

Editorials □ News of Other Days □ Place Names □ Women's Features

Relief Project is Suggested

OLD BUILDING SHOULD COME DOWN

Experience and Accidents

Possibilities Should Be Considered

The Klamath County Chamber of Commerce has instructed its civic affairs committee to open conversations with the Masonic lodge with regard to the possibilities of razing the old high school building on the hill on Fifth street.

Not only is the abandoned shell on the hilltop an "eye sore" as it was described by the chairman at the chamber meeting Thursday. By virtue of its vast array of broken windows, it is an example of lawlessness held up constantly before the eyes of the community.

As attention is given to the problem, the possibilities of making the elimination of the structure a relief project should not be overlooked. Those in charge of relief work here say it would lend itself well to such an enterprise, furnishing work for a great many men.

That it would be possible to put relief crews at work on the building, and salvage from the razing program large quantities of material for new construction, is the contention of those interested in making this a relief project.

These two facts stand out. The building, if it is not going to be reconstructed, should be torn down. There are large numbers of unemployed workers in the city, many of them receiving food at the county relief depot, and who should be given work.

Caution Important To Experienced

Not all experienced drivers are good drivers. As a matter of fact, no small number of automobile accidents are due to the carelessness of drivers whose confidence in their ability, due to experience, has resulted in irresponsibility in the operation of their automobile.

Ward McReynolds, who has charge of examinations for drivers' licenses in Klamath Falls, said the other day that experienced drivers are constantly running into difficulties in seeking operators' licenses, due to an unjustified confidence in their knowledge of the law and their ability to drive.

Mr. McReynolds recalled the case of a local man who had had fifteen years' driving experience when he came to take the new operators' examination. He laughed, McReynolds said, at the absurdity of his having to show the examiner that he could operate an automobile safely. And yet, after taking the examiner for a ride, during which his particular fault was approaching intersections on icy pavements at 20 miles an hour, this man was temporarily denied a license.

In support of these observations of the examiner are statistics compiled in a study of the deplorable automobile accident record of the year 1931. This study revealed that ninety-one per cent of the drivers involved in accidents in 1931, which resulted either in death or non-fatal injury of persons had more than one year's experience as drivers.

The lesson is apparent. It need hardly be said that none of us has reached the place where he can consider himself an accident-proof automobile operator. The roads will be far safer for ourselves and for others if we combine the fruits of experience with the extreme caution of the beginner.

There's a lot of talk about what business is going to do when frozen credits are thawed out. Spring is around the corner, tra la.

The song the world is waiting for: "All Quiet On the Whangpoo."

SIDE GLANCES By George Clark

"I know—you're not concentrating on me any more. That's why you're so well up in your studies."

Office Cat

"Them Was the Days" Girls sometimes wore cotton stockings and high, laced boots (you were not supposed to know it). Spectacles and eyeglasses were not common.

Would-be Employer—Have you any references. Would-be Employee—Sure; and he handed him the following letter: "To Whom It May Concern: John Jones worked for us one week and we are satisfied."

Sea—I saw Mary at the beach. Sparks—What sort of bathing suit was she wearing? Sea—Don't know; she was reading a book and I couldn't see it.

LAUGH Learn to laugh. A good laugh is better than medicine. Learn to attend strictly to your own business.

Learn to tell a story. A well-told story is as welcome as a sunbeam in a sick room. Learn to avoid ill-natured remarks and everything likely to create friction.

Learn to keep your troubles to yourself. The world is too busy to care for your ills and sorrows.

Learn to stop grumbling. If you cannot stop grumbling, if you cannot see any good in the world, keep the bad to yourself.

A weary-looking fellow who had opened all the doors looking for work happened to see a huge police advertisement, headed: "Murdere Wanted."

"Well," he said, scratching his head, "it's better'n nothing, anyhow. I'm going in and ask for the job!"

The honeymoon is over when a husband realizes that his wife considers her compact her most valued possession. Educators say the spelling of "night" is surely changing to "nite." This will be great for those who never could spell it anyway.

Who loses money, loses much; Who loses friends, loses more; Who loses hope, loses all. Say It With Brevity. "When you've got a thing to say, say it. don't take half a day; life is short, a fleeting vapor, don't you fill the whole paper with a tale."

