

PLANS SHAPED FOR FARMING CONFERENCE

Comprehensive plans for the farm outlook conference to be held here February 25 to 28 were shaped at a meeting of committees representing various branches of the agricultural industry, held Thursday.

E. R. Jackman, farm crops specialist of the state college, was present. Sub-committees that met with the farm crops committee represented potatoes, hay and forage, grain, truck crops, and small seeds.

In the small seed division, the possibilities of the development of a market for Alaska clover were discussed. Peas, ladak alfalfa, crested wheat grass and alfalfa seed were other topics placed under this year.

It was decided under the potato division to bring up the following discussions: freight rates, organization of certified seed growers, fertilizer results, control of eel worm, potato storage. Under grain there will be a discussion of recommended varieties, more certified grain, market in the Pacific northwest for brewing barley. In connection with the latter topic, it was brought out that while there is a brewing barley market in this region, much of the barley now available is injured in harvest.

On truck crops, every possible article will be covered. Hay and storage discussions will be devoted to proper handling, growing better qualities, feeding more livestock here, and rotation with potatoes.

Another meeting will be held shortly to get the report further into shape.

Plans Memorial

Burt K. Snyder of Lakeview, newly-elected president of the Shasta-Cascade Wonderland association, recently announced plans to erect a memorial to the Oregon-California line in honor of Bill Hanley, pioneer stockman, statesman and philosopher. Mr. Snyder said the Oregon State Motor association had suggested a "small museum in which would be kept historical records of the early Oregon cattle country."

RETAIL TRADE CONTINUES TO RISE SLOWLY

NEW YORK, Nov. 8. (AP)—The slow rise in retail trade during the week was contributed almost entirely by moderate expansion in sections where colder weather prevailed. Dun & Bradstreet said today.

"As the covering of fall requirements, which had been held in check since mid-October, proceeded on a generous scale in those districts gripped by cold, volume of retail sales was 3 to 10 per cent larger than a week earlier," the survey said.

"The estimated gain for the country over the 1934 comparative ranged from 5 to 15 per cent, with cities reporting a loss in the minority."

"The pace of buying in wholesale markets was not in step with that in retail distribution, as merchants have yet to work off sizeable stocks which should have been moved in October."

"Mail requests specifying immediate shipment of blankets, oil burners, knitted underwear, automobile accessories, and winter hardware ran to good proportions from districts affected by the cold wave."

"Delayed commitments for holiday requirements were released generously, as merchants in some districts are making preparations for the largest Christmas season since 1928."

CITY BRIEFS

Contract Let—A. S. Wallace of Roseburg was given the contract by the state highway commission for furnishing crushed rock for the Ashland-Jenny Creek project on the Greensprings highway, at a bid of $15,265. He also won the contract for grading, widening and surfacing the Paisley-Chevanan narrows section of the Fremont highway in Lake county.

Two Arrests Made—Two arrests were made by the city police patrolmen Thursday night. Clarence La Paisie, charged with vagrancy, was fined $100 and given a jail sentence of 40 days. Both punishments were suspended to allow the defendant to leave town. P. W. Boyle, charged with drunkenness, was fined $10 on the count by Police Judge Richmond Saturday.

Nearly 600 Hear Outstanding Concert Program Presented At Armory Thursday

By JANE EPLEY
About 600 Klamath people were treated last night to music that would be outstanding in the largest cities and at the highest prices, when they heard Olga Dane, dynamic and gifted contralto, and Gertrude Schrage, talented 16-year-old violinist, in concert at the new Klamath armory under the sponsorship of the Business and Professional Women's chorus.

Miss Dane showed great artistry and histrionic ability besides a voice of rare quality and depth in her diversified program. It is easy to see why she made such an unprecedented success in opera during her last two years in southern California. It is predicted that, when she starts for the Metropolitan Opera company in New York next February, she will create as much of a sensation as she has on the Pacific coast.

Encores were many last night, and each number was received enthusiastically by an unusually attentive audience. Miss Dane changed her program at the last minute to incorporate numerous request numbers, including "Homing" and Brahms' "Lullaby," which were especially beautiful, "Come to the Fair," by Martin and "Deep River."

The aria "O Don Fatate" by Verdi was a piece of art in itself. Miss Dane showed ability to sing an operatic aria on the concert platform, a difficult feat in itself, with exquisite taste and drama. Indeed, all her low tones were lovely, with the quality of an organ, and her middle and high registers were even and beautiful.

Young Miss Schrage, who charmed the audience with the winsomeness of her personality as well as with the clearness of the tones she drew from her violin, showed great talent and fine technique which were particularly brought out in Wieniawski's "Scherzo Tarantelle." She, too, was generous with encores for her enthusiastic listeners.

For one so young, Miss Schrage showed great presence of mind and tons control during a regrettable interval when a train slowly chugged and whistled past the nearby tracks during her exquisite rendering of Bach's "Aria." While the armory is a welcome and necessary addition to the community, it would seem that its location near the railroad tracks is more in tune with the grunts of wrestlers and the tramp of marching feet than with the lovely tones of violin and contralto voice.

