quor of space, was used for the first time in such a British royal ceremony.

The royal standard, which had not flown over Buckingham Palace since King George and Queen Mary left for Sandringham before Christmas, then was run up over the palace, a quarter of a mile down the Mall. The band struck up the national anthem.

The Earl Marshal, his grace the Duke of Norfolk, and the Gaoler King of Arms remained within St. James' Palace in attendance on King Edward, who decided to return to Sandringham late today to join the beloved queen, Mother Mary.

The remainder of the five horse-drawn carriages accompanied by a contingent of life guards, drove off through Trafalgar Square in a stately procession to Charing Cross.

Head Three Times

There the proclamation was read a second time by the Windward Herald, Alfred Treco Butler.

Down the strand the procession then moved to the Temple Bar, ancient boundary of the capital city, where a silken cord across the street marked the border of London at the head of Fleet street.

The procession sought and gained admission to the city, in accordance with the "ancient usages and customs of the city of London." The proclamation was read there for the third time.

IMPROVED ROADS SOUTH-END'S NEED

TULELAKE, Calif.—Continued pressure of Tulelake civic organizations brought to bear on state and county highway officials brings a promise of betterment of road conditions in 1936 in the northern part of the state with the recent order of a survey of the Cornell to State Line road and the announcement of G. P. Smecher, supervisor of roads of Modoc county, to the effect that county funds are to be spent this year in an effort to give residents in that section an outlet to towns now denied them.

Conditions of the roads not paved are deplorable and the new surfaced Alturas-Tulelake feeder highway or a gravel surface are denied travel.

A preliminary survey of the Cornell to State Line road on the eastern edge of the basin will be started in the near future to connect with the Alturas road south of Tulelake.

Some opposition is being voiced in the northern part of the state by residents who see little reason in expenditure of the taxpayers money on a district already served by the allied connection with the old Alturas road, near the center of the proposed new allotment, which may be opened to homesteaders in the next few years.

Residents of the district are urging completion of the mile and a half stretch in Modoc county which separates the old section of the new road from the five mile stretch of highway recently completed between Tulelake and Hatfield. This open stretch is a barrier to motorists and as yet no action has been taken by highway officials for its completion.

Gravel which is being hauled and distributed on the stretch by the CCC men in a measure overcome the difficulty until such time as highway officials complete the stretch.

Other projects to be undertaken in Modoc county in the completion of the Great Northern right of way road from Stronghold to near Malin and graveling of feeder roads in the area.

bill is unconstitutional under the supreme court's AAA decision.

"I'm willing to pass it and try it, I don't think it is unconstitutional personally, but under the AAA decision it is unconstitutional. This is the law now."

Bankhead previously had expressed the belief the proposed act could not be challenged because it carried no taxes or provisions for written contracts with farmers.

Long's Followers Election Victors

while claiming that the share-the-wealth program would be a potent factor in coming national elections, did not elaborate on how they planned to fit the plan into their new state regime.

Anti-Long leaders reserved comment pending more complete returns but the New Orleans Times-Picayune, an anti-Long organ, conceded nomination of the administration candidates for the chief offices.

Nomination is the equivalent of election in democratic Louisiana.

The empire Long built up in eight years of the bitterest political fighting in American history, culminating in his slaying in the state capital at Baton Rouge last September, will descend to youthful Richard W. Leche.

Leche is a judge of the Orleans parish circuit court of appeal and was opposed for the governorship by Congressman Cleveland Dear.

Governor O. K. Allen, who once eagerly hoped to obey Long's slightest wish, will finish the dead senator's term in the senate, which ends next January. He was opposed by Frank Looney, Shreveport attorney.

DONAHUE ADDRESSES INSURANCE MEETING

George P. Donahue was the principal speaker Wednesday noon at the regular bi-monthly meeting of the Klamath Insurance Agents association, which was held at the Town club.

"Old Line Companies, Mutuals and Reciprocal Insurance Associations," was the topic chosen by Donahue. He brought out the fact that old line stock companies assume the risks covered in contracts, payment being guaranteed by capital and surplus, while in reciprocal insurance associations members exchange insurance with each other with no capital guarantee. Everything is done by an attorney in fact, and by power of attorneys signed by each member, a vital feature of the transaction.

Mutual associations as a class do not operate as the old line companies as far as principal is concerned. Mutuals and reciprocal companies are much the same, however, except that the mutual returns to the policy holder each year any profits which may have accrued during that time.

Here's one cigarette that writes its own advertising..

It's like this—

You see I'm reading a Chesterfield advertisement and I'm smoking a Chesterfield cigarette, and all of you are smoking Chesterfields.

Now listen—Chesterfields are mild (not strong, not harsh). That's true isn't it?

Then you read "and yet they satisfy, please your taste, give you what you want in a cigarette." That says it, doesn't it?

Wait a minute—

It says now that Chesterfields have plenty of aroma and flavor. One of you go out of the room and come back. That will tell you how pleasing the aroma is.
