

PIONEER DIES AT PORTLAND SUNDAY NIGHT

Dr. Edward P. Geary, 73, of Portland, and father of Edward A. Geary of Klamath county, died Sunday night at a Portland hospital.

Dr. Geary was widely known as a physician and surgeon at the turn of the century and was second mayor of Medford, Ore. He retired shortly after the World War, and had been ill for the past two years.

He had often visited in Klamath Falls and at the Geary ranch on Wocus and Caledonia marshes, and the recent death of his son, R. E. Geary senior partner in the Geary ranch project, was a shock from which Dr. Geary never recovered.

Born at Brownsville, Oregon, he received his education at Albany College, the University of Oregon and Jefferson Medical college, Philadelphia. After his graduation from the last named school, he became assistant surgeon for the railroad then being constructed between Oregon and California, with headquarters in Jackson county.

Dr. Geary is credited by colleagues with having introduced aseptic surgery to southern Oregon. He came to Portland in 1898 and later was elected Multnomah county physician, a post he held for 14 years. He was active in organizing a visiting and consulting staff of surgeons and nurses for Multnomah hospital.

Dr. Geary is survived by his wife, Mrs. Agnes M. Geary; and three sons, Arthur M. and Donald W., of Portland, and Edward A. Geary of Klamath Falls, Ore.

CWA Appropriation for Night School Believed Assured

A CWA appropriation for a night school at Klamath Union high school appears certain, according to Paul T. Jackson, high school principal.

In Portland last week-end Jackson conferred with O. D. Adams, director of vocational education for Oregon, and arranged to make an application for CWA help in night classes, which will be organized according to demand. Unemployed teachers will handle the work.

Attorneys Back From Portland

Several Klamath Falls attorneys are back after a fruitless trip to Portland in connection with the federal court case of Duke versus Commercial Casualty company. The case was set for trial on Friday, but after the local attorneys arrived in the metropolis, the court found it could not hold the trial as scheduled.

Arthur Schaupp and U. S. Ballentine represent Duke in the case. T. R. Gillenwaters is one of the counsel for the casualty company. Ralph Horan, another local attorney, was in Portland as a witness in the case. All have returned but Gillenwaters, who, with Mrs. Gillenwaters, will be out of town until mid-week.

SCHOOL EXPENSE LOW
PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 15, (UP)—Despite a cut in appropriations and an inmate increase, state institutions are being operated within their budgets, it was shown in a control board report today to Governor Meier.

Hildebrand Grange Votes to Oppose State Sales Tax

Without a dissenting vote, the Hildebrand grange at its recent regular meeting went on record opposing the state sales tax. It also went on record disapproving those legislators who, although members of the grange, voted for the sales tax and then sent to the grangers a circular letter upholding the tax.

The home economics club of the grange is arranging social evenings, once a month, for the community. Two have been held, the last on Saturday night, January 13. There are no charges. Hildebrand grange meets on the first and third Fridays at 8 p. m., and invites all patrons to visit it, according to Frances M. Mills, the secretary.

Christian Endeavor Executives Confer

The young people's society of Christian Endeavor of the First Christian church recently held an executive meeting at the home of Miss Thelma Parrish in the Audley apartments.

Each committee was assigned its specific duties. A ping pong party is to be held in the church basement parlors during the last week in January under the direction of the new social committee chairman, Ernest Honrick.

It was decided by the committee that Rev. Arthur C. Bates would conduct a half-hour discussion each Sunday evening with some religious book as his subject. The first half hour of the Endeavor meeting will be devoted to regular Endeavor prayer meeting.

INSTALLATION HELD FOR C. E. OFFICERS

Installation of Christian church senior, intermediate and young people Christian Endeavor officers was held recently. These officers were elected during special business meetings held during December for the purpose of electing officers.

Thelma Parrish was elected president of the young people's society; Everett Esgate, vice president; Veda Honrick, secretary; George Metcalf, treasurer; Ernest Honrick, social chairman; Arthur Brooks, prayer-meeting chairman; Marie Fraley, missionary chairman; and Orrin Fraley, finance chairman.

The senior-intermediate society had installed as their officers, Gene Robinson, president; Helen Hooper, vice-president; Ruth Metcalf, secretary-treasurer; Iris Bates, music committee chairman; Charles Uhlig, finance chairman; and Erva Hooper, prayer-meeting chairman.

faculty, is with the park service in Virginia. When Ivan Munro decided to resign to resume his studies at the University of California, Fisher indicated he wanted to return to Klamath Falls, but in a telegram to Principal Paul T. Jackson Monday stated he would be unable to make the change.

Progress Reported on Highway Work

Progress is being made on the improvement of the road from the state line south of Malin to Cornell, according to M. W. Cherry, foreman of the job. Motorists were urged to be cautious while passing equipment on this route.

This improvement, another step in the program to connect the Klamath country with Alturas by smooth highways, is being handled as a joint enterprise of the forest service and Modoc county.
