

Pelicans Contribute Optimism

Stir Klamath Ambitions! Robin Reed Will Risk Welter Title Here! Track Plans Move Ahead

By JOE PIGNEY
1932 moves along; Klamath high contributes its share of optimism.

Two surprising victories over the powerful veteran Bend basketball team at Bend last week end, has moved the Pelicans' ambition. The Lava Bears, hailed as the most powerful foe in this district, were headed for a position in the annual state tournament at Salem late in the spring.

But Bend will be difficult again when the return series roll around and, don't forget, there still is the district tournament at the end of the season to finally determine the delegate to Salem. All Klamath's victories over Bend and the remaining teams of this conference may count for nothing if the boys drop behind at the regional play-off.

Bend's description of the Pelican-Lava Bear game probably was an accurate one: "A good little team against a good big one."

The Pelican players are big. Estes, Allen, Knight, Mayhew and McAninch are just in off the football field. Estes, Allen and Knight played in the line and the Klamath forwards had sufficient beef to carry them through to a season marred only by two defeats. Mayhew and McAninch were ball carriers.

An ancient rival from the old southern Oregon conference, Medford, will visit in Klamath Falls Friday for one of the outstanding games of the season. The Pelican five has been kept from the Salem tournament for several years just through unfortunate losses particularly to the Tigers. It probably will be a red-hot grudge feud.

Gentlemen, the world moves to Klamath Falls. The greatest middleweight wrestler in the recent history of the game, will risk his belt against Sam "Speedy" Romaine of Detroit next Monday night on Herb Owen's opening wrestling program.

This fellow Reed, publisher of the newspaper at Reedsport, started his mat work at Oregon State college. As an amateur he won the Olympic title in 1924 and then turned to a professional career.

Reed has been one of the outstanding contributors Oregon has made to world athletics, and if his opponent Monday night comes anywhere in the same class the match will be an excellent one.

The Reed-Romaine match will be supported by Pete Becker and Jimmie King in four ten-minute rounds, and "What-a-Man" O'Reilly, University of Oregon boy, against Curly Dutton, Seattle.

Owen has gone ahead with plans to improve the Legion hall for athletic cards in the future. For the Reed match the ring will be raised one foot to give the spectators a better view of the belt-risking appearance. Two-hundred-and-fifty seats probably will be added to the Legion capacity.

The 20-30 club, a civic organization, has been striding ahead for its southern Oregon interscholastic track carnival on Modoc field in the spring. The meet, an invitational affair, will be run off similar to the annual Eastern Oregon exhibition at La Grande. A meeting has been called between the club officials and Paul Jackson, principal of the high school, for January 17 when further plans will be completed.

An attempt will be made to interest both the University of Oregon and Oregon State college in this permanent track meet, and Hugh Rossen, Oregon graduate manager, and Carl Lodeil, Oregon State, may be in the city Sunday, to talk the thing over.

Fight Card Introduces Owen to Klamath Falls

YOUNG SNELL TAKES PRIZE WITH VICTORY

Two wee flurries of boxing impetuosity, Frankie Monroe, Klamath Falls, and Teddy Fox, Portland, danced away to a decision in the final of the three six-round fights at the Legion hall Monday night, leading off Herb Owen's first matchmaking promotion for the boxing commission. Blood, gloves, action and a suit of clothes to Young Doc Snell of Portland formally introduced the boxing regime here.

Young Doc Snell and Pete Becker of Colorado waded the fans out of any previous athletic as the moon in a cloudless sky in the past. While the Fox-Monroe match was listed as the main event, either one of the first two six-rounders took precedence in battle spirit.

Snell Has Punch
Snell, carrying serious punch from the shoulder of his 124-pound body, put the Salem twin, Buddy Ambrose, out in the fourth round. Speed and keen strategy burst out in the first round, and ended even. Snell, after slipping to the floor twice from the wasted speed of two blows, took a slight edge in the second in a whirling finish with a jabbing left hand. In the third round the Portland boy's punches began to fill up with power, and the round was his easily. Snell came up for the last round with an even more pronounced rally of speed and punches, and after reeling across the ropes, falling on his hands, the famous Salem twin was out permanently with a towel flung around his neck. Owen's prize suit of clothes was awarded Snell at the close of the program.

Becker a Veteran
Pete Becker, defeating Chief Thomas, no so wild Indian from Coquille, in the most interesting fight. This old fox, both a fighter and a wrestler, appears on the mat card next week—punched his way to victory with little or no use from an idle left hand.

Inviting the Indian to "come on and fight" in the last two rounds, the Coloradoan, who seeks to make a home in Klamath Falls, shook the Chief from the top of his black head to the tips of his shoes with strong left from north, east south and west.

Becker away and bobbed, his head pulling away from everything the Coquille native offered. It was the old story—a sly veteran against a trying youngster.

Monroe Tries
Monroe was the boy who tried in the main event, but the fight was rather an anti-climax to the preceding battle. Fox, tying up his opponent in the clinches, slowed the bout almost to monotony.

