

City's Social Activities of Pre-Spring Start with Many Informal Parties

Joy M. Evans, Society Editor

The pre-spring social season, when hostesses turn to the daintiness of pastel colors, and daffodils and sweet peas are favored, opened during the past week with the card party sponsored by the Women's Library club, the bridge luncheon which complimented the ladies of Kiwanis, and announcements of several weddings leading in the society news.

Numerous bridge and dancing parties were given throughout the city, and the announcement of the coming marriage of Miss Nancy Richardson, of Portland, and Mr. Thomas Canning, of this city, was received by friends.

Outstanding among the social affairs of the past week was the bridge luncheon, Thursday afternoon, at the Episcopal parish house, when ladies of the Kiwanis were entertained by ladies of the Lions club.

There were sixteen tables for luncheon and thirteen tables of bridge were in play throughout the afternoon. High score was awarded Mrs. Claude Davis, second high to Mrs. D. E. Van Vleet, and consolation going to Mrs. Fred Peterson.

During the luncheon hour, Mrs. J. C. O'Neill entertained with two violin numbers, "Trees" by Rasbach and "Schon Rosamunde" by Fritz Kreisler; Mr. Grant Hess, accompanied by Mr. Dewey Brown, on the piano, sang three popular selections, "Shine On Harvest Moon," "Little Mary Brown" and "Goodnight Sweetheart."

Two vocal selections were sung by Mrs. George McIntyre, "God Touches the Rose" by Brown, and "Love on the Highway" by Rogers.

The room was lighted by tapers and candles and colors of yellow and green predominated. Mrs. John M. Glover was in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Walter LaSette presided over two tables of bridge at her home in the Marion apartments, Friday evening. High score went to Miss Asafoot Frisard and low to Miss Mildred Widmer. Refreshments were served at midnight.

Guests were Misses Hazel Leonard, Gladys Rice, Mildred Beeson, Isabelle Silver, Asafoot Frisard, Dorothy Jensen, Mildred Widmer and Laura Pierce.

MEDFORD GUEST IS COMFORTED

Complimenting Miss Ethel Williams, who is visiting in the city from Medford, Miss Grace Skinner entertained with three tables of bridge at her home in the Evans apartments, Thursday evening.
