The Chinese said, comprised 20,000 men.

The forces of the foreign powers, after the arrival of a French contingent which is expected shortly, will number slightly more than 19,000 troops.

There were many other signs of Chinese preparations to resist to the utmost a new Japanese advance on Shanghai.

The American consulate said its advice to Americans to evacuate interior cities had gone to a number of places within 100 miles of Shanghai, including Soochow, where 160 Americans live.

The Chinese armies also seemed preparing to insure an orderly and dogged retreat if they should find it necessary to fall back before the power of the Japanese advance.

The belief was expressed by Chinese military authorities that the Japanese plan much of their offensive action for this vicinity.

About a dozen shells, most of them dud, fell within the marines' area. Several others landed among the volunteers. No one was injured.

Throughout the day Japanese soldiers steamed ashore from transports in the river to swell the thousands now here awaiting the promised battle.

Reliable estimates placed the number of Japanese troops here now, with today's additions, at 25,000.

Following the shelling of the American marine sector, marine headquarters telephoned the Japanese headquarters advising officials there of the error the gunners appeared to be making.

The constitution contained several "jokers." One of them refused authority to Chinamen to hold real estate or work on mining claims.

Two years before, 60 delegates clad in buckskins, con-skin caps and cowhide boots, drafted the constitution. These delegates, 19 republicans and 41 democrats, represented the state's 59,000 population.

Most of them came from Iowa, Missouri and Illinois in the lumbering covered wagon of the early '40s.

His next plea, he said, will be under article XVI of the covenant, which provides for an economic boycott.

Here is probably the most novel type of court in the world, in session at the collective farm in Tashkent, Russia, and like many others in the land of the Soviets.

Scenes in Beseiged Nanking

The city of Nanking, one of the principal streets of which is pictured here, was put under martial law as Chinese artillery answered Japanese fire from seven warships in the harbor.

Oregon Admitted as State Seventy-three Years Ago

By DENNIS LANDRY—Salem, Feb. 13. (UP)—Oregon is admitted to statehood.

A detachment of mounted municipal Sikh police cleared the way for the procession which formed an almost continuous line from the Japanese docks to their concentration district two miles away.

Thousands of Chinese who lined the streets as the military power of Japan was paraded before them stared in awe struck bewilderment.

DRASTIC MOVE PLAN UNLESS REDRESS MADE

Japan had landed 12,000 fresh troops at Shanghai, the report stirred the league to its depths. The general assembly was asked for by Mr. Yen last Friday and he said Mr. Yen was determined to go on with the appeal if the council decided it would not convene the meeting itself.

His next plea, he said, will be under article XVI of the covenant, which provides for an economic boycott.

Nakata Sato, Japanese delegate, said Japan would oppose the Chinese plea.

The Japanese would take exception to the transfer of any portion of the Sino-Japanese dispute to the scope of article XV, he said. Reports were circulated again that the Japanese planned to withdraw from the league if the assembly were convened, but the Japanese delegation denied this emphatically.

Much significance was attached in some quarters, however, to the fact that instead of going directly to league headquarters for information, the Japanese spokesman visited Rou Massigli, French representative, to obtain an opinion regarding the procedure involved in calling a meeting of the assembly.

The report of the League's commission also said a reign of terror resulted in the Hongkew district of the national international settlement at Shanghai after its occupation by the Japanese.

a general advance in the uniform rate over the state.

"This is no time to rock the boat," said Commissioner Hunter Monday. He said that Washington pays the same rate as that set by the Oregon commission.

It was understood that on Sunday the hospital officials had said they would not agree to taking the patients at the $2.57 rate. The commissioners were just as determined not to pay more, and said that their plan calls for providing the patients needing immediate attention with such attention, and then moving them out of Klamath Falls.
