padoff, duck hunter, drowned in Klamath river.

Copco dam construction at Keno.

The outstanding athletic event in Klamath Falls for 1931 was the dedication of Modoc athletic field at the high school in October. The ceremonial game was won by the Pelicans from Grants Pass 22 to 12.

In city affairs of Klamath Falls the change of police chiefs last summer was of major importance in the law operations. Stanley Jones, leaving office in July, gave way to the present chief, Guy Merrill.

STEBBINS MOVED

Lester Stebbins, who was injured when his car left the highway near Grants Pass last Thursday, was moved to his home Thursday from the Hillside hospital. Although Stebbins' condition has improved, he will be confined for three more weeks.

Jan. 1, 1932

Dear Public:—

This is the year to replace and renew. Building materials have been drastically reduced, lumber prices are at low ebb, lower than they have been for fifteen years and probably lower than they will be for the next fifteen. The best of labor is available for even the smallest job.

The dollar you spend now will be the equivalent of two probably within two years and will yield high returns on your investment and will aid in the return of prosperity for all.

We have enjoyed a nice business in 1931 for which we wish to thank you. We expect to sell you even more in 1932.

Your friends,
THE SWAN LAKE MOULDING CO.
