KLAMATH BATTERY LEAVES ON JUNE 11

Sixty men and three officers of Battery D, 249th coast artillery, the Klamath National Guard unit, will leave here the evening of June 11, for the summer encampment at Fort Stevens, according to word received here.

The officers who will make the trip are Captain D. E. Van Vactor, First Lieutenant T. B. Case and Second Lieutenant Dewey Powell. Names of the men will be announced in the newspapers shortly before the trip.

The trip to Fort Stevens will be taken in two special cars on the Southern Pacific. The unit will return to Klamath Falls on June 27.

The local C. N. G. unit has received a telegram from headquarters to the effect that full pay for 48 drills a year is to be resumed immediately. For economy purposes, pay was cut down to 36 drills some time ago. The local guardsmen, however, continued to practice on the 48-drill basis, foregoing pay for part of the work.

BASIN VISITED BY SNOW STORM

Driving rain storms of Monday night turned to snow in many parts of the Klamath Basin, and a near blizzard was reported from the Merrill district. The snow melted as soon as it hit the ground, however.

The night's precipitation measured .29 inches, according to the U. S. weather bureau, and a total rainfall of .73 inches has been realized by this district since the spring showers began Sunday night.

Farmers' delight in the abundant moisture turned to anxiety, however, when the mercury slid down to 33 for Monday night's minimum, and the weatherman predicted local frosts for Tuesday night. Clearing skies and brisk, cool winds were included on the weather menu. Rising temperatures for the interior were predicted for Wednesday.

Hand Carved Chest on Display Here

A large hand carved camphor wood chest obtained in Hongkong, China, by a sea captain friend of her family was received Monday by Mrs. Frederick Forbes and is being displayed in the window of the Forbes drug store at the corner of Sixth street and Klamath avenue this week.

The top, front and ends of the chest are deeply hand carved and show a picturesque scene of life along a Chinese river. Camphor trees are carved drooping over the edges of the stream and crude bridges under which Chinese boats are gliding.

The chest, according to the sea captain, is one of the finest specimens of its kind ever constructed by hand in China, Mrs. Forbes said. Mrs. Forbes said she obtained the chest for her daughter, Miss Jane Forbes.

Columbia River Bridge Approved

WASHINGTON, May 1, (AP)—Plans for a bridge across the Columbia river at Astoria, Ore., were approved today by the war department.

The application for a permit to construct the span was made by the Rivers Improvement Corporation of Astoria. The bridge already had been authorized by an act of congress.

To Wed? Ruth Won't Tell

Sh-h-h! It's supposed to be a deep secret, but marriage is just around the corner for Ruth Channing, lovely movie actress, her friends say. They expect her to marry Hamilton McFadden, director, as soon as McFadden can get a divorce from his first wife. But Ruth, as you see, isn't telling her secret—yet.

Famous Indian Fighter Dies Monday Night At Washington

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP)—Noted both as an Indian fighter and as a friend of the red man, Major General Hugh L. Scott is dead.

The former chief of staff of the army had been in Walter Reed hospital here for two months because of the infirmities of his 80 years. He died late last night. Princeton, New Jersey, was his home.

Four decades of picturesque military service began when Scott, newly graduated from West Point, plunged into the 1876 Sioux expedition and the following drives against Nez Perce and Cheyenne Indians.

As late as 1931, commissioned by the library of congress, he called his friends from 13 tribes to a last parley at Browning, Montana. There he conversed with them in the primitive sign language which would have perished with its users.

The strange method of expression, which Scott was the only white man to master, was written indelibly into motion picture film.

The red warriors feared Scott when he was forced to the use of arms. But they respected and trusted him as a man who tried to understand them and to deal with them by conciliation in preference to conflict.

President Wilson advanced Scott to chief of staff in 1914, and he held the post at the outbreak of the World War. It was he who suggested General John J. Pershing be placed over American troops in France. Four children and the widow survive.

2 TREE TROOPERS DISCOVER PURSE

In a letter to The Herald and News, Carl B. Kite of CCC camp No. 1555, Annie Springs, asks a correction of printed information concerning the finding of another purse at the automobile wreck in which Audrea Mardelle and Dorris Sparks were killed last November.

Kite said he and Lawrence Hardesty found the purse. He said the pair were working at a "stub camp" on Lost Creek, which was being prepared for occupation of Camp No. 1634. They decided to hike down the canyon and view the wreck.

When they got to the wreck site in Sand Creek, they found the car had been righted and was standing crossways to the creek. As they were examining the car, they noticed the purse lying on the dashboard. Apparently it had been dropped from under the board, to where it had been thrown when the car overturned.

The pair took the purse to their camp, and on advise of Captain McMahon, turned it over to Ranger Simpson of the park service.

U. S. NOT TO TAKE PERSONAL NOTES

The department of the interior is unwilling to accept personal notes for 1934 water rental charges on the Tulelake division, according to information received here from Senator McNary, who has taken the matter up with Washington officials.

Copy of a letter from the interior department to Congressman Engelbreight of California was sent here by McNary. It refers to the fact that notes were accepted on water rentals last year and states:

"The practice was approved with some hesitation, for one season only, and is not working well as it has resulted in the government's accepting certain notes which have not been paid, thus resulting in the establishment of an operation and maintenance delinquency contrary to the spirit of the statutes cited above."

At the instance of a group of Tulelake homesteaders, the local chamber of commerce urged Washington officials to consider repeating the personal note plan for this year's rentals.

NORTHSIDE CLUB MEETS THURSDAY

The Northside Improvement club will hold a regular meeting Thursday evening in the Fairview school building. The meeting will be called to order at 7:30 o'clock by President J. H. Fikes.

