ASSESSORS TO BE HERE FOR TAX CONCLAVE

County Assessor W. T. "Bill" Lee returned Thursday night from Willows, Calif., where he attended a meeting of the Northern California Assessors' association. The meeting was called by the state board of equalization, according to Lee, and sub-committees were sent out to assessors of 25 counties, 26 of which were present Thursday.

Three members of the California state board of equalization attended the meeting, answering questions and giving suggestions. These members were: Dick Collins, formerly of Redding, Rex Stewart, of San Francisco, and Ed Kay, of Los Angeles.

General matters of taxation were discussed, and personal property values for 1932 decided upon. The association was entertained at the Barton Hotel, by the Kiwanis club of Willows. A number of musical selections were presented by the high school band of 25 pieces, which recently won the California high school band championship.

In addition to the members of the state equalization board who attended the assessors' meeting, was Judge Preston of the appellate court of California, who presented an interesting address.

Lee announces that he has made definite arrangements with Assessor Smith of Shikyo county, and Assessor Davis, of Modoc county, to attend the general meeting of taxpayers to be held in Klamath Falls on Saturday, February 26. They have promised to cooperate with Klamath county, the assessor stated, in the assessment of stock across the Oregon-California line.

Tax-levying bodies of Klamath county, with individual taxpayers will meet in the circuit court room of the Klamath county court house Saturday, February 26, for one of the most important meetings ever scheduled here, according to Assessor Lee.

Upon Lee's invitation, Charles V. Galloway, of the Oregon state tax commission, will be present, and offer suggestions in settling valuations for property assessments in the county for 1932.

Heretofore, Assessor Lee has called yearly meetings of stockmen, timber owners, farmers, business men and other property owners in separate groups. This year, all taxpayers will be united in one meeting which will be called at 10:00 o'clock Saturday morning, last throughout the day and into the evening if necessary in order that all may have the benefit of Commissioner Galloway's advice.

Taxpayers who have complaints or suggestions to make for 1932 assessments will have an opportunity to speak before the meeting.

All school and irrigation districts, granges and other organizations, and all property owners are urged to attend the meeting, and much interest is manifested over the county, according to a statement from the assessor.

An average of 150 needy persons are securing provisions at the central supply depot daily, according to Bradbury's announcement.

An insurance executive says the best help for the unemployed is self-help. He would probably throw a drowning man a hook on how to learn to swim.

WOOD FAMINE IS BROUGHT TO END
The wood famine among the needy unemployed of Klamath Falls ended Friday, according to H. E. Bradbury of the governor's relief committee, with the donation of a carload of fuel presented by C. A. Blocklinger, of Chiloquin.

The wood was brought to Klamath Falls, and will be unloaded in the yards of the Swan Lake Moulding company.

Unemployment is rapidly increasing in this city, Bradbury stated, and registrations for work and aid reaching the 1,000 mark at the time the relief committee's office closed Thursday evening. Sixty-five men registered during the past week.

JAMES C. STONE, chairman of the federal farm board, asserts that the fight that is being made on the farm board's activities is really directed against the co-operative marketing movement.

The farm board, he says, is merely being used as a smoke screen. What its opponents want, he warns, is to cripple the co-operatives that are aided by the farm board.

Dirty farmers will be wise if they consider this warning carefully before lending aid to the farm board's enemies.

SOUND co-operatives here in Oregon have aided not only the farmer but the towns as well in the communities that are served by these sound co-operatives.

Oregon is fundamentally an agricultural state. A very large share indeed of its total income is agricultural income. What-ever tends to INCREASE agricultural income increases the buying power of the communities in which agriculture is an important industry.

Increase in buying power benefits everybody. . . .

WHY are some co-operatives successful, whereas others fail? The answer, based on Oregon experience, is simple. The sound co-operatives, whose operations are successful and so aid both the farmer and the community at large, get good men and KEEP them.

That is the real secret of their success. . . .

THE heavy snowfall of this winter, we read, is threatening the summer homes of Southern Oregon people at Lake of the Woods, its weight crushing in their roofs.

That is too bad. But this winter's heavy snows, which are storing water in the mountains this winter for use next summer, are doing in the aggregate immensely more good than harm. . . .

REMODELING JOB AT STORE READY
Modern display windows have been completed at the K. Sugarman store at Sixth and Main street by W. A. Stevens & Sons. The windows on each side are angled, with many views afforded, and in the center of the lobby is an octagon-shaped island display case. Dome lights in the low-ceilinged lobby have been installed, and a new lighting plan adopted for use in the windows. A silver gray background has been used in the interior of the windows, which have a hard-wood floor.

Attractive tile adds to the appearance of the store front. Double doors lead from the lobby into the store, which will celebrate its 26th founding anniversary in March. Work has been started on the remodeling and redecorating of the interior of the store, and an opening is planned when the work is completed, in about ten days.

The new windows were designed by Griville Orrell of Sugarman's staff, and plans were drawn by Charles N. Cosobon, registered architect. Brown's paint store has the redecorating contract; J. P. Kowell did the fancy tile work, and the service Electric shop has the electrical wiring contract, which includes the installation of a new lighting system for the store.
