

UNION SERVICES PLANNED SUNDAY

The Ministerial association of Klamath Falls, through its committee on public functions, has arranged for a united service to be held in the Klamath Union high school on Sunday evening, which is the evening of Bible Sunday, when six churches of the community will co-operate in the presentation of the pageant drama: "The Power of the Word," and the Christian Youth council of Klamath Falls will present the play "Fine Gold," by Elliott Field.

In preparation for this event a full rehearsal of both pageant and play will be held in the high school auditorium on Saturday beginning at 7:30 p. m.

On Sunday next the presentation of the pageant and the play will be directed by Mrs. Earl Gilbert, with the high school chorus assisting, directed by Miss Darby. It is expected that this will be one of the outstanding union services of the year. A full house for the union service of Thanksgiving morning speaks well for the popularity of these events.

Cheerful Trimmings Give Yule Season Touch of Happiness

No matter what sort of gifts you choose, you want to have them express a really old time cheer. And that can be a problem, sometimes, unless you're prepared for just such emergencies with a plentiful supply of bright paper, gay ribbons and glittering little stickers. The stores are showing a "grand selection" . . . heavy modern designs in all colors, cheery plaid patterns, designs stamped and printed to carry out hobbies for everyone. And if you're clever about it you'll select a rather distinctive one that expresses your own ideas.

Maybe you like dogs. You'll find friendly scotties, and bristly nosed wires on some papers. Or if you're a yon in the direction of country life some of the plain papers with hunting and country scenes in bright red will just about solve the problem. Little birds, in pale colors against a silver sprinkled background offer another suggestion for another type of person. But plan on working in a few minutes soon to shop around for your paper. You'll find it well worth while . . . and an old fashion cheer, something really personal, will accompany the gifts you send!

Seals and ribbon can mellow the same scheme. There was a time when ribbon was red, seals were gold, and that was all there was to it. But the ribbons and seals are planned today, and smart ensembles for every package are easy to find and reasonably priced. So when you buy your wrapping paper don't forget that it has to be tied and sealed . . . and look for the kind you'll need!

Practical Shopper Writes Down List of Christmas Gifts

"Schnappy wedder, mahdom. How's abait some nice appies fer de shtetlings? Nuts we got nice now, all so!"

With a bewildering twinkle in his eye like that . . . can it be good salesmanship, or does he really feel the same way we all do about Christmas? Well—you never can tell—better buy the apples and the nuts and some oranges too. So little time left to do so much.

Maybe the best thing to do would be to get that awful "list," sit down with pencil and paper, and pick out something for each one on it from the ads. At least there's be one advantage: you could add up the prices and know whether you'd given your husband's snooty cousin more than she deserved (or should we say more than it's her custom to give?)

No use denying it, there is a commercial side to the spirit of Christmas, and it's ever so much better to realize it before December twenty-fifth than after!

After all, the stores do. They even go to the trouble and expense of advertising suggestions for every possible gift list problem, and they spend months getting the very things people want most at prices low enough to make it possible for everybody to buy more.

Of course there's no use denying it just wouldn't be Christmas if one couldn't join in with the crowds and look at the toy windows, and see what's new. But it's so much more fun when you know you've checked off everybody on your list and still have some money left over to spend on those extra little "Unexpected" that make Christmas morning so exciting.

"Yes, mam, they're two a nick—

No More Slavery CONSTIPATION

Not a word to say about your favorite laxative or cathartic—that's your business.

All we ask you to do is to get one 40 cent jar of Kruschen Salts and take as much as will lie on a dime in your morning cup of tea or coffee.

The six precious salts in Kruschen help to cause stomach, liver, gall bladder and bowels to function naturally and healthfully—you clear the system of poisonous waste and acid and regular blissful bowel action will gladden your heart.

Before the jar is empty you'll feel fine—keener mind—actively alive—more ambition. No more laxatives—no more cathartics and no constipation when you take your daily pinch of Kruschen. At Waggoner Drug Co., Magill Drug Co., and druggists everywhere.

el. These frosty Santa Claus on snow houses? They're . . . oh! you'll take two dozen? I always say Christmas does something 't' people, don't you think?"

Japanese are not supposed ever to look down upon their emperor. For this reason when that dignitary rides along a street, police go ahead of him and order all window shutters of upper floors closed.

In proportion to its price, bread is the most nourishing of foods, statistics show. It is followed in order by peas, potatoes, butter, cheese, milk, apples, eggs, codfish and beef.

Grandfather Has Definite Ideas for Christmas

He wasn't very old—not a day over ninety—but he seemed to have some definite opinions. He started in on pipes, and after quite a sermon on the superiority of corn-cobs over briars, he switched to Christmas.

"Why, gosh-a-mighty man," he said, "they ain't a Christmas goes by I don't get some doo-dads 'r other. 'Tweren't only last Christmas my daughter Elvira—the young un, she'll be fifty afore long—gimme a trick ash-tray."

"Now them things 're alright for distant relations. But when it comes to close kin . . . well, in my day, folks only give presents to 'th' family. And they war for keeps, too, Yessir. None o' your fol-de-rols. A desk, a ring, a planer, somethin' y'could hold onto with a warm feelin' in yer heart."

Somethin' y' could remember 'm by.

"Nossir, I think th' modern generation's all wrong. Oh I ain't agin' 'm givin' knickknacks 't' strangers 'n distant relatives . . . but they'd oughta cut down a bit and put what they'd save into somethin'—well, what I mean, young feller, is . . . what's the next generation goin' to do for heirlooms? Answer me that!"

We couldn't answer him, but we were glad to see so many people doing just what our young friend advocated . . . buying finer, more lasting gifts with the money they were saving on "duty" gifts through the ads.

Not that to be lasting a gift must be big; it's quality, not size he really had in mind. Many a silver-plated mug given a baby has been kept for generations . . . or a cereal dish, or a toy. And grown-ups have a way of treasuring little things, too. Keep quality in mind when you do your Christmas shopping and you can't go wrong!

Egypt's great river, the Nile, has its origin in tiny springs in the "Mountains of the Moon." These are a range near the equator in the Belgian Congo, between Lake Edward and Lake Albert.
