Mike Mikulak, who brings his basketball team to Klamath Falls Saturday night, will say goodbye to Pacific coast football when he leaves the University of Oregon next spring. Mikulak has had three brilliant years of competition with the Webfoots and the final year won him a position as all-American fullback.
Mikulak will enter the money game next fall. He already has signed a contract to play for the Chicago Cardinals, the professional team coached by Paul J. Schissler, formerly head coach at Oregon State college.

Lakeview will become a familiar name on the Pelican schedule in the future. The Honkers have been given an "A"team rating and will vie with Klamath to represent this section in the annual state tournament at Salem.

Coach French, however, was taking first things first, and this week drilled his combination to defeat Grants Pass, Friday. The Cavemen lost to Ashland several weeks ago by a close score, and then Klamath split a two-game series with Ashland.

On paper, the Pelicans appear alightly stronger than the Cavemen, but French said he looked forward to difficult opposition.

All Pelican players came through the Ashland series without injury. The complete strength will be available for the Grants Pass and Lakeview contests.

MIAMI, Jan. 30, (U,P)—Maxie Rosenbloom and Joe Knight, who wouldn't lure $10,000 worth of customers in New York, are likely to play before a $30,000 house when they meet for the world's light heavyweight title in Madison Square Garden arena here Thursday night.

Already the fight has taken in more than $10,000 at the box office, and Garden officials predict a gross of treble that amount unless the weather breaks the wrong way.

Francis Albertanl, chief of the Garden's publicity staff, who has been in command for the past fortnight, was joined today by Col. John Reed Kilpatrick, Garden president, who flew down from New York.