Who loses money, loses much; Who loses friends, loses more; Who loses hope, loses all.

Who loses money, loses much; Who loses friends, loses more; Who loses hope, loses all.

Who loses money, loses much; Who loses friends, loses more; Who loses hope, loses all.

Who loses money, loses much; Who loses friends, loses more; Who loses hope, loses all.

Who loses money, loses much; Who loses friends, loses more; Who loses hope, loses all.

Health Talks

Numerous people believe that a cold bath in the morning or a lukewarm bath with cold water sprayed on the neck and chest helps to prevent colds, but investigations of Professor E. O. Jordan on this point indicate that such benefits as may accrue are not measurable.

The old recommendation for moderation in all things applies particularly to eating and drinking by those who are likely to develop colds.

Since colds are transmitted from one person to another, avoidance of contact with those in acute stages is desirable. The use of paper handkerchiefs or gauze which can be burned as used helps to prevent the spread of infection.

Some doubt exists as to the actual value of antiseptic sprays and gargles. Probably they kill such germs as they reach. The difficulty lies in the fact that the antiseptic or gargle cannot be kept in the mouth constantly and that new doses of germs are constantly being received from contact with human beings in offices, elevators, motion picture houses, and similar places where many people congregate.

In relationship to colds has not been established. There are a few experiments indicating some virtue in the ultraviolet rays, and there are other studies indicating complete lack of value.

Ultraviolet can apparently do no more in the human body than cause the production of vitamin D through its action on ergosterol. There is no evidence that vitamin D is in any way specifically related to the resistance to the common cold.

The impression arose early that ultraviolet had specific effects on colds because vitamin D in cod liver oil is associated with vitamin A, and vitamin A is known to have such a relationship to resistance.

Klamath Names THE WATCHMAN (From Oregon Geographic Names, by Lewis A. McArthur). The Watchman, Crater Lake

National Park, Klamath county. The Watchman, elevation 8025 feet, is one of the highest points on the western rim of Crater Lake. It was named because a party of topographic engineers was placed on its summit in 1885 to take observations while the lake was being sounded.

Be the first to answer the Classified Ad that interests you.

HIGHEST QUALITY LOWEST PRICE! TREE TEA "BLENDED TO AMERICA'S TASTE"

"My hands are in terrible shape—regular 'dishpan' hands"

"What a shame—I turn my dishwashing into beauty care—it's so easy"

"I'll tell you how I got the idea. I was telling the manager of a beauty shop what a terrible time I had with my hands because they were in soap and water so much."

Lux for dishes

—the big package does 6 weeks' dishes

"Why don't you use Lux instead of ordinary soap?" she said. "Many soaps contain harsh alkali that dries up the natural oils, but Lux is absolutely pure and very soothing."

"So I did—and my dear, it's wonderful. Now my hands are smooth as velvet—lovely and white. And it costs less than 1¢ a day."

Manhattan Mirrors

(By the United Press) NEW YORK, Feb. 11, (UP)—Pettish racketeers are developing in peculiar trades in New York during these days of economic stress and consequent cut-throat business rivalry.

A young man who operates a dry cleaner establishment in the west eighties, catering to the apartment house trade, is the latest inventor of ingenious devices to catch and hold trade.

His competitors have been cutting prices, giving rapid service and generally ingratiating themselves with customers. Then our hero hit an idea.

Each year having a suit cleaned and pressed during a period of two weeks received a surprise. When the suit was delivered the boy handed the customer a dollar bill.

"We found this dollar in the vest pocket," he said. Naturally the customer was astounded at the cleaner's honesty. Any one that honest, he reasoned, deserved steady business.

Further than that, the return of the $1 was so unusual that friends were informed of it. The young dry cleaner has about as much business as his shop can handle now.

The machine gun murder of Vincent Call has proved a trade stimulant for the London chemists, the drug store in which the young gangster was killed.

Wide publicity was given the killing and since it occurred hundreds of persons, obviously curious to see the telephone booth in which Call was standing when his enemies opened fire, are visiting the store daily.

