Monday Evening.

H. F. Murdoch, clear thinker and close student of finance and politics, presented a talk on the subject of "Inflation" to members of Epiluna chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Monday evening, at the home of Mrs. R. E. Wattenburg.

Mr. Murdoch's talk was outstanding in the program of public questions featured this year by Epiluna chapter. Mrs. Louis E. Lincoln was received into the chapter Monday evening, her descent from a Revolutionary soldier having been verified by the National Society of D. A. R. in Washington, D. C.

The popular Winter Dancing club, which has been one of the most important social organizations for the past few winters, has announced its annual Turkey Hop for Saturday evening, November 23, at the Willard hotel.

Special features are being planned for the evening and the ballroom will be beautifully decorated for the occasion. Live turkeys will be given as door prizes.

WINTER DANCING CLUB
TO HOLD TURKEY HOP

Hosts and hostesses for the evening include: Dr. and Mrs. M. E. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Epley and Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Clanshaw.

Members of the Phi Setu bridge club were delightedly entertained last Tuesday, when Miss Orpha Hudson was hostess at her home on Alameda street, following a no-hostess dinner at the Willard hotel.

Miss Ethel Fenwick won high honors for bridge during the evening. Her second high score went to Mrs. Jean Rawlins.

Members of the club honored Mrs. Ann Carter, who will leave soon on an extended trip, with a shower of hankerbuffers. Mrs. Carter will visit in Kansas City, Mo., Detroit, Mich., and other mid-western cities.

Members of the club who enjoyed the evening were Mesdames Jean Rawlins, Jerry Alter, Lily Nockley, Ann Carter and the Misses Ethel Fenwick, Christine DeBord, Charlotte Wright and the hostess, Orpha Hudson.

The Jolly Eight club held its last meeting at the home of Mrs. N. D. Ginsbach, 630 California avenue.

The afternoon was spent with sewing and a delightful Halloween luncheon was served.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. F. R. Vance at Moore Park on Tuesday, November 13.

FASHION WAR GARB

Typical of the luncheon and tea costumes fashionable women are wearing in smart dining rooms these days is this ensemble with a faint militaristic air. It includes a raspberry dress in ribbed silk crepe with draped bodice and silk frogs, black caracul cape and velvet hat with dashing pom-pom. It was seen in the Terrace Room at the Plaza.

Handicraft Displays
Feature of Women's Library Club.

Despite a cold, unprecedented winter week that preceded the meeting of the Klamath Falls Women's Library Club, the gathering of Monday was thoroughly enjoyed by at least 100 women gathered in the main auditorium of the library at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon to hear a paper on weaving and to revel in the beauties of many lovely hand made articles.

DRAMATIC GOWN

Metal Cloth and Shine
Characterize New Modes

By NEA Service
HOLLYWOOD. The clothes they wear as well as the stars themselves glitter and shine these days. There's a lovely sparkle about the fabrics that go to make up evening and dinner gowns. Even daytime dresses are adorned with clusters of shimmering jewels.

Speaking of glitter and glamor, the opening of "Midsummer Night's Dream" certainly brought forth stunning costumes.

Another interesting piece was a fire screen made years ago in England by Mrs. Mary McClure. This piece is in the shape of a screen and is heavily beaded on the fabric where there is also embroidered a lovely pattern in green, in soft and delicately blended wool yarns.

There were many other interesting exhibits, old and new and this part of the year's program was considered an outstanding gesture in the field of women's endeavor to beautify the home and embellish with the needle.

Another feature of the afternoon which caused much favorable comment was the paper read by Mrs. Jackson Kimball, outstanding member of the Library club, who had prepared a short history of the origin early in the 1900's by a small group of Klamath Falls women.

Following the meeting the women enjoyed spending an hour inspecting the handwork shown in the exhibit.

PAST NOBLE GRAND
CLUB HOLDS LUNCHEON

The Past Noble Grand club of Prosperity Rebekah lodge met in I. O. O. F. hall, Tuesday for a 1 o'clock potluck luncheon with Mrs. J. F. Goeller and Mrs. Jennie Hurn as hostesses.

Girl Scouts Enjoying Busy Season Of Work and Play.

Girl Scout troops of the city have been busy the past weeks making plans for their winter program of work and fun.

Most of the troops have registered a number of new members and several troops have new captains or lieutenants, who are taking the places of former leaders, who have moved from the city. The Girl Scouts will be represented in the Armistice Day parade.

Troop No. 3, at Mills school, is well under way. The girls have been quite active. To date, they had an early morning hike out to the caves; and a Halloween party held at Violet Warner's home was enjoyed by 18 girls and a number of adults.

Miss Frances Kotynovitch, captain of the troop, and Miss Dorothy Goodfellow, lieutenant, acted as chaperones.

At present the girls are busy selling Christmas cards in order to earn a few extra dollars for Christmas and a subscription to the American Girl.

Patrol leaders are as follows: Adelaide Lehto, Cattle Young, Joseph Eaton, Violet Warner, with Wilma Lehto as secretary of the group.

Troop No. 5 enjoyed a Halloween party at the home of the captain, Miss Naomi Carlton. Ghost stories and games were the order of the evening until doughnuts were served on a broomstick, accompanied by cider and minis.

Troop No. 6, sponsored by the Congregational church, held a Halloween party in the Community house.

The room was appropriately decorated with cornucopias, pumpkins and black and white crepe paper streamers. The fact that it was a costume party added much to the fun.

Interesting games followed by Halloween refreshments made the evening a complete success. The girls were assisted by Miss Ella Redkey, Miss Peggy White and Mrs. E. L. Mitchell.

Troop No. 7, Miss Ella Redkey, captain, held an informal party in the museum of Fremont school Monday afternoon, October 27, at which time they entertained as their guests a number of girls interested in becoming members of the troop. A feed was enjoyed after games and stunts.

The pack of Brownies, who meet at Fremont every Wednesday, is making enthusiastic plans for the winter under the guidance of their Brown Owl, Mrs. Percy Wells, and their Tawney Owl, Mrs. R. C. Woodruff.

Their first project will be a continuation of nature studies begun last year, and will be a study of native trees. Brownies are very happy little people, and their motto is to lend a Hand, especially to those in their own homes and to other people.

Mrs. June Peterson entertained the Slitch and Gossip club at her home on Alameda street, Thursday afternoon.

Members present were: Mesdames Helen Sage, Rowena Rogers, Eva Cook, Lucille Paus, Barbara Han, Guests were Mrs. Mary Rieby and Mrs. C. E. Neumann.

The afternoon was spent in sewing, after which refreshments were served by the hostess.
