News Behind the News

The Inside Story From The Capital

By PAUL MALLON
Copyright, 1934, by Paul Mallon

WASHINGTON, March 31.—President Roosevelt is not exactly pleased at the type of leadership he has been getting from his leaders in congress.

He probably will not be able to do anything about it but he would like to.

It was not exactly the veterans' vote but an accumulation of unhappy incidents which brought about the mutual misunderstanding.

From the start the president has been unable to find the type of man in congress to undertake new deal leadership.

He inherited the present congressional leadership setup. It is an outgrowth of old-time political traditions which are far apart from the ideals of the new deal.

Leaders are elected in both houses on seniority. Floor Leader Robinson in the senate has tried to revise his traditional conservative self into a new deal exponent. So has House Floor Leader Byrnes. But they have not quite been able to make the grade because their hearts are not in it. They have been loyal and ardent, but inefficient.

If Mr. Roosevelt had his way today he would make Representative Rayburn his leader in the house and Senator Byrnes his senate leader.

They come nearer to typifying his ideals than the leaders which the vagaries of politics have thrust upon him.

"Look, mama, he's got the operator crazy."

Republican Candidates

THERE is a notable lack of enthusiasm in the state over the republican gubernatorial field. None of the announced candidates appears to meet with any great rejoicing. There has been a great deal of regretting over the decision of Willard Marks of Albany to keep out of the race. A hopeful turn was made to Leslie M. Scott, another man who would make a fine governor, but Scott has shown no inclination to run.

It was this situation that gave rise to the thought that Andy Collier would be welcomed as a candidate by republicans of Oregon. Mr. Collier, of course, has never and very likely would refuse to consider the matter. Just the same, it is pleasant to know Klamath Falls could offer the republicans a candidate of whom they could well be proud.

There is a considerable belief that Julius Meier is still a factor in the governorship situation. While he has declared he will not seek the republican nomination at the primaries, it is possible he might run as an independent against the regular party nominees. Now that Mr. Meier has indicated he is to leave the office, he is the recipient of an expression of good will that was generally withheld when he was regarded as a probable candidate for re-election.

The time is growing short, and it looks as if the republicans now know their candidates for the primaries.

Protect the Flowers

IT should be unnecessary to urge the protection of flowers that are grown in yards and gardens of the city. Flowers bring joy to those who grow them and to those who see them as they pass by. In a barren country such as this, they are especially welcome.

And yet, there are frequent complaints that flowers are destroyed or stolen at night. Gardens are tramped down. Not infrequently the blooms are broken off and thrown on the ground. Sometimes the marauders are canine, but in many instances the damage was obviously the work of human hands and feet.

Persons who find joy for themselves and give joy to others by growing flowers deserve encouragement, not the discouragement that comes at morning when they find their work undone by the ruthless and the unthinking.

Clear of Spoils

THE United States Senate acted sensibly in decreeing that the Home Owners Loan Corporation—the principal of whose loans will be guaranteed by the government, under legislation about to be passed—be divorced from politics.

This corporation has a big job to do, and the one important thing about it is that it do the job well—that it help to safeguard the homes of people who have lost their savings and their jobs.

In simple decency, an organization of this kind must not be a happy hunting ground for spoilsmen. More important things than a congressman's ability to hand out jobs to his constituents are at stake.

And it is rather astounding, incidentally, to note that the Senate ruled out politics by the margin of just one vote. The narrowness of that margin reflects no particular credit on the Senate.

State Press On Mahoney

MAHONEY AND HIS ISSUES (Medford News)

Somebody is pulling some pretty fancy politics over in Klamath Falls, and it appears that Willis E. Mahoney, candidate for the democratic nomination for governor of Oregon, is to be the goat.

When three members of the Klamath Falls police department were indicted by a Klamath county grand jury on a charge of converting police charity funds to Mahoney's campaign fund, it looked a lot like clever politics. Regardless of whether Mahoney knew anything about the transaction or not, it cannot help but hurt him in his coming campaign.

It is especially regrettable in view of the fact that people are seldom given a chance to vote for candidates on clean-cut issues. Some other elements are always thrown into the field to cloud the issues, such as the insinuation of Mahoney's part in the Klamath Falls mess.

Mahoney is a devout enemy of the power companies. There are thousands of voters in Oregon who will be more than glad to support him in those contentions. He is opposed to the sales tax, and it will cost him a lot of votes. There are, probably, more opponents to the sales tax in Oregon than there are proponents.

