river, and a Japanese marine patrol in the Hongkong district ripped down the American flag over a school for Chinese boys.

No one at the Texaco plant was hurt, but company officials filed a protest with the American consul. They said it was only by good luck the bullets had not set fire to the oil storage tanks.

One representative of the company said some Chinese ashore had set off a bunch of firecrackers and the Japanese destroyer probably thought it was being fired upon.

Dr. John Hawk, director of property owned by the American Methodist Episcopal church south, reported Japanese marines had invaded the school for Chinese boys which the mission operates in the Hongkong district.

They ripped down the American flag, but did not molest any of the staff.

Second Visit

It was their second visit, Dr. Hawk said. Last Friday they ransacked the place, charging that quantities of anti-Japanese literature had been issued from the property. They discovered no such documents.

Wireless reports from Nanking said two Japanese cruisers and one destroyer were shelling the city while marines were put ashore. The Japanese have seven ships there. One American naval vessel and one British ship also are there.

Yesterday morning a crack division of 30,000 Chinese national guardsmen, the pick of China's fighting men, streamed into Nanking and took up positions on the city walls behind sandbag fortifications. They were equipped with German automatic rifles, and unlike many Chinese troops were well disciplined and well uniformed.

Originally these troops were intended for service here in Shanghai but with today's developments it appeared they probably would be needed to defend Nanking.

Shanghai Is 16 Hours Ahead of Klamath's Time

Since the armed conflict in Shanghai, there has been confusion in the minds of some readers of The Klamath News as to the difference in time between Shanghai and the Pacific coast. This difference in time permits The Klamath News to print on Sunday events occurring in Shanghai on Monday.

There is a difference of 16 hours in time between the coast time belt and Shanghai. The sun rises in Shanghai 16 hours before it rises in Klamath Falls. The international date line lies between the Pacific coast and Shanghai, marking the break between one day and the succeeding one.

The day is two thirds done in Shanghai when the same day dawns in Oregon.

LOCAL STUDENTS ON U. O. O PAPER

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Feb. 1—Journalistic honors have been given two Klamath Falls students at the University of Oregon during the past week. Elsie Eschebeck and Myron Ricketts have both been appointed members of the staff of the Oregon Daily Emerald, student daily newspaper, considered one of the best student papers in the country.

Miss Eschebeck held the position of general reporter on the paper last term, but only those who had proved their ability were re-named to positions on the staff by Thornton Shaw, managing editor. Miss Eschebeck is a freshman, majoring in music at the university, where she was recently elected to membership in Tau Delta Delta, underclass music honorary.

Ricketts will serve as a night editor on the Emerald. One night each week he will have entire supervision of the making up, proofreading and editing mechanical features of the paper. He is a sophomore at the University in the school of journalism.

Cold Wave Takes Grip On Klamath

Monday and Sunday yielded Klamath Falls .08 of an inch, according to the weather man. The amount was recorded up until 5 o'clock Sunday evening, after which four more inches of snow fell in the city.

22 Inches at Bly

Reports from outlying districts received at U. S. reclamation bureau offices Monday morning stated that there was 22 inches of snow on the ground near Bly, with an approximate water content of six inches. Kirk reports 4 1/2 inches on the ground and a water content of 1 1/2 inches. Heavy falls have also been reported from the mountains.

The local forecast for the next 24 hours is for clear cold weather and brisk winds. The state weather bureau in Portland issued a forecast predicting cloudy weather and light snows in the east and southwest portions of the state; continued cold, and fresh east winds off shore.

The following report was issued by the chamber of commerce.

All Klamath highways are open. New snow fell in all sections yesterday and last night. According to plowmen nine inches of snow fell on Sun Mountain last night, two inches at Chemult on the Dalles-California, and seven inches on Hayden mountain on the Greensprings route. The Lakeview-Alturas road is open. The Alturas-Redding road is also open. According to the Alturas chamber of commerce, the Alturas-Susana road is closed. The highway is plowed out beyond Fort Klamath on the Crater Lake route as far as the new ski jump.

A foot of snow is reported in Bend, with snow north of Bend and on the Wapinitia. These roads are all open. The Columbia River highway is icy. The John Day is closed today, and crews hope to have it open within a few hours, according to the Oregon State Motor association office at Bend.

The Pacific highway is somewhat icy, with considerable snow on the Siskiyou.

All highways are slippery, and not only are chains advised, but careful driving is in order.

Southern Pacific trains were on time Monday, despite the heavy snowfall, with No. 6 arriving this morning from the south only 19 minutes behind schedule. L. L. Graham, district freight and passenger agent, stated.

New Fire Engines Placed In Station

POTATO PLANTINGS TO EQUAL LAST YEAR

Preliminary reports of intentions to plant indicate that farmers throughout the nation plan to plant nearly as many potatoes in 1932 as they did in 1931. County Agent C. A. Henderson states. The early and intermediate states show a substantial decrease, but in the late states the acreage will be practically the same as last year. The 15 early and intermediate states' intentions at this time show 92.7 as much acreage as last year while the 20 late states show 100.2 of last year, or an average for all potatoes of 95.3 of the 1931 acreage, he says.

This report is made up on January 1 by various potato growers throughout the country reporting on intended acreage through the U. S. department of agriculture cooperating with the state agricultural colleges of the nation. It is so early in the season that more than likely present intentions will be changed considerably before actual planting occurs.