For the price of a soft drink, a package of cigarettes or a tin of aspirin tablets, they may view the bullet-riddled booth at close range.

Workers engaged in making excavations in Washington Heights, site of Fort Tryon, have unearthed a number of interesting relics.

Earlier Days

February 11, 1914 A short time ago the Klamath chamber of commerce telegraphed $5 to Indian Commissioner Sells, asking him to send a transcript of the papers filed by those opposing the opening of the Williamson and Sprague rivers to logging.

Five of the pictures taken by Emmitt Magee of the Underwood pharmacy, showing the best of the broncho busting at the Elks' Rodeo at Klamath Falls, are being displayed this month in 25-000 American drug store windows and in the windows of leading drug stores in Canada and England.

In order to protect the consumers of dairy products in the state of Oregon from impure milk the state livestock sanitary board is using extra precaution against tubercular dairy cattle.

Deputy Game Warden Henry Stout has returned from Spencer Creek, where he went with the shipment of 150,000 Eastern Brook trout sent in here from Colorado. The eggs are now in process of development at the hatchery there.

John Witt, formerly superintendent of the county poor farm, sustained a fractured ankle Wednesday evening as the result of a fall on the pavement in front of Roberts and Hanks store on Main street.

America is not a democracy, but a group of adolescent dictators.—John Langdon-Javies, British author and sociologist.

He (Mr. Hoover) has made a record in presidential initiative and constructive accomplishment unparalleled in the economic history of this nation or any other.—Charles G. Dawes.

I get so restless.—Janet Gaynor, movie actress.

Throughout my active service in the navy, I usually kept at least a couple of bird dogs.—Admiral Hugh Rodman.

Any opinion that I entertain on the subject of America's relationship to the League of Nations must be such as any private citizen is entitled to entertain.—Newton D. Baker.

The installment plan, I believe, is one of the main roots of our economic disorder.—Jan Paderewski.

One consolation of the depression is that it's showing up the thin-skinned business man. Sort of hitting him below the belt.

Some Wise Cracks

If Socrates had lived in these days of prohibition he probably would have learned to take the hemlock and say, "Not bad with a wash."

Advertisers say a dollar never looked so big as now. Nor so far away.

Songs have immortalized the corner where the gang used to hang around. The depression has immortalized the corner where Prosperity is still hanging.

Experts say unless world powers step in and halt Japan's invasion of Manchuria, China will turn Red. But if world powers did step in, Japan would probably be blue.

Running for mayor of Seattle, a candidate has for his slogan, "Make Seattle famous if we have to put him in his skirts on the cops." Well, maybe that would be one way to make them show a little movement.

One weather man says weather is not getting milder, we're just unaware of the cold. Apparently the result of being left out in it by the depression.

The man who said the automobile of 20 years ago had no accessories probably overlooked the back seat driver.

Who loses money, loses much; Who loses friends, loses more; Who loses hope, loses all.

Who loses money, loses much; Who loses friends, loses more; Who loses hope, loses all.

Who loses money, loses much; Who loses friends, loses more; Who loses hope, loses all.

Who loses money, loses much; Who loses friends, loses more; Who loses hope, loses all.

New Wonderful Face Powder Prevents Large Pores—Stays on Longer For a youthful complexion, use new wonderful MELLO-GLO Face Powder. Hides tiny lines, wrinkles and pores.

AND NOW! Greyhound brings you EVERY-DAY-IN-THE-WEEK TRAVEL BARGAINS Go when you like at bargain rates! Not limited to just two or three days, these new travel bargains are now on sale Every Day in the Week at all Greyhound agencies.

The Klamath News and the Evening Herald Primer Stands for Payrolls Spent in All Our Stores One of the Largest in the City From the News and Herald Pours The life of business in any community depends on the amount of money released to the buyers through the payrolls of local industries. Each week The Klamath News and The Evening Herald distribute to their employees one of the largest payrolls in Klamath Falls, and all of it is spent in this community. A newspaper sends a very small proportion of its receipts out of the city, for there is almost no stock to buy, and the principle operating cost is wages. For this reason almost all of the money taken in by these newspapers stays right here in Klamath Falls, is deposited in local banks and spent in local stores.