

Unlucky Managers in Mourning

Traded Players Play Brilliantly Under New Colors. Klein, Bonura, Goslin, Stone, Wilson and Others Bring Trouble to Former Bosses.

It's a bit early to bring the crying towels out of seclusion, but if six or seven young men who earn their salt on the diamond continue to pound the pellet as they have in early season, there are several managers scheduled to go into mourning.

One of these big league pilots is Jimmy Wilson. The shrewd backstop and manager of the Phillies will exercise his lachrymal glands profusely if the present season ends. His tear-shedding will result from the fact that last November 21 the Philadelphia management parted with one Chuck Klein, the only ball-player on the club, for a parcel from the Cubs consisting of Koenig, Kleinbans, Hendrick and a sum reported to be between $75,000 and $125,000.

The sale of Klein to the Cubs not only wrecked Jimmy Wilson's ball club and kept the customers away from the Philadelphia park in droves, but it also gave the Cubs a pennant-winning punch.

Another pilot crying in his beer is Walter Johnson. Sitting Bull of the Cleveland Indians. His attack of the blues is being caused by the antics of one Henry "Zek" Bonura, the gent who's making Al Simmons take a back seat in the swatting division of the Chicago White Sox.

A couple of years ago the Indians had Bonura all sewed up, but they dangled around with him, farming him out to New Orleans, Toledo and Dallas, and finally cast him loose. Zek has become the Howitzer of the Sox. His big bat has boomed forth with enough homers to put him among the leaders of the American league—and it's his first year in big time!

A trio of other major league managers are suffering in their hankies. They are Joe Cronin of the Senators, Charley Grimm of the Cubs, and Bill Terry of the Giants.

Joe's grief is caused by the fact that the front office traded Goose Goslin to the Detroit Tigers for Johnny Stone last winter. It appears that the swap was made simply because the prominent-visaged gent didn't deliver so handsomely in the world series of 1933. His .255 average didn't please Clark Griffith at all.

The powers that be, thinking the Goose at 33, was washed up, promptly got rid of him for a younger guy.

Judging by his power with the willow with the Tigers so far this year, Goslin is still very much a ball player. This may be his last year in baseball—but if Mickey Cochran can get one good year out of him, he'll make the Senators rue the day they parted with the New Jersey gentleman farmer.

Charley Grimm, while elating over the fact that he acquired Klein from the Phillies, is somewhat morose over a deal engineered in 1932 that sent Hack Wilson to the Dodgers. Last year Grimm was all smiles. But with Wilson again hitting his stride and bombarding payments outside the fences of ball parks with home runs, the banjo-playing Dutchman strums an occasional indigo tune.

Terry is another who is sad—although the shedding of salty fluid is not brought on by his own mistake.

The mistake was one of the few made by the late John McGraw when he was active driver of the Giants' ship of fate. Little Napoleon picked up a youngster named Len Koencke from Indianapolis. John paid 75,000 kopecs for Len—and thought he had a $75,000 lemon.

There was a story circulated at the time that Terry and Koencke had worked up a feud. Koencke soon found himself going down the river to Jersey City and finally to Buffalo in the transaction that brought Blondy Ryan to New York.

When Len was made part of the deal that sent Sam Leslie to the Dodgers for Lefty O'Doul and Lefty Clark, another story made the rounds that Bill was sending Koencke to Brooklyn for revenge.

Regardless of the reported feeling between Terry and Koencke this corner has an idea that Memphis Bill is just a bit sorry that Koencke isn't doing his swell hitting with the Dodgers for the Giants.

PELICANS FACE BUSY WEEK-END

Baseball Games, Track Meet on Schedule This Week.

Track and baseball, the two major spring sports at Klamath high school, will come into their own this week-end, with three important events.

Friday afternoon the Pelican baseball team will meet Ashland on Modoc field at 3:00 o'clock. It will be the first home contest of the year.

Track Team at G. P. On Saturday the Pelican nine will clash with Lakeview here at 2:00 o'clock.

While the baseball team battled its foe from the neighboring county, Leslie Avert, track coach, will take his track and field stars to Grants Pass for the annual district finals.

Friday's baseball game will give Klamath an opportunity to avenge the 6 to 5 defeat suffered in the valley last week. It was the first time this year Dwight French's players had been reversed.