A feature of the program was Miss Dane's singing of "Alone," by Samoloff, with violin obligato by Miss Schrage. Indeed, after the concert many persons were heard to express the wish that the artists had combined their talents in one or two other numbers.

No small part in the success of the program was played by Constance Piper, who accompanied both Miss Dane and Miss Schrage. Miss Piper is a member of the well known Oregon

Sales Tax Looms Before Assembly
SALEM, Nov. 8. (UP)—The special session will not adjourn before acting on a sales tax, it appeared Thursday as security legislation started moving through the legislature.

The senate paved the way for a sales tax to finance old-age pensions by passing, 25 to 3, a bill by Sens. Hynson and Wallace and Rep. Farrell to reduce the pension age limit from 70 to 65 years, and put the financial burden on the state.

Opponents warned reducing the age limit meant necessity for a sales tax.

WEATHER
The Cyclo-Stormograph at Underwood's pharmacy was registering a downward trend in barometric pressure at noon Friday, and unsettled conditions are indicated for the next 24 hours, with increasing winds and higher temperatures. Snow in the mountains is probable.

The Tycos recording thermometer registered maximum and minimum temperatures Friday as follows:
High, 46 Low, 25
Forecast for the next 24 hours: Unsettled; moderate temperatures.

KENO NEWS

KENO, Ore.—Thursday evening saw the lifting of the quarantine that was placed on Keno for the infantile paralysis epidemic. Fumigations are now in order. The schools are undergoing a thorough fumigation as well as the buses, and school will definitely start Tuesday November 12.

Mr. and Mrs. Lew Parker, who lost their only son, Duane, on paralysis, left Wednesday evening for Huron, S. D., with the body. The Parkers came here only four months ago from South Dakota.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Angus are home again, after spending the past two weeks visiting with Mrs. Angus' sister, at Wolf Creek, north of Grants Pass.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ewing have moved down near Scarface, where Mr. Ewing will work for the Kesterson Logging company.

Mr. and Mrs. Chet Ingram and three children moved to Ashland this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Seater and small son have moved to Lakeview for the winter. Bob and Bethel Seater will remain here for school.

Miss Jean Allison, home economics teacher, left Wednesday evening for her home in Cottage Grove. Miss Allison plans to attend home-coming at Oregon State, and take in the game at Eugene Saturday.

Miss Lois Snowgoose, assistant postmaster, took care of the postoffice Thursday, while Dan Doten attended business in Klamath Falls.

Skating was good here at Keno for a few days, but the snow is melting now.

Duck hunting seems to be the main sport here for all ages.

Mrs. K. C. Burkes suffered a rather painful accident to her hand when she caught it in the electric wringer.

Dewey Bennington has been ill in bed for the past few days, but is able to be around again.

3 MINOR MISHAPS REPORTED FRIDAY

Three minor automobile accidents were reported to police bureau Thursday.

A. B. Allen of Medford, reported that his car was struck by a state highway truck at the end of Link river bridge Thursday afternoon, when the truck pulled out of its parking place at the bridge entrance without a signal.

G. I. Stebbins reported a collision with a man whose name he did not learn, at 2:35 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

W. E. Knighton and Earl Dudley were also involved in a minor collision.

Puget Sound Ferry Workers on Strike

SEATTLE, Nov. 8. (UP)—A strike of 275 ferry boat employees Thursday suspended service on five of nine ferry lines operating on Puget Sound and Lake Washington.

The walkout followed a long dispute between owners and members of the Ferry Boatmen's and Masters, Matees and Pilots union, involving wages, hours and union recognition.

The unions established picket lines around ferries and boats of the affected companies, immediately after the strike was called. It was uncertain whether an attempt would be made to operate the craft with strikebreakers.

Railway tracks move as much as 10 inches annually. The right and left tracks do not "creep" in the same direction.

Child Succumbs to Paralysis

Gonzalo Melendrez, 4, a Mexican child living in railroad house near S. P. tracks, died of infantile paralysis at the isolation hospital, where he was taken Thursday afternoon.

The attending physician said the boy took sick on Wednesday. The doctor was called Thursday afternoon.

Dr. G. S. Newsum, county health officer, said that this was the only new development in the situation.

WE wanted to find out how people rated our whisky. So we concealed it in a bag and went into leading bars in a number of cities. And, with a "Certified Public Accountant as witness, we said to bartenders and customers:

"Pour yourself a drink of any whisky of your choice, no matter how expensive. Then pour yourself a drink from this bottle in the bag. Compare them. Then tell us frankly which you like better."

What a test for any whisky—and particularly for Cobbs Creek, which sells at a rock-bottom price.

For it was matched against the field—no whisky barred regardless of price!

What happened? More than 8 out of every 10 men who took the test rated Cobbs Creek first choice! What better proof of popularity? What better guide to value? Follow it—get a bottle of Cobbs Creek today. Your own taste will tell you why it's the winner!
