SCHOOL BOARD RECEIVES KUHS ANNUAL REPORT

A review of the school year of 1933-'34, described as the most successful under his administration, is given in a report prepared by Principal Paul Jackson of Klamath Union high school, and submitted to the board of directors. Jackson also included a number of recommendations for future policy.

An important item in the report is the notation that the Northwest Accrediting association has warned the high school that its classes are too large. Jackson said that this condition is particularly serious in science classes, and that one or two more teachers may be necessary to comply with the demands for reduced classes.

The principal declared that K. U. H. S. has enjoyed its most successful year in athletics. He proposed further stimulation of town interest by offering a $2.00 season football ticket admitting to all home games, a season basketball ticket for $2.50, and by adopting the athletic plan recently worked out by the district and the citizen's athletic committee.

He also urged closest co-operation with that committee. Jackson reported that from 15 to 40 men from the transient bureau have been working on Modoc field. He recommended use of the men as long as possible, as it costs the district nothing. Summer repairs on buildings and grounds recommended included re-decoration of several rooms, painting of the gym bleachers, re-painting of Modoc field bleachers, enlargement of the principal's office.

The principal proposed that the plan of operating the cafeteria in connection with the home economics department be continued next year because of its success. About $1200 has been saved the district under the present plan. A total of 19,721 sold meals were served in the cafeteria this year.

School bus operation has been successful, and a co-operative plan carried out with the county and city school superintendents. Two of the buses are six years old, and it may be good economy to budget for replacements next year.

The total of days' attendance at the school for the year was 141,633. The average attendance, daily, at 899.3, with the per cent of attendance, 96.7. Jackson noted that K. U. H. S. contributes $175.00 per month for the county library, and suggested that some plan be worked out whereby the school will have representation on the library board.

The principal suggested that "as soon as feasible" the school board require teachers to attend six weeks of summer school at least once every three years.

Jackson recommended that the Polican theatre be used again next year for graduation exercises. He noted that the theatre had been provided through the generosity of Harry W. Poole, and suggested a letter of appreciation be sent Poole.

The report touched every phase of school activity, and gave credit to the board for its help and cooperation.

LIQUOR BOARD ORGANIZATION CHANGES LOOM

PORTLAND, June 13, (P)—Although he declined to reveal plans, George L. Sammis, administrator for the liquor control commission, reported at a meeting here Tuesday he has a proposal for reorganization of the system which will save between $1,500 and $2,000 a month.

There was no intimation as to what the "reorganization" would embrace, but observers believed for some time that a change was due in the set-up involving the supervisors of the three administrative regions established by the state commission.

The commission announced that effective now, "established purveyors of foodstuffs" may apply for and, if the usual requirements are met, receive licenses to dispense beer, provided they agree to sell nothing stronger than 3.6 beer. It had been announced previously that no more licenses would be issued until July 15, when alcoholic content of draft beer will be set, by order of the commission, to not more than 3.6 per cent. Sammis told the commissioners the state stores and agencies sold about $213,000 worth of liquors and wines during May. Since the system was organized sales have totaled about $529,000, he said.

New Model Money Being Printed by Treasury Bureau

WASHINGTON, June 13, (U.P.)—They were in the midst of a $31,000,000 day when we dropped in at the bureau of engraving and printing Tuesday to get the word on the new stream-lined, knee-action money that all are going to be scrambling for pretty soon.

The paper money we have now is very much out of style. For one thing, it bears the signature of a man named A. W. Mellon who used to work over in the treasury department. Well, Andy doesn't live here any more, so they are going to destroy all the money he signed and put out some Henry Morgenthau, Jr., models.

It is a very pleasing sight, indeed, to stand on a concrete runway at the bureau of printing and engraving and watch a million bucks slide by in about 20 minutes. It is also quite a temptation to reach down and get a sample to take home, but they have very tough looking fellows standing around.
