Editorials On the Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS THE new Doumergue government of France, we read, is reported to be seriously considering how the question of debts owed the United States may be settled.

The solution of that problem is to PAY THE DEBT, which is an honest one.

THE solution of ANY debt problem is to pay the debt. If you have the money, or can get it—and France has the money.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, speaking in Washington on Saturday, says the outstanding feature of the first year of his administration has been the amazing and universal increase in the interest of people in the government.

In these days, people HAVE to be interested in the government, for government enters into practically everything they do.

THAT, however, doesn't alter the fact that interest of the people as a whole in the affairs of government is a tremendously important thing.

Whether we have good government or not depends pretty largely on whether or not people are genuinely interested in government.

When all the people are genuinely interested in it, government is pretty apt to be good. When they are not, it is pretty sure to get bad.

SAMUEL INSULL, Athens dispatches tell us, has been told that he must leave Greece. It is reported that he may take up his residence in Syria.

In the course of time, it may be that he will wish he had stayed in the United States and taken his medicine.

HERE is some fairly good advice: If you ever get into serious trouble, you will be better off in the long run if you stek it out and face the music than if you try to run away.

SPEAKING further of Insull, he is reported to have offered a huge sum in return for being made king of Andorra, a tiny nation lying between France and Spain.

The interesting angle to that report is whether or not he HAS a huge sum of money.

Those who bought stock in his enterprises, in the days when he was one of the kings of big business in this country, will be particularly interested in that angle. If Insull really has a lot of money, it will be mighty hard to (Continued on Page Four)

WILL ROGERS says:

OMAHA, Neb., March 5.—Editor The Evening Herald: The army is handling the mail very sensibly now. I left New York at 2 a. m., arrived in Chicago at 2 a. m. Weather in and around Chicago was bad. They held us there till noon. No mail in or out. You see, both army and commercial are very careful.

Talked to General Westover, in charge of all army fliers, and Colonel Hickman of Chicago area. They said they were taking no chances. (Some banker may lose a day's interest on his checks, but that's the worst can happen.) And what about the fliers and the old buck privates, some of which draw only $21 a month, and have been moved away off up here from their posts? They want some money. They are eating and sleeping on credit and living off the generosity of the towns they are in.

So hurry up and get busy, congress, and straighten: the whole thing out. All of you say you want to. Well, then, do it.

Salt Lake at midnight, Beverly for breakfast.

Yours,

Will Rogers

LAW SPREADS NET FOR KILLER DILLINGER

Indiana Orders 3 Investigations Into Jail Break

Far-Flung Manhunt Fails to Bring Traces of Fugitive.

POLICE SPREAD EXTENSIVE NET

State, County Demanding Complete Probe of Escape.

CHICAGO, Mar. 5. (AP)—The motor car in which John Dillinger sped away from Crown Point jail has been under surveillance since Saturday evening on the northwest side of Chicago, police admitted today. They left the car where they found it, hoping to trap Dillinger if he returned to it.

CHICAGO, March 5. (AP)—"Kill-Crazy" John Dillinger remained free today, hunted in half a dozen states, while three vigorous investigations got under way to fix responsibility for his brazen break last Saturday from Crown Point, Indiana's "escape proof" jail.

The slippery desperado, who surprised everyone, especially his woman custodian—Sheriff Lillian Holley—by bluffing his way to freedom, remained a jump ahead of the law, while a triple investigation was underway to determine how he managed to escape.

May Have Had Aid Rumors that a "fix" might have entered into his sensational get-away were heard. County Prosecutor Robert G. Estill of Lake county, Ind., announced that the results of inquiry by him would be turned over to the grand jury.

A state investigation, ordered by Governor Paul McNutt of Indiana, is also in progress, with Assistant Attorney General Edward C. Barco and Roy Hulett, an investigator, in charge.

Another inquiry was undertaken by Judge William J. Murray before whom Dillinger was (Continued on Page Three)

Legless Indian Gives Portland Cop the Jitters

PORTLAND, Mar. 5. (AP)—Patrolman Tommy Chilcote had the jitters with a large J today.

He arrested an Indian for drunkenness on a downtown street Sunday night and asked a passerby to aid him in transferring his prisoner to the nearest call box. After taking several steps, they were started to see the Indian's left leg drop off. Patrolman Tommy picked up the artificial limb and went ahead. Presently the Indian and his leg were safely stowed in the patrol wagon.

At the police station, the Indian firmly refused to leave the wagon. Officer John Hatch, to aid him, firmly grasped his remaining leg and pulled. It came off in his hands.

Jail attendants reported the Indian too drunk to need either leg.

BOARD OF CONTROL HAS BUSY SESSION

Quarter-Million for Use of Road Department Approved.

SALEM, March 5. (AP)—The busiest session of the state board of control in recent months was held here today at which time authorizations affecting virtually every state institution and purchase of more than $250,000 worth of material for the state highway commission was approved.

A report of the state flax industry during the present administration showing reduction of deficit at the penitentiary institution and increase in balance on hand of about $170,000 was given by William Elitzig, secretary of the board, at the conclusion of which Governor Julius L. Meier said, "you are stealing the thunder of my second address to the people next Saturday night."

