

NOVELTIES AND NEW SHADES MAKE ACCESSORIES INTERESTING

Dressing Table Theme Gives Added Interest To Spring Fashion Show At Theatre

By Joy Evans

Milady's Dressing Table—this will be the theme of the fourth annual Spring Fashion show at the Pelican theatre, Friday evening, staged by the Klamath Falls Federation of Business and Professional Women. The show will go on at 7:30 o'clock and besides the style exhibition will include the colorful and entertaining picture, "I Am Suzanne," starring Lillian Harvey and Gene Raymond. Furnishings for the set will be giant copies of articles found on the well-equipped dressing-table. The center of the stage will be occupied by a sixteen-foot high lamp with a shade of daffodil-yellow; the musical powder-box will hold a surprise, and soft music will filter from a huge radio. The mannequins will step from the pages of four pastel-colored books.

Double "Sports" To give the audience a better view of the various outfits, the models will walk upon a lighted and flower-decked cat-walk, and a new arrangement in lighting which has never before been used here will be the double spotlights. These will add a great deal to the life and color on the stage, moving before a silver curtain. The setting was planned and constructed by James Floyd and Ted Snyder of the theatre staff, and is entirely different from ideas used in any previous shows here.

Betty Reymers and Barbara Moore, dainty toe-dancers, pupils of McCown's Dance studio, will open the program after the prologue number by Roy Clark's orchestra. Music will be played throughout the fashion review and arrangements of many popular numbers of today, such as "Did You Ever See A Dream Walking," "Many Moons Ago," "Dinner At Eight," "Let's Call It Love," have been prepared by the orchestra.

Powell Announcing. A flip of the radio's dial and the announcer's voice will be heard throughout the theatre over a loud-speaker system. Dewey

Powell will announce the various scenes. Stars represented by the lovely models as they walk onto the stage will be listed on large placards carried by two pages, the Mann twins.

The Peggy Shop, presenting six young misses in smart apparel for the youngsters, will open the review. Three models from each of the other stores exhibiting, LaPointe's, Moe's and Montgomery Ward, will appear in the lingerie scene. Moe's will also show some clever house frocks for morning wear at this time.

The sports scene will have four models from each store, wearing the latest togs for the beach, tennis courts and golf course. The street scene promises some interesting outfits from the wardrobe viewpoint, as does the afternoon scene with five models from each establishment. Glamour and beauty and the grace of long, flowing