Mahoney is opposed to the Knox liquor control law, and he will get support there.

But the point is that now these points are all clouded by the implication that he was mixed up in the transfer of charity funds to his campaign fund. Mahoney's opponents will convey the impression that he is unscrupulous, and it will cost him a lot of votes.

It is too bad, and one of the weaknesses of our government, that the voters cannot go to the polls and vote in a clean-cut way on men and issues, without having both clouded.

Willis Mahoney appears to

DISCIPLINE

Nothing could have changed the veterans' vote. The best leadership in the world could not have prevented the house from revolting, but the right kind of leadership could have prevented the rout.

When Vice President Garner was floor leader of the house, party loyalty was a badge of honor. Garner had a way of making insurgents regret their insurgency. Discipline was enforced with a blackjack. Now the punishment is publication in the speaker's black list, which since the recent revolts is about as exclusive as the telephone book.

PROMOTIONS

Possibilities of a change in house leadership are being discussed in the house cloakroom. A rather strong movement is under way in favor of Rayburn. It will not succeed. Traditional rules are so influential that they cannot be overturned so easily.

The expectation in the senate cloakroom is that Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, will soon be promoted to the supreme court.

INTELLIGENTSIA

The brain trust tells this story so it probably isn't so. They say Dr. Wirt was invited to a social party here last summer and was astounded to find no radicals present, at least no radicals who fitted the long beard, wide-eyed specifications.

The good doctor was so insistent on seeing a radical in the raw that his host arranged for a newspaper man to impersonate one. This fellow had a lurid imagination. He filled the doctor's car full of revolutions, Kerensky, Stalin and rebellion.

The joke, according to the story, was on the host, because Dr. Wirt believed it.

SECURITY

There is a new ruling in the NRA requiring all employees to refrain from talking to newspaper men. All official talk must come from Gen. Johnson.

The last one who tried that was Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, whose ruling lasted three days.

HOPE

Republican authorities believe that they may gain more than eighty democratic house seats in the next election. They are imbued with the idea that the tide has turned. After the house vote on the veterans' veto their enthusiasm hums even to the length of expecting a complete overthrow of the house.

DIFFICULTY

Relief Administrator Hopkins carried to President Roosevelt his plea for control over the federal employment service, now under the labor department. The president called in Labor Secretary Perkins, who protested strenuously.

The federal employment service will continue under the labor department.

NOTES

Senator Byrnes' argument that additional taxes would be needed to meet the extra expense of the veterans' bill did not receive general favor. The rubber budget can be stretched.

They raised the price of beans in the house restaurant the other day and the management spent the afternoon answering congressional complaints.

Speaker Rainey has been asked to join the committee for the nation, but has not done so as yet.

Telegraphic protests against the Wagner labor board bill and the unemployment insurance bill are breaking all records. Industry does not like the 5 per cent payroll tax feature.

The committee for the nation is selling Dr. Wirt's ideas at 25 cents a pamphlet, which is considerably more than the cost of production.

The English shire horse is the heaviest in the world. It is of the same breed as those used by armor-clad knights in the Middle Ages.

Mount Aconagua is the highest and Death Valley, Calif., the lowest point in the western hemisphere.

Kenos Items

KENO, Ore.—Mrs. Ross Simmers who has been quite ill at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rollin Brown in Klamath Falls, returned to her home.

Mrs. Clark Abbott and daughter returned to their home here, having spent the past week visiting at Beavercreek, Cal.

Marion Morton of Montague, Cal., and Wayne and Mable Spencer of Beavercreek, were visiting in Keno recently.

Orval Abbott of Ashland, was a visitor here.

Herman Dahms who is working at Gaselle, Cal., visited his family here.

All children invited to the service, which includes an Easter program. Sunday night at 7:45 the big Easter pageant put on by the young people of the church under the direction of Mrs. Fred Hornshuh will be presented. This will be a rare Easter treat and all are welcome.

The pastor, Rev. Fred Hornshuh invites everybody to this special day in commemoration of the Resurrection of our Lord, and the sermons will be on this theme. Week night services as usual. All welcome.

The First Methodist Church, North Tenth and High Streets. John B. Coan, Minister.