For hard work, fight and grit Johnny Jackson, Indian from down Chiloquin way, ran away with most of the popularity and he was a close second to Snell in the suit contest. Jackson, slugging close in, stopped the boxing of Mexican Johnny Garbey in the first round and then turned him into a slugger. Jackson fought his own sort of battle, took lots of punishment, but battered his way to victory.

Jack Hibbard, Klamath Falls, boxed and punched to a decision over Jerry O'Neal of Eugene in the second of the three four-round fights. O'Neal, who could only slug, lost his opportunities to win by stepping into the way of Hibbard's blows with Hibbard, a dancer, successfully evaded the Eugene man's attack. They were weary men—both of them when they ended their terrific pace.

Johnson Loses
The curtain-raiser—Butch Johnson, Chiloquin, losing a decision to Louis Nelson of Portland—was sufficiently full of pepper to start off the fast evening. Johnson—the hitter—couldn't quite move swiftly enough to run away from the clever Portlander. If gameness ever won a judge's decision, Johnson would have taken the match, but gameness wasn't enough to destroy the well-earned triumph by Nelson.

A bad snow storm cut into the attendance at the Legion hall, but reduced prices and the promise of an excellent entertainment boosted Herb Owen's first house above par.

Roush Released By Cincinnati, Will Quit Game

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 12. (AP)—Eddie Roush, for years one of the National league's most brilliant outfielders and a former batting champion, was given his unconditional release today by the Cincinnati Reds.

Roush, who formerly played with the New York Giants, said he is through with baseball. He announced he would make no effort to join either a major or minor league club.

The veteran outfielder, who tried to come back last year after a season's idleness, was offered a contract yesterday if he would accept a utility role.

"I appreciate your offer," Roush told Sidney Weil, president of the Reds, "but I know the situation. You don't need me half as badly as you need younger players and I will step aside accordingly."

Roush was at his peak in 1919 as a member of the world's champion Reds.

HOLDOUT WAR CERTAIN WITH PAY CUTS DUE

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
NEW YORK, Jan. 12. (AP)—Hazing judgment upon the first new slashes at the major league payrolls for 1932, the whirl cry of the holdout will be heard this winter from coast to coast.

The full extent of the "bad news," arising from the sharp retrenchment program of club owners, has just begun to circulate. Hack Wilson, the 1930 home run king who was paid $33,000 last year by the Cubs, has been offered a cut in excess of 75 per cent. Bill Terry, who was the National league batting champion and runner-up in 1931, has been asked to accept a 40 per cent reduction.

The rejection of both offers means that the warfare is on between the magnates and their high-salaried performers.

Altogether it is figured the 16 major league clubs will slash $1,000,000 or more from their salary lists. The amounts per club may vary anywhere from $40,000 to $100,000 on the basis of information furnished to The Associated Press. Reduction of the player limit from 25 to 23 will help in this process.

"There will be a general cut among the higher-priced players," Clark Griffith, president of the Washington club, said today. "I do not wish to set any figure or name individuals but the slash will be general among the highest paid men. There might, however, be some raises among lower-priced players if I feel their efforts last year justified it."

Only One Man Signed
Griffith voices the general attitude of the magnates. Only one Washington player, outfielder Dave Harris, so far has been re-signed as a sign of 1932. He said he accepted the same salary as last year.

The Brooklyn club probably will do its slashing on a wholesale basis. Included in the process will be Darry Vance, who got $23,000 for winning only 11 games last year; Babe Herman, who received $19,000 for hitting .313; Glenn Wright, out much of the year; Johnny Frederick, Babe Phelps and Lefty O'Doul.

Among the players whose expectations are that Frank Hoan, Freddie Lindstrom and Hughie Critz, in addition to Terry, will be asked to take big cuts.

Babe Wants $80,000
The Yankees have not yet aired any contract difficulties. Babe Ruth will put up an argument before he accepts less than $80,000 for this year although the big fellow might jump at a chance to sign for two years at $70,000.

With Burleigh Grimes traded and Hack Wilson's figures whitened down, the world champion Cardinals have only one really high-salaried star left. He is Captain Frankie Frisch, reputed to get between $17,000 and $20,000. Frisch may not be asked to take a cut. Peter Reiser, Ernie Lombardi and Bill Hallahan all appear due for boosts on the basis of 1931 performances.

Around Pittsburgh the reports are that the salary axe may fall on Paul Waner, who got approximately $15,000 last year; Ray Chapman, who got $12,000; and Ervin Brame, pitcher, who drew $9,000.

Chicago Cubs' checks fall heavily upon some members of the pitching staff, including Pat Malone and Charley Root, who hit 25. The Trojans won the first game, Saturday night.

U. S. C. led most of the way tonight, the biggest margin being in the second half when the Trojans held a 25 to 16 lead before California rallied to close the gap.

Denny To Tigers

Denny Carroll, for 22 years trainer of the San Francisco baseball club, who has signed to train the Detroit Tigers. Carroll is credited with some remarkable cures of ailing arms and legs among celebrated players.

Cougars Beat Oregon, Lead In Standings

PULLMAN, Wash. Jan. 12. (UP)—Washington State took the lead in standings last night when the Cougar hoopers opened their conference season with a 33-18 victory over University of Oregon.