Klamath Meet Near

The Grants Pass district meet will be of major importance to the Pelican team, for it will determine the entrants from this territory for the state championships at Oregon State college later in the month.

The meet, too, will be the closing competition of the season before the Pelicans enter the Southern Oregon-Northern California track and field meet on Modoc field to defend their titles of 1932 and 1933. This event is scheduled for Saturday, May 12.

Track teams in Southern Oregon and Northern California saw a chance to lift the title here following Klamath's defeat at Bend last Saturday. The Lava Bears and Grants Pass have vaulted into favorite positions to capture the championship held by the Pelicans since the 30-30 club introduced the Modoc field meet two seasons ago.

Mission Reds Threaten Lead of Los Angeles

By Associated Press
Sergeant Gaby Street, who not so long ago led the St. Louis Cardinals to a world championship, brought his Mission Reds back to San Francisco today from a triumphant invasion of the Northwest to inaugurate "Stop-the-Ansels-Week" at Seals stadium.

The sergeant's baseballers did very well at Seattle and Portland, taking 11 out of 14 games. Even so, they dropped a game behind the pennant-bound Angels, now four games in front of the Reds.

Hope of halting the Los Angeles drive towards a second straight championship rests largely in the slugging powers of the Reds. Headed by Louis Almada, Jim Stroner, Oscar Eckhardt, Al Wright and Babe Dahlgren, the Missions boast the heaviest hitting aggregation in the circuit.

Whether the Mission tossers can check the Angel batsmen—second only to the Reds in team hitting—remains to be seen. Pichers of Portland, Hollywood, Oakland and Sacramento won only five out of 25 games with the Los Angeles club.

Safely entrenched in third place, the San Francisco Seals move to Los Angeles for a series with the Hollywood Stars. Oakland takes on Sacramento at the California capital, while Portland and Seattle cross bats at Portland.

Late Entries Flood U. S. Golf Tourney

NEW YORK, May 1. (UP)—Late entries for the United States open golf championship swamped office workers of the United States Golf association. It was expected entries would surpass the 900 of 1933.

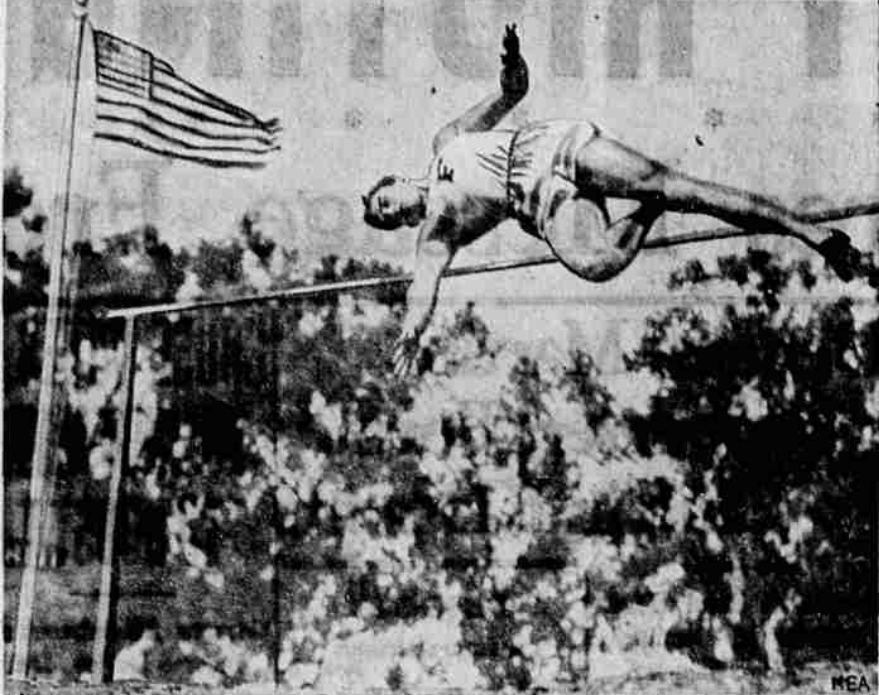

The open will be played at the Merion Cricket club, Ardmore, Pa., on June 7, 8 and 9. Qualifying rounds will be played in 22 sections on May 14.

