

CWA ORGANIZES RED CROSS WORK

Ralph Carlson, field representative for the Red Cross, has arrived in Klamath Falls to conduct classes for foremen employed by the civil works. The work will be undertaken in cooperation with Buford Morris and Ella Redkey, chairman of local Red Cross committees.

The first class will be held next Monday night, 7:30 o'clock at the courthouse. Classes will be conducted at the same hour the remainder of the week, and by the end of the course the students will have received 15 hours of training in first aid and life saving.

Carlson has named Raleigh Taylor and Dr. Paul W. Sharp as instructors.

The purpose of the classes, Carlson said, will be to teach foremen the principles of first aid in case of accidents and injury among CWA workers. The program is of national scope, and already 30,000 men are participating in the instruction.

Carlson is from the San Francisco headquarters of the Red Cross.

Well, They TRY to Get Along

A private zoo at Glendale, Cal., presents this raccoon and young wildcat as the oddest pair of cage mates. They get along amicably for a little while after one is put in the other's cage—then some sort of argument starts, and they are separated, spitting defiance at each other.

Political Heads In Administration Drop From Party

(Copyright 1934 by United Press) WASHINGTON, March 9. (U.P.)—Political heads are dropping into the basket so rapidly these days that there are those who believe Postmaster General James A. Farley will surrender his Democratic National committee chairmanship sooner than previously expected.

Three members of the committee have surrendered party offices this week. Arthur F. Mullen resigned after a battle which began at private conferences in October and was intensified in mid-January when President Roosevelt first publicly insisted that party office be not confused with federal office or the practice of law in Washington. Mullen was Nebraska's National committee man and an eminent lawyer here and in Omaha.

Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, director of the mint and former governor of Wyoming, stepped out of the national committee right behind Mullen.

Jed C. Adams' resignation as national committeeman from Texas was announced today. He is a member of the United States board of tax appeals and did not think it desirable to have party office semi-judicial responsibilities.

Restrictions On Oil Operations Get Modification

WASHINGTON, March 9. (U.P.)—The department of justice consented today to modification of a court order restricting operations of California oil companies, a move considered necessary before the Pacific coast oil cartel can operate effectively.

The department, through the United States attorney of the southern district of California, consented to modification, however, only if the new order specifically restrains the oil companies from unfair and monopolistic practices, and protects the public from unreasonable prices. The department also insisted upon regulations to prevent discrimination against small enterprises.

The chief concession to the cartel and the oil companies lies in granting them the right to purchase on non-discriminatory basis "such amounts of surplus gasoline from small independent refiners or marketers as may be necessary to effectuate the purpose of this agreement."

Professors Seek Higher Salaries

SEATTLE, March 9. (U.P.)—The University of Washington may lose some of its outstanding professors unless salaries are substantially increased, it was learned today.

Dr. Donald G. Barnes of the university history department, announced he was "seriously considering" an offer from Western Reserve university, Cleveland, O., at nearly double his present salary.

Other professors are reported to be considering more lucrative offers from different schools.

Mother of 13 Given Divorce

SEATTLE, March 9. (U.P.)—Mrs. Nora M. O'Brien, mother of 13 children, decided she had "had enough" when her streetcar operator-husband threw a pot of hot alphabet soup at her, she said today in getting a divorce from her spouse.

The court awarded her custody of the children, $39 monthly alimony and $60 a month for the children.

AMUSEMENTS

Vox—Now playing, "I Like It That Way," with Gloria Stuart and Roger Pryor.

Pelican—Now playing, vaudeville and Walt Galloway's band, and on the screen, "The Narrow Corner," with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.

Pine Tree—Now playing, "Woman's Man," with Marguerite De La Motte.

Rainbow—Now playing, "Song of the Eagle," with Richard Arlen and Mary Brian.

GLORIA STUART

The three branches of motion pictures, comedy, drama and music have been skillfully combined and blended to make entertainment in Universal's new screen production, "I Like It That Way," now at the New Vox theater until Saturday.

Following the success Universal had with its last summer's musical hit, "Moonlight and Pretzels," the studio sought to duplicate this delightful treatment on the screen of handling a comedy-drama with music, song and dance.

Gloria Stuart and Roger Pryor had an exceptional cast which includes Marian Marsh, Lucille Gleason, Shirley Grey, Noel Madison, Merna Kennedy and 24 dancing girls.

AT THE PELICAN.
Alice See, Seattle night-club entertainer, offering a whirlwind tap from dancing Dixieland, and the Norton Sisters, in a series of songs of the range, accompanied by the Cowhands' Band, are prominent on the Pelican theater's vaudeville bill for Friday night. The featured number on this show is the grand finale, A Dream of Chinland, with the eight beautiful Sing-Song Dancing Girls and the Three Cherry Blossoms in special song and dance presentations. The Ten Happy Band Boys are offered in two feature numbers, and furnish a musical background for the entire show.

On the screen, "The Narrow Corner," another excellent story by the author of "Rain," gives Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., an opportunity to exploit his talents amidst a setting of south-sea romance, spiced with much excitement and adventure. The screen bill also includes a Walter Donaldson musical novelty, featuring this well known composer of popular music in a presentation of many of his most popular numbers including "My Blue Heaven," "Carolina in the Morning," "Mammy," and "Little White Lies." A cartoon, news and "Hollywood on Parade" complete this program of entertainment.

AT THE PINE TREE.
"Woman's Man," starring Marguerite De La Motte, which plays at the Pine Tree theater today, presents an interesting story of the making of a star, life behind the scenes, and how the difficulties encountered in the making of a picture are overcome.

AT THE RAINBOW.
Richard Arlen and Mary Brian have the romantic leads in Paramount's story of two dramatic decades in American life, "Song of the Eagle," playing today at the Rainbow theater. Charles Bickford is cast as a tough beer racketeer and Jean Harsholt as owner of a nationally famous brewery. Louise Dresser, Andy Devine and George E. Stone are importantly cast.

Treasury Favors New Amendment

WASHINGTON, March 9. (U.P.)—The treasury department favors a constitutional amendment to eliminate tax exempt securities and thus add an estimated $145,000,000 in annual revenues, Secretary Morgenthau told the house judiciary committee today.

At the close of 1933, he said, there were $11,510,000,000 in wholly tax exempt securities and $13,500,000,000 in partly exempt securities.

Flax Industry Loan Approved By Roosevelt

SALEM, Ore., March 9. (U.P.)—A $3,000,000 public works administration loan for development of the Willamette Valley flax industry has been approved by President Roosevelt and the money tentatively earmarked. J. M. Devers, state highway commissioner attorney, was notified today.

The loan was sought by Will H. Lipman of Portland, who proposed a series of flax scutching plants throughout the Willamette Valley, with a large linen mill, probably to be located at Salem.

Devers said he had been as-