Institutional heads, present at the session, reported virtually without exception, an increase in population taxing all institutions, and an increase in the price of food materials. Indications were the 1935 legislature would be called upon to appropriate funds for additional buildings and facilities for the increasing population.

Secretary of State P. J. Stadelman urged investigation of what he termed excessive rent being (Continued on Page Three)

MEIER LEAVES UNCERTAINTY IN POLITICS

Governor's Talk Confined to Accomplishments of Office.

SPECULATION IN WAKE OF ADDRESS

Indications of Groundwork for Campaign Observed.

SALEM, March 5. (AP)—Political observers at the state capitol were divided between three points of speculation on a possible Meier campaign for reelection as a result of the governor's address delivered Saturday night. The address was the first of two which the executive is delivering showing the achievements of three years' administration.

Those who would have the governor seek another term were cheered by the emphasis the executive placed upon carrying out every pledge made in his campaign as well as additional accomplishments of the administration and his long discourse upon carrying out the late George W. Joseph platform. His numerous achievements were also a matter of gratification to those who have stated the governor would seek a second term.

Martin Unmentioned Additional indications of probable groundwork for a campaign were seen in the discussion by the governor of the Bonneville dam project, in which he gave much credit to Senator Charles L. McNary, but failed to mention Representative Charles H. Martin who likewise was active in that work, but who since has announced himself as democratic candidate for governor.

On the other hand those who have declared the governor would not again enter the gubernatorial campaign and who might wish him to remain out of the race, were consoled by the executive's opening remarks and later in the address. The executive stated "the purpose of this address—its sole and only purpose—is to give you an accounting of my (Continued on Page Three)

BRIEF NOT FILED IN MANNING CASE

Monday was expected to bring an end to the period Judge Duncan allowed attorneys for H. M. Manning to file citations of authorities supporting their demand they be permitted to examine furniture and other articles removed from the Manning law office by the state after the shooting of Ralph Horan.

At mid-afternoon, D. R. Vandenberg and George Roberts, the attorneys defending Manning against first degree murder charges, had not filed the suggested brief. Unless the time is extended, it appeared likely Judge Duncan would deny the motion, as he told Roberts he would take such action unless the defense could substantiate its claims with citations of authorities.

R. E. Bradbury Post Disputed

CHAIRMAN OF FAIR BOARD DECLARED NO LONGER TAX PAYER.

That R. E. Bradbury is no longer a taxpayer of Klamath county, whereas the law specifically holds that members of the county fair board must be tax-paying residents of the county, is asserted in a report prepared for the county court by a committee representing the Pomona Grange and the county chamber of commerce.

At the county assessor's office it was stated Monday Bradbury is not at present a real property taxpayer, but he was assessed on the 1933 roll for personal property taxes.

The chamber of commerce and grange committees were appointed some time ago and made a joint study of the fair board situation. The report as prepared for the court follows: "Court's Attention Called"

"We, a committee representing the chamber of commerce and the Pomona Grange, wish to bring the following facts to the attention of the Klamath county court: "Mr. R. E. Bradbury, who has been acting in the past as chairman of the Klamath County Fair Board, is, according to the records of the Klamath county assessor, no longer a taxpayer of Klamath county and for nearly a year has not been an active resident." The jury's verdict came after only a short deliberation. Previously the high powered lawyers engaged by the plaintiffs made their final arguments.

PRESIDENT RE-OPENS DRIVE FOR IMPROVED WORKING CONDITIONS

Roosevelt Declares Industries Must Absorb More Unemployed to Relieve Government; Wage Increases Again Asked

WASHINGTON, March 5. (AP)—President Roosevelt asked American industry today for "immediate co-operation to secure increase in wages and shortening of hours."

"It is the immediate task of industry to re-employ more people at purchasing wages and to do it now," he declared. Speaking to the several thousand members of NRA's code authorities, assembled in Constitutional Hall for a three-day review of the industrial control program, he warned that "the government cannot forever continue to absorb the whole burden of unemployment."

He called for greater protection of small business, terming the code authority "the keeper of your small industrial brother."

He said the anti-trust laws "must continue in their major purpose of retaining competition and preventing monopoly."

He demanded that "every corporation in the United States give its workers free choice to organize themselves and emphasized that "those two words 'free choice' mean just what they say."

Compliance Promised Saying he knew industry with few exceptions would give wholehearted compliance, the president warned that in these exceptions "the government itself must and will under the law move firmly and promptly to prevent failure."

He contended that industry must keep to "the lowest schedule of prices on which higher wages and increasing employment can be maintained."

Permanency Urged For the future, he said, "the methods and details of x x x reorganization may and will change from year to year but x x x reorganization must be permanent for all the rest of our lives in that never again will we permit the social conditions which allowed the vast sections of our population to exist in an un-American way, which allowed a maldistribution of wealth and power."

So far, he said, "we have been tolerant of certain misunderstandings even when they result— (Continued on Page Three)