Just to Make It Official, Marty Does It Again

When Walter Marty, Fresno State Teachers' College champion high jumper, leaped 6 feet 9 1/2 inches in a recent meet, the mark was disallowed officially because a required number of official judges was not present. Competing against Stanford at Palo Alto and using the same pit as in the previous jump, he scaled 6 feet 9 1/2 inches to destroy the 10-year-old world record. Fifty of A. A. U. officials were on hand to approve the mark he is seen above establishing.

Youngsters on Walker Team Scoff At St. Andrews' Jinx

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 1. (UP)—The younger members of America's Walker cup golfing team have decided after two practice rounds that St. Andrews famous course is just a "push-over."

The youngsters are busy warning them there is no more deceptive layout in the world.

Pitfalls Taken Lightly

Such youngsters as Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati and Gus Moreland of Texas, both newcomers to British play, were inclined to make light of the widely known pitfalls of the course after their first encounter with it.

Fischer, who drives the longest ball of the team of nine, blasted out a gaudy 72, one under par, on his second trip around the layout, while Moreland, despite four three-putt greens, returned a 74.

Two Birdies Scored

"What's tough about this course?" Moreland wanted to know after he had scored his second successive birdie at the famous "road hole," grave yard of many a golfer's championship hopes.

Somebody might have tipped off the Texan that it was on that particular hole that Davie Ayton, apparently headed for an open championship, once took 11 strokes. Chick Evans, American star, was thrown there for a loss in the shape of an eight, and other first-rate golfers have taken as many as 13 strokes at it. On the other hand, a Scotman, Peter Robertson, holed out there in two strokes, a drive and a brassie, in 1922, a feat never equaled, before or since.

Egan Equals Mark

Moreland's practice score of 74 was equalled by Chandler Egan, veteran from the far west, while Johnny Goodman, Lawson Little and Jack Weiland had 75. Captain Francis Oulmet carded 78 and Max Marston a 79. George Dunlap, American amateur titleholder, took an 80 and probably was reminded of his last two tussles with the course. The former Princeton Star reeled off a 72 and 74 in the first two rounds of the British Open here last year and then wound up with a pair of 80s.

Britain's team of ten for the international matches May 11 and 12 was completed with the appointment of Lionel Munn, 47-year-old player from Kent and Eric McRivie, a 24-year-old Scot. The other members of the squad include the Hon. Michael Scott, British amateur champion; Cyril Tolley, Roger Wethered, T. A. Torrence, Eric Piddian, Jack McLean, E. L. McKinlay and H. G. Bentley.

CHICAGO SOX STOP INDIANS

Pale Hose Score 20 to 10 Victory Over Cleveland Monday.

By HERBERT W. BROWN
Associated Press Sports Writer
An overnight rise of 23 points in the Chicago Whitesox' batting average had induced their backers to shed their principal cause for alarm.

The pale hose, woeful disappointments in the early stages of the American league race, broke no records as they blasted five Cleveland pitchers for 18 hits and a 20-10 victory, Monday, but the rattle of baseballs at Comiskey park was the sweetest music Whitesox fans have heard this spring.

Simmons Leads Way

Until they finally broke loose, the Sox had batted only .242 in nine games, losing six of them, but the barrage they laid down at the expense of Monte Pearson and a varied collection of successors indicated the batting crisis had passed.

Al Simmons, who had made only seven safeties in his first nine engagements, led the fusillade with three hits, including his third homer in as many days. Sad Sam Jones, veteran right hander, started for Chicago but weakened after holding the Indians to six hits in six innings and retired in favor of Joe Heving with the score 20-3.

Yanks in Lead

Meanwhile the New York Yankees regained first place by tripping Washington, 7-4, while the Detroit Tigers were taking a 7-2 beating from St. Louis' Browns. Charley Ruffing went the route for the Yankees and drove in the winning runs in the ninth with a lusty drive into the left field bleachers with two on.

The Browns hopped on Lynwood Rowe for four runs in the first three innings and won from the Tigers, going away.

Fine relief pitching by Bob Kline and successive homers by Frank Higgins and Lou Finney in the eighth helped the Philadelphia Athletics win from Boston, 6-2, in the other American league tussle.