Following a short business meeting, candidates for office will be given an opportunity to speak. Musical numbers will be presented by the club during the program. All members of the club and candidates are urged to attend.

Twenty-four of the 27 candidates seeking the primary nomination for county offices attended a meeting at Merrill, Monday evening, sponsored by the Ladies Aid society and the Merrill Service club.

Following a three-minute talk by each, cakes baked by members of the Ladies' Aid society were sold and strawberry shortcake served.

COUNTY'S CCC QUOTA BOOSTED

Klamath county's quota of Citizens Conservation Corps recruits has been increased by 50, according to information received by telephone from Medford Tuesday.

County Judge George Grisale, who received the message, urged that young men who can qualify for CCC camps as to age and other requirements, get in touch immediately with Miss Phyllis Hartzog, county relief director, and file their applications.

The judge said it was his understanding that Klamath county must supply its quota immediately or the additional men will be taken from somewhere else.

WEATHER

The Cyclo-Stormagraph at Underwood's Pharmacy recorded a rising barometric pressure Tuesday morning but the reading is still low and occasional squalls are not unlikely.

The Tycos recording thermometer registered maximum and minimum temperatures today as follows:

High 54
Low 33

Forecast for next 24 hours:

Generally fair and cool with brisk winds.

The United States weather bureau reports .44 inches precipitation for the 24-hour period ending Monday at 5 p. m.; 7.39 for the season to date; 9.98 normal; 7.07 last year.

Lazarus IV, mongrel terrier, doesn't know just what the score is, but he's receiving more attention than any canine. The dog was killed with nitrogen on Friday the 13th and after four minutes was revived by Dr. Robert Cornish, young University of California scientist. He has been kept alive ever since, eats eggs, milk and even liver. Lazarus is shown sitting up with the aid of Robert Krider, who is assisting in the Cornish experiment.

First Lady Denies Furniture Profits

The charge of Senator Thomas D. Schall that the furniture plant owned by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was selling furniture at five times the price charged for similar products of other factories, brought a sharp denial from the First Lady, who said the founders of the factory have "not made a cent". She is here shown examining displays of handiwork by miners at the Commerce Building, where she issued her denial.

Fines Assessed in City Court

Leo Ocampos forfeited $10 bail Tuesday, when he failed to appear in police court to answer to charges of intoxication. He was arrested Monday night.

Fred Lucas was fined $20 or given an alternate jail sentence of 20 days, on a charge of drunkenness, according to the police arrest docket. Lucas was given a heavy sentence because of a long police record, the police judge asserted.

Jimmie John Jackson, Indian, was assessed a fine of $10 for drunkenness.

Noted American Physician Dies in East Monday

BALTIMORE, May 1 (AP)—Dr. William H. Welch, dean of American scientific medicine, who died in his sleep late yesterday at the age of 85, has left behind a long record of discoveries and advancement in medical research, particularly in pathology.

Last month marked the golden anniversary of his association with the John Hopkins university. Death was attributed to cancer.

Dr. Welch introduced to this country many of the developments in bacteriology from the laboratories of Pasteur and Kock. He discovered the bacillus which produces hydrogen gas in wounds, usually with fatal results, and he made noteworthy progress in combatting many diseases, ailments and poisoning.

The descendant of a long line of New England physicians, he studied in the United States and Europe before coming here in 1884 to aid in founding the Hopkins medical school with Sir William Osler, Dr. William S. Halstead and Dr. Hofard A. Kelly.

"Popsy" was the name by which "this modest sage of Baltimore"—as Dr. Livingston Farrand of Cornell once called him—was known to the hundreds of medical men to whom he had been mentor.

On his eightieth birthday, Dr. Welch was honored at simultaneous banquets held in many of the principal cities of the world. President Herbert Hoover at the Washington celebration said, "more than any other American he has contributed to the relief of human suffering and pain."

Following funeral services, the body will be taken to Norfolk, Conn., for burial in the family plot.

BULK MAYONNAISE ACTION SUPPORTED

SEATTLE, May 1.—The Northwest Council of Women, representing with its affiliated groups an aggregate of nearly 70,000 Washington and Oregon clubwomen, today is on record as urging city and state health authorities to abolish the sale of bulk mayonnaise.

The council's action was based upon university and other authoritative reports that bulk mayonnaise is subject to serious contamination because of the method of handling, and therefore constitutes a hazard to health.

Following is the resolution as unanimously adopted by the 60 women leaders present:

"Reputable authorities, including universities, food laboratories and health experts, consider the retail vending of bulk mayonnaise and salad dressing to be a hazard to public health.

"Such mayonnaise, through repeated exposure to air and careless handling, is apt to become contaminated.

"The University of Washington joins with other responsible groups in condemning present practices.

"It is the duty of all public-spirited citizens to exert their influence toward the common welfare, particularly as it pertains to health; now, therefore, be it

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting, representing officers of leading women's clubs in the state of Washington, that mayonnaise should be dispensed only in the original sanitary containers, and that the practice of vending it in bulk form should be abolished by act of the state and the several cities of Washington."

The meeting was addressed by several important health leaders, including Dr. E. R. Coffey, Director of the Washington State Board of Health; Miss Louise Allen, of the Washington Health Department; Miss Ellen Joyce of the Seattle Health Department; Mrs. Henry Broder, Seattle Chapter of the American Red Cross; Mrs. Rhoda Hodge, Better Homes chairman; and Mrs. Ross W. Copeland of the Home Economics department of the Parent-Teachers association.