An Easter morning service of high inspiration is announced to open promptly at 10:45 o'clock. All available seating space will be utilized. Those arriving late will remain in the vestibule until designated periods for seating. An elaborate program of music and other features has been prepared. The Calvary Commandery of Knights Templar will be the guests of the church and pastor in this service. The public is invited and urged to arrive before the opening of the processional. Choral presentations are under the direction of Mr. R. E. Patterson, leader and Mrs. E. S. Veatch, pianist. They include "Onward Christian Soldiers"; Processional; "The Storm" from DuBou's "Seven Last Words of Christ" with quartet epilogue; Choral exaltation "Fling Wide the Gates" from John Steiner's "The Crucifixion"; Charles Wesley's "The Crucifixion"; "He Lives" from Foster's "The Prince of Life"; Solo, "Christ the Lord is Risen"; "The Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's "The Messiah" and recessional "Easter March" by Merkel.

In the morning service the pastor will speak briefly on "The Pathway of Glory." There will be dedication of infants and young children in baptism and receptions of new members into the church. The Sunday School will meet as usual at 9:30 a. m. The young people's societies will hold another joint session at 6:15 p. m. At 7:30 o'clock the closing service of the Duff Irish Trio will be held. A cordial invitation is extended to all, to the services of this day.

Easter Services of Sacred Heart Parish—On Easter Sunday at Sacred Heart church at the High Mass, music will be presented by the choir, who offered by the direction of Mrs. Pauline Underhill, will sing Leonard's Mass in F. The Offertory anthem, "The Lord is Risen," (O. Queen of Heaven Rejoice) was composed by Antonio Lotti, in the 17th Century, and is a beautiful piece of music. The Vidi Aquam, which will also be sung by the choir is another work of the old masters, and will be rendered during the services.

The choir is composed of the following voices: Soprano, Marie Davenport; Ethel Fenwick; Mrs. Emil Dreher; Mrs. Roy Pickett; June Smith and Madge Nelms. Altos, Mrs. George Dougherty and Mrs. Julian Abbott. Tenors, Roy Pickett, Lynn Roycroft and George P. Donahue. Basses, Hugh Fenwick and Ted MacDonnell.

Warren Cronon will act as organist.

At the 8 o'clock Mass, music will be rendered by the Children's Choir of Sacred Heart Academy, who under the direction of his Sisters, have practiced faithfully for the Easter Services.

The First Christian Church, Ninth and Pine Streets, offers an Easter program of interest and inspiration. The day begins with the sunrise prayer service on the hill east of the city at 6 a. m. The program, under the direction of the young people of this church, is as follows: Trumpet solo by Elwood McKim. Hymn, "Christ Arose" by the congregation. Scripture Reading and prayer by Rev. Fred Hornshuh. A Trio, "Christ is Risen." Short address by Arthur Charles Bates, Duet, "The Old Rugged Cross," by Everett and Catherine Esgate. Hymn, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," by congregation. Telling the Editor

(Editor's Note—Inspired by recent local developments, the Bard of Linkville, now pretty widely known to be our good friend, Nelson Reed, comes forth with a new offering in rhyme and meter. His first contribution, in which he made frequent use of the word balcony, was widely circulated over the state. The sentiments herein, of course, are the bard's own.)

OUR WILLIS
Willis E. Mahoney
Had a right hand man;
He picked up the sick crooks,
Threw them in the can.
But our Willis never let
His good left hand know
How the copper's milk fund
Came to get so low.
So "Boller" doesn't work
here anymore.

Willis only last week
Had a swell committee,
Public-minded citizens,
Fines in the city.
Just when Willis thought that
Everything was fine,
His committee found out
It would take their time.
So "Boller" doesn't work
here anymore.

Tickets for the milk fund;
Help the poor kids out!
Think how pleased the kids were Hearing Willis shout!
Willis got a wrist watch?
Some folks say he did.
Gone is his "Committee"
To sit on the lid.
So "Boller" doesn't work
here anymore.

Two or three nice coppers
Almost went to jail.
Willis never wondered
Where they got the kale.
Warm spring rains bring mushrooms,
Probably it sprouted.
Maybe Willis thought so;
Lots of people doubted.
So "Boller" doesn't work
here anymore.

Now we have a new "Chief,"
Willis is quite sunk.
"Boller" soon will tell all,
Willis says it's building.
Willis says the battle's over,
Both have had their say,
Here's a little wasser
"Boller" like to lay:
That Willis doesn't work
here anymore!
THE BARD OF LINKVILLE.