DUNN HIGH GUN IN SUNDAY SHOOT

C. A. Dunn was high man with 49 out of a possible 50 on the 18-yard targets shot at the Klamath Gun Club grounds in a snowstorm Sunday morning.

N. Y. Stoddard and Dunn tied for high honors in the 25 bird handicap event with 23 out of 25 targets. The event is being hotly contested and a fine radio receiving set has been put up for a trophy to the winner of the tourney. The trophy will be awarded on a shoot off May 29 and in the meantime many shooters are attempting to capture a leg on it.

W. E. Lamm was winner of the doubles with 20 out of 24 broken. Heavy snow and wind prevented better scores than were made, the shooters said.

Scores follow:

Skier's Face Frozen Hunting Lost Party

Sunday, when the Obidians failed to arrive Saturday evening after a two-day trip across the McKenzie pass. Reaching the west lava cabin, two and a half miles west of the summit, the searching party failed to find any trace of the lost men. They returned to Bend. When the telephone line was repaired, they discovered that the Eugene party had found refuge in a cabin three and a half miles from the point where the searchers had turned back. The Obidians are believed to have returned to Eugene.

power source was necessary but that he held no brief for "any part or site in the project, as that is an engineering problem."

Colonel William J. Barden, chairman of the board, asserted that if "power is possible so cheaply private concerns already would have been in there."

Senators appear

Meier, Senators Steiwer and McNary and other witnesses pointed to the great expense involved and said the project was a matter for federal handling. They also stressed the desirability of navigation development, flood control and reclamation.

A. E. Clark, representing the Oregon hydro-electric commission, asserted "whether the development is economically justified is not an engineering problem."

Steiwer said the board should survey the river and navigation possibilities; formulate a general plan of development, and report to congress.

reading of depositions relating to a purported strain of insanity in Mrs. Judd's family.

Mrs. Judd was pictured from the witness stand by her husband, Dr. W. C. Judd, as a frustrated woman, "who from first day of our marriage dwelt upon thoughts of a child."

Dr. Judd, first witness of the day to be called by the defense, told of his wife's plans, while they lived in Mexico, for a child which never materialized, and her arguments over whether it should be named "Moses, Caesar or Napoleon."

Was Expectant Mother

Mrs. Judd, he said, several times was an expectant mother. "Was there ever a child born?" asked Herman Lewkowitz of defense counsel.

"No."

"Did you or your wife ever bring a child into your home for adoption?"

"No."

"Did you ever have a child in your home for any length of time?"

"No."

He testified that during their residence in a mining camp in the state of San Luis Potosi, Mexico, in 1925 Mrs. Judd at times, appeared to believe she had a child.

"She spoke a number of times of 'the baby,'" he said. "Once she told of it getting out of its crib, and pulling the dog's ear. I thought then she was just kidding me. I didn't at first realize she really believed it."

"She sometimes would hide in a closet," he continued.

"Sometimes I would be able to get her out of these spells by walking her about. She would say 'I know I am dreaming.'"

Distilling of Gas Described Before Twenty-Thirties

this connection is expected to grow as the Great Northern builds up its service into California over the new connection with the Western Pacific.

Location of the roundhouse and repair facilities on the main line is expected to be much more satisfactory than on the west side of the river, where the present roundhouse stands. The figure given for cost of the new facilities does not include site purchase price, it is understood.

To Enlarge Stockyards

It is understood that in addition to the announced development, the Great Northern has under contemplation changes and enlargement in livestock yards. No definite announcement has yet been made, but it may be expected in a few weeks, it was said.

Christopherson made known the Great Northern's newest plans at a conference Monday morning with Klamath County chamber of commerce officers and representatives of The Herald and News.

Railway Labor Takes Pay Slash arbitration with consequent months of delay. Their rate of pay is protected by contract.

In return the workers received certain concessions to a compromise program they proposed, chief among them being the assurance the rails would do as much as conditions would justify to use the wage cut savings toward relieving the distress of 700,000 jobless and 600,000 only partly employed.

Before signing the pact, the carriers promised to meet the conditions of labor, that they withdraw the notice of a 15 per cent wage cut they filed with the interstate commerce commission in December and that they make "an earnest and sympathetic effort to maintain and increase railroad employment."

JAP ATTITUDE STIFFENED BY NEW PROTEST

China that she will stand for no nonsense."

He emphasized the Japanese contention that the government of China is corrupt and said that Japan is willing to do her share to thwart "the greedy war lords who are responsible for a large share of China's troubles."

PROTEST FILED

TOKYO, Feb. 1, (AP)—United States Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes filed a formal protest with the Japanese government tonight against the use of the international settlement at Shanghai as a base of operations against the Chinese.

It was not a written protest, but the foreign office regarded it as formal nevertheless. And "as something more than diplomatic representation it has considered other communications forwarded by Washington."

The British Ambassador made a similar protest and the Ambassador from France conferred with the foreign minister.

The American protest contends that the Japanese are aggravating the situation at Shanghai by as-ing the international settlement as a base.

It was understood the British protest contended the Japanese in Shanghai went further than was necessary, thereby endangering the lives of British residents.

Subject to the approval of the full cabinet, the ministers of war, navy and foreign affairs decided tonight to recommend sending a full army division to Shanghai. It was understood these troops, if they were sent, would replace the 5,000 marines now ashore at Shanghai.

In official circles the implication that Japan is aggravating the situation was resented and it was contended that the Japanese are doing no more than play their allotted part in the general defense scheme.
