LIQUOR SUIT HAS EFFECTS ON POLITICS

honey isn't set to lose, either way the Knox battle turns.

If, for instance, the supreme court upholds the lower court decision that the law is constitutional (and this seems very likely) an issue will be saved for the Mahoney campaign. The Knox law will still be there to talk about. Its effect on city finances and every other vulnerable point will be attacked in Mahoney style.

Obviously, this has the makings of a first class political issue. If, however, the Knox law should be held unconstitutional, Mahoney will have the advantage of victory and all that goes with it. Furthermore, he will put the governor on the pan and all others who had anything to do with expending money in getting the thing started before it was known whether it would hold up in court.

Law on Trial

These observations have to do with the immediate situation. Taking a longer view, it might be said that much depends on whether the Knox law proves satisfactory or not. If it is a dismal failure, the Klamath mayor will be regarded as an unheeded prophet who did his best to keep the state from making a mistake. If it succeeds, the mayor will take a double jolt—immediate defeat in the courts and failure of his dire predictions to materialize.

But it will take time to determine whether the Knox law is a success or a failure, and the primary campaign is just around the corner. Considering what may happen during the first three or four months after a Knox law decision, it looks as if Mahoney will be able to make political medicine out of the affair, regardless of what the court does.

Much Local Interest

These comments are offered for what they are worth as information at a time when the outlook for a Mahoney gubernatorial candidacy are of intense local interest.

There are some other rumors about the Mahoney situation that are of interest as rumors, although there is nothing to substantiate them as yet. One is that a recall against the mayor is in the offing the minute the court returns a decision on the Knox law—provided, of course, that the decision is adverse to the city.

Recall Bobs Up

Speaking of recalls, the recall talk about county offices persists. It began just after the completion of the budget last fall, and has appeared and disappeared at intervals.

The Klamath Taxpayers league is out with a mysterious announcement of a closed meeting to be held at the courthouse Tuesday night. All members have been urged to attend. The officers said they had nothing to say for publication.

Interest in the local liquor situation subsided Monday after a three-days visit of District Liquor Administrator E. R. Morris of Eugene. Morris said announcements of any decisions as to employes and locations of stores will have to come later. A lot of jobseekers are watching for that announcement with strong personal interest.

Priaulx May Run

Arthur Priaulx, publisher of the Chiloquin Review, who likes to mention names of possible candidates in his editorial columns, hasn't mentioned the name of Arthur Priaulx. However, there is some talk at the courthouse, where he is a frequent visitor, to the effect that Arthur is a possible candidate for representative from this district.

Priaulx is a republican warhorse. Incidentally, in his paper last week he mentioned several candidates from that end of the county for county commissioner, including Ed Cardwell, George Denton, Jack Almeter and Mayor Casey of Chiloquin. From the other end of the county comes mention of two prominent names for the same job—Ed Crawford and E. M. Hammond.

The wreckage of the Italian air plane was sighted at about 7 a. m. by Bert Saurs, pilot of the American airliner.

He was unable to land the airliner, filled with passengers and mail bound for the United States, but circled low above the spot of the disaster.

He reported by radio that he saw three men standing beside the smashed trans-Atlantic ship. His message indicated there had been no fire.

Quickly he wrote a note: "Help coming."

He tied it to a weight and dropped it beside the beached men. They waved back.

PRISONER INJURED EVADING ARREST

Frank Starr, alias Brownie George, alias Topnish Slim, was taken to Klamath Valley hospital for medical treatment Sunday night, after sustaining severe fractures of the jaw when tripped by an officer as he was trying to evade arrest on larceny charges.

Starr, who is alleged to have stolen a number of articles from automobiles parked on Klamath avenue, was also charged with being drunk, according to officers.

Answering a radio call to Klamath avenue between Eighth and Ninth streets, the police prowl car discovered Starr, and ordered him to stop. The man tried to run, and resisted the officer when caught.

