

FORD REPORTS DONATIONS TO ARMY RELIEF

Ensign Clarence Ford of the Salvation Army reported Thursday that a large number of donations to carry on the army's relief work have been made in the past few weeks.

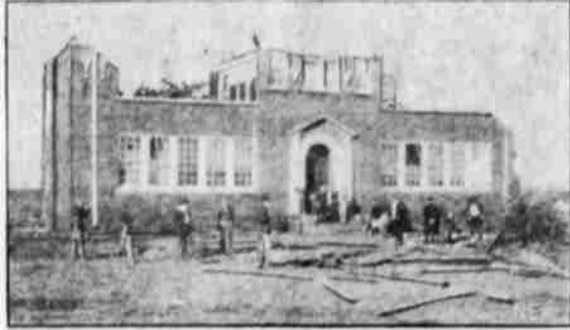

The "hello girls," traffic division of the local telephone company's voluntarily gave $15.75; the Klamath rate donated groceries and provisions to assist in feeding transients; the Better Baking company, Falls Bakery and the Pelican City bakery and Mr. Smith of the Smith Tire shop gave bread for hundreds of families and transients; W. C. Dalton, Mallie; Mr. Bishop, Fort Klamath and H. E. Alexander of Klamath Falls and many others, have donated quantities of meat. The California Oregon Power company recently donated $100 and light and water to the local army work. C. H. Duggest of the Ewanna box company donated $150 and a supply of lumber for the relief department. The Golden Rule store, as the result of a recent campaign, donated $200 and P. W. Vanice, manager, personally donated $100 for the work of the Salvation Army.

Among others who have given donations toward the relief work have been the Community Relief club of Fair Acres, who made nine quilts from old clothing, and Lee Jacobs of the Mason Khrman company who gave over $50 worth of groceries. The Westhouser Timber company, through H. H. Macartney and Jackson Kimball, have given the Salvation Army large amounts of wood most of which has been given to needy families.

After Southern Tornadoes Took 21 Lives

These pictures show the wreckage left by tornadoes which tore through Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee taking a toll of 21 dead, 150 injured and thousands of dollars in property damage. The upper picture shows how a home at Hamilton, Miss., was razed. Children at Mountainville, Ala., received an enforced holiday when the $40,000 grammar school was badly wrecked, as shown in the lower picture.

The Rotary club donated $50, with promise of more later if needed. Andrew Collier, chairman of the army's advisory board, donated liberally to assist in carrying on the relief program.

Janitors, bus drivers and cooks of the Klamath Union high school each donated a day's wage to the Salvation Army. The students of the school gave over $300 worth of provisions recently.

Many others have given donations, according to Ensign Ford.

imitation of their granddaughters.

HE lived long enough to see the husbands who grumbled and growled because their wives bobbed their hair grumble and growl again when these same wives let their hair grow later on.

Thus he saw proved the undoubted fact that in their attitude toward women men are hard-boiled standpatters, resisting each change that comes along merely BECAUSE IT IS CHANGE.

Men have always been that way, and they always will be.

SPEAKING of years, Elias Arkoosh, of Gooding, Idaho, passes to his reward, whatever it may be, at the exceedingly ripe age of 113.

He himself attributed his longevity to his diet, his favorite meal consisting of TWO T-bone steaks, a head of lettuce, a handful of ripe olives and three or four oranges.

THE great livestock industry of the west has suffered immeasurable injury in the way of lost markets because of the spread of the theory that heavy meat eating is injurious to the health.

The next time you crave a ruddy, heartening steak, of the approximate area of a saddle-blanket, but hesitate because of fear of the effect, you might give thought to old Elias Arkoosh and his 113 years.

HERE, however, is another habit of old Elias that you shouldn't forget:

It was his custom to get his exercise by walking, and his walks averaged around six to eight miles per day.

If you will walk regularly six to eight miles per day, instead of taking your exercise in an easy chair, you will probably be able to get away with saddle-blanket steaks at fairly frequent intervals.

BUT we mustn't leave old Elias without one more reference. His only medicine, it is related, was castor oil, and it was his custom to consume this by the quart.

There is always a fly in the ointment. If 113 years of T-bone steaks are to be achieved only by consuming castor oil by the quart, most of us will look the grim reaper steadily in the eye and say without a quiver in our voices: "Oh, Death, where is thy sting!"

DANCE ENJOYED

Several hundred couples attended the dance at Joyland dance hall Thursday night when members of Mt. McLaughlin council acted as hosts. Money derived from the affair will be used to carry on charitable work in the Sacred Heart parish. Lecturer Frank X. Sexton and his committee were in charge.

Of course with the sympathy Chicago gives its gangsters, a banker wouldn't have much chance.

WANT A HOT TIP FOR WINTER BREAKFASTS?

ROLLED PANCAKES

1 cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon Calumet Baking Powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
1 cup milk
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons shortening, melted
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, and sugar, and mix again. Add 1/2 of milk to egg yolks, and blend. Add flour. Stir until smooth. Add remaining milk slowly, stirring to a smooth batter. Add shortening. Fold in egg whites. Bake on hot greased griddle. Spread with jelly and roll, or serve rolled around leveled oranges or lemons. Makes 6 seven-inch pancakes. All measurements are level.

ROLLED PANCAKES—fluffy, tender Calumet pancakes—wrapped around a delicious center of jelly or crisp bacon or sausage!

There's something to rave about! But remember—we said Calumet pancakes—that's important. For Calumet pancakes are truly worthy of such a dish. Evenly, delicately browned! Extra light and delicious!

The reason is simple—Calumet's Double-Action! In the mixing bowl, Calumet's first action begins. It starts the leavening. Then, on the hot griddle, Calumet's second action begins. Steadily, evenly, this new fresh rising swells through the batter and holds it light and fluffy until the griddle cake is perfectly browned and baked. And the same thing takes place in your oven, when you're making cakes or quick breads. Calumet's second action keeps raising the batter and holds it high and light—making everything turn out super-smooth and tender! Beautifully baked!

Yes, Calumet is the real baking powder bargain! A bargain—because it avoids costly failures—because it always brings top-notch success! Calumet is a product of General Foods Corporation.
