Editorials On the Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS AN AUTOMOBILE dealer said to this writer yesterday: "Last year I couldn't get buyers for the cars I had on my floor. This year I can make sales, but can't get cars to deliver."

Life is like that, isn't it? Just one thing after another.

BUT listen: If life gets so easy that we common, everyday folk don't have to hustle and scheme and sweat in order to make a living, running every day and every week and every month into some new obstacle that we have to overcome, LOOK OUT! Trouble will be brewing.

BACK in the fat years just before 1929, things were too easy. Almost anybody could make money, and almost EVERYBODY did. It just seemed to flow in, without effort.

And look what happened in 1929. And look what has been happening ever since.

LET'S try not to forget that one big reason why times have been too hard since 1929 is that they were TOO EASY for several years before 1929.

THE old passes and the new comes on.

The newest of the new, so far as transportation is concerned, is the Union Pacific's streamlined, gas-driven, aluminum train, which visited us yesterday and drew crowds like a circus. The fact that people are keenly interested in the new is proved by the way they turned out to see this new train.

THIS train that passed through is an experiment.

But the experiment, apparently, is regarded already as a success, for two more like it, only larger, have been ordered for delivery some time this summer. The experimental train contains three cars, all day coaches, but the new trains will contain nine cars, including sleepers.

The entire three-car train, incidentally, weighs only about as much as one old-style Pullman.

WHERE will this train be put into service?

Nobody knows, yet—at least none of the officials accompanying the train knew. It is assumed that it will go into service on some short run that can be made in daylight, as it has no sleeper equipment.

There is a rumor that it will go on between Portland and Seattle.

IT is expected that these new, light, streamlined trains will (Continued on Page Four)

WILL ROGERS says:

HOLLYWOOD, March 23.—Editor The Evening Herald: Well the country woke up mighty relieved this morning when they found the president had been able to stall off those strikes. Don't it look like in case of a wage dispute it would be compulsory that you keep on working but you sent say two men, the owners, two men, and the government two. Now if they were months settling this; and labor won, their increase in pay would go back to the time when the first protest was made, or a shortening of hours and labor won, they would also be paid for back hours; looks like nobody would be hurt much, and the labor leaders and the owners could cuss each other in a room, the same as they do now in the newspapers, yet nobody would have to be idle listening to 'em.

Yours, Will Rogers