The officer ordered his prisoner into the prowl car, threatening to use force if necessary. Starr climbed in, but jumped out the other side. The policeman tripped him just as he started to run, and the man fell heavily on the cement sidewalk, hitting the point of his chin and shattering the jaw bone.

His condition is reported to be serious, according to the physician who was called to police bureau to treat him. The man is being held under guard at Klamath Valley hospital, where he will be forced to remain for some time.

Police officers are checking the injured man's record and the various names he has given them.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29, (AP)—Chester C. Davis, farm administrator, said today he believed prevention by government edict of wheat acreage expansion by non-co-operating farmers might be undertaken by the administration if such action is requested by a majority of producers who co-operate in the voluntary reduction program.

His statement followed the declaration last week by Secretary Wallace that the administration is moving toward compulsory control of cotton production.

Wrightsville Beach, a summer resort at Wilmington, N. C., had the most disastrous fire of its history yesterday. A third of the beach was destroyed, the flames fanned by a gale. Damage was estimated at $500,000.

Upon receipt of the contracts, Crawford requested a special meeting of the highway commission be called within 24 hours to execute the contracts. This action has already been considered by the commission.

pected to issue a proclamation. Although no figure has been disclosed, many believe he will first order an immediate 40 per cent devaluation of the gold dollar. Also he would at once take title to the federal reserve system's gold supply and set up the stabilization fund with the profits arising from the devaluation.

By fixing a 50 to 60 per cent bracket on the dollar's future fluctuations—that is, reducing the 23.22 grains of fine gold behind each dollar by 40 to 50 per cent—the treasury assured a minimum profit on the dollar value of the nation's gold of $2,666,666,666.

That profit is on the basis of a 60 per cent revaluation, the figure indicated by the present government gold price. Dividing the legal mint gold price of $20.67 by the treasury price of $34.45, gives an even 60 result.

ANOTHER EGYPTIAN EXPLORER PASSES

NEW YORK, Jan. 29. (AP)—Dr. Alber M. Lythgoe, 65, noted Egyptologist who was among those present at the opening of the inner chamber of King Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb in 1923, died today in Boston, officials of the Metropolitan Museum of Art were informed.

He had been suffering for some time with cerebral arteriosclerosis.

His illness had revived the story of a "curse" that was supposed to have dealt death and misfortune to many persons connected with the opening of the pharaoh's tomb, but museum officials recently produced statistics to support their contention that the "curse" was a myth.

Mishley was free under $2500 bond on a charge of manslaughter.

From Washington, the attorney general kept in close touch with the Norwalk hospital, but there were no indications that he planned to leave the capital.

POLICE ABANDON LICENSE THEORY

Definite abandonment of the license number clue in the Mardelle-Sparks disappearance case was reported by local officers Monday.

M. J. Bailey of Hilt, Calif., in a letter to local authorities, stated that he went through the Dorris quarantine station twice on November 12.

It happened that Bailey's automobile license was almost exactly like that on the automobile in which Miss Audrea Mardelle and Miss Doris Sparks, missing cosmeticians, were last seen. Officers saw in the appearance of this number two times on the records on the day the girls disappeared a bare possibility of a mistake. Bailey's letter sent the clue glimmering.

Which country has the strongest navy? Naval experts say that while no definite and dependable yardstick has been devised for measuring all-around naval power, Great Britain, on paper, still is the presumable "mistress of the seas."

UNCOUNTED NUMBER DIE IN DISASTER

SHANGHAI, Jan. 29. (AP)—Corpses floated among cakes of ice down the Yellow river today, said dispatches from Hopei and Honan, while vernacular newspapers declared uncounted thousands of persons had perished in the flood of the great waterway called "China's Sorrow."

The Yellow river flood relief commission took a more conservative view of the loss of life reports and said only that the flood was serious. Missionaries and other foreign agencies here who are familiar with the conditions along the Yellow river said they believed no one can yet estimate the full extent of the flood's damage.