Cubs, Giants Win

The Chicago Cubs and New York Giants held their places at the top of the National league heap. The Cubs had to travel 17 miles to earn an 8-6 decision over the Pittsburgh Pirates with Guy Bush's courageous relief pitching and Gaby Hartnett's string of three hits, including his fifth homer, as the decisive factors.

The Giants rolled to a 5-6 triumph over the Brooklyn Dodgers as big Fred Fitzsimmons stopped the Stengels men cold with five scattered hits.

Bartell's double and Ruble's single enabled the Phillies to top the Boston Braves, 5-4 in a tight 10 inning struggle while the St. Louis Cardinals rallied in 12 innings to earn an 8-6 decision over the Pittsburgh Pirates with Guy Bush's courageous relief pitching and Gaby Hartnett's string of three hits, including his fifth homer, as the decisive factors.

The Eastern band will be swelled to nine, with the arrival Thursday of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Spy Hill.

Derby Hopefuls Ready for Annual Event Saturday

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 1. (AP)—A formidable array of Eastern candidates for the Kentucky Derby Saturday, headed by Mrs. E. D. Sloane's record-breaking English-bred colt, Cavalcade, familiarized themselves with the Churchill Downs racing plant today, while a smart band of rivals engaged in an actual racing test to weed out the unfit from the Western hopefuls.

The seaboard nominees, already conditioned by racing in the East, included Mrs. Sloane's Time Clock, Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Discovery, Mrs. Frank J. Heller's Agrarian, and Mrs. J. H. Whitney's Singing Wood, J. H. Louchheim's Speedster and John Simonetti's Sgt. Byrne.

Another Eastern eligible, Joseph E. Widener's Peace Chance, which has been training here, was entered in the Preparation purse for three-year-olds in an effort to show he is equally as capable as the Western band headed by A. B. Gordon's Sir Thomas, the favorite to win today's "Derby Trial" over one mile at the Downs.

Other prominent Western eligibles entered in the Preparation were W. E. Smith's Likewise, Albert Sabbath's Dan Sabbath, E. R. Bradley's Blue Arain and Calumet Farm's Prince Pompey.

Charles T. Fisher's Mata Hari and Colonel Bradley's Bazaar, the Derby, Gordon's Sir Thomas and only fillets that will run in the Norman W. Church's Hinklings, winner of the Agua Caliente Derby, were the only Western hopefuls considered certain to start in the $30,000 added stakes Saturday.

The Eastern band will be swelled to nine, with the arrival Thursday of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Spy Hill.

CORBETT LOOMS AS CONTENDER

Ex-Champion Knocks Out Young Terry in 3rd Round.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1. (UP)—Stripped of his welterweight crown less than a year ago, a boisterous fighter thought to be on the downgrade, Young Corbett of Fresno loomed out today as a challenger for the middleweight title with a three-round knockout victory over Young Terry of Trenton, N. J., written into his comeback record.

The sturdy Italian left hander, whose welterweight campaigning ended abruptly last spring after a one-round knockout by Jimmy McLarnin, made a convincing bid for recognition in the 160-pound division with his smashing win over an opponent, who has met and defeated some of the best middleweights in the country.

A terrific left to the body sent Terry down for the full count after two minutes and 31 seconds of fighting in the third round of the scheduled ten rounder.

Corbett Takes Lead

The knockout came just after a furious exchange at close range. Corbett had won the two preceding rounds by cleaner and sharper punching. Bent on regaining lost ground, the Trenton boy rushed out for the third and carried the battle to his southpaw opponent. He whacked Corbett with both hands to the body in a fast exchange and rushed in again with arms swinging only to be met with a jolting left that dropped him on the canvas, face down.

It was a clean cut knockout that brought more than six thousand fans to their feet with its suddenness. Referee Toby Irwin could have tolled off two counts as Terry writhed on the floor.

Early Rushes Halted

Corbett jumped into the lead with a left to the jaw as the bout opened and except for Terry's rally in the early part of the third, was master of the situation.

Terry's first round rushes were halted by solid body punches while in the second another left to the chin sent him backwards halfway across the ring. Corbett continued to batter the Trenton boy's mid-section in the second session although the latter drove in steadily. Terry was dangerous at all times, however, until he sprawled suddenly on the canvas.

The Fresnoan weighed 153 1/2 pounds with Terry coming in at 152 pounds. Corbett was the pre-fight favorite but not to win by a knockout.