The Cougars went into the lead after a few minutes of play and was never headed. The half-time score was 14-10. They continued dazzling basket shooting and close defensive checking well into the second half. There, with the score 28-15, they stalled under orders from Jack Friel.

Holsten, Cougar forward, starred with 12 markers. Gordon tallied nine at center. Robertson and Roberts scored six points each and played well for Oregon.

California Drops Game to Trojans

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12. (UP)—University of Southern California made it two straight over California last night, winning a hard-fought basketball game, 29 to 25. The Trojans won the first game, Saturday night.

U. S. C. led most of the way tonight, the biggest margin being in the second half when the Trojans held a 25 to 16 lead before California rallied to close the gap.

SMITH VICTOR IN GOLF PLAY AT L. A. OPEN

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12. (UP)—LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11. (UP)—MacDonald Smith, state of New York professional, turned back a field of the country's brilliant golfers Monday to win the Los Angeles open tournament for the third time.

Smith took a lead in the first round of the $7,500 event and never lost it, finishing the last 18 holes of the 36-hole gring with a 72 for a total of 281.

Wins $2000
This gave him a four-stroke advantage over a flock of good professionals who followed him closely to the finish line but never could catch up.

By virtue of his win, Smith took first money of $2000.

Tied for second place with $55, were Joe Kirkwood, Chicago trick shot specialist; Leo Diegel, of Agua Caliente; Dick Metz of San Angelo, Texas, and Olin Dutra, of Santa Monica.

Going into the last nine, Diegel, Dutra and Kirkwood all had a theoretical chance to overtake Smith, but they couldn't make it.

Stars in Row
Right behind these men at 286 were Joe Kirkwood, more nationally known players, Abe Eppinson of Chicago, Gene Sarazen of New Port Riche, Fla., Clarence Clark of Belleville, N. Y., and Ralph Guldahl of Detroit.

Other favorites were scattered far and near.

Walter Hagen, always a favorite here, took a 71 on the final 18 for a total of 288. Whiffy Cox of Brooklyn, winner of the recent San Francisco open, could do no better than 294.

Still farther back was Harry Cooper, winner of the 1932 Pasadena open. He had a 296.

Ed Dudley, the defending champion, finished in the same bracket with Cooper. Dudley never did get his clubs working just right and he finished off with a 76 that put him way out of the money.

MacKenzie Finishes High
George Von Elm finished with a 297.

Best of all the amateurs was Roland MacKenzie of Washington, although Charles Seaver, Los Angeles, had to stumble badly to give him the honors. Seaver led the amateurs until the last round, when he took an $1 for $ 299. MacKenzie got in in 291.

New Sox Coach

A business man who has been away from major league baseball several years is coming back next spring to see what he can do with Lew Fonseca about making the Chicago White Sox a pennant contender. The fellow is Bill Cunningham, above, former outfielder with the New York Giants. Bill is a San Franciscan and an old crony of Fonseca's. Wait, here's luck, Bill!

COAST PLAYERS TO GET MAJOR TRIALS

CHICAGO, Jan. 12. (UP)—Many promising recruits will be given tryouts by the American league during the spring training season which opens next month, and there is a possibility that every club will have at least one rookie in a regular berth.

Sixty-seven rookies were gathered from the minor leagues by the eight American league clubs during the winter, but some of them already have been dispatched to minors without trials.

The New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians seem to have picked up the most promising youngsters. The Yankees and Indians each have seven rookies who promise to remain in the majors.

The most promising rookies on each team include:
New York: Infielder, Crossett (San Francisco);
Cleveland: Pitcher, Pearson (Oakland); Infielder, Harry White (Sacramento);
Philadelphia: Pitcher, Bowman, (Portland); outfielders, Coleman (Portland), and Johnson (Portland);
Detroit: Outfielder, Lawrence (Seattle).

But it's unlikely they'll swallow another hook without knowing there's a catch in it.

MARTIN, DUNN LEAD SHOOTERS AT GUN CLUB

J. H. Martin and C. A. Dunn carried off high honors at the trapshoot of the Klamath club Sunday at the club grounds north of Pelican City on The Dalles-California highway. Martin and Dunn each shot 49 out of a possible 50 at 16 yards.

One of the outstanding performances went to V. J. Bewley, a new shooter, who tied with Cawker, Houston and Heckman with a score of 43 for second high gun.

A. D. Legg took the lead in the doubles event with a score of 23, and J. H. Martin also broke 23 to lead in the handicapped.

Penniless Transient Finds Football Pads; Searches for Owner

Diogenes and his searching lantern might find at least one honest man in Klamath Falls—and that is Jimmy Usher.

A transient, hungry, homeless and without a nickel, with only his name, Jimmy Usher, to claim as his own, walked into the police station Monday afternoon with a pair of football shoulder-pads that he had found and wished to return to the owner.

They were found on South Sixth street, between Main and Klamath. Instead of pawing them and obtaining the money, Usher wanted to return them to the owner.

Usher is staying at the Salvation Army headquarters on Walnut street.
