

SPECIAL VOTE SET FOR STATE ON JANUARY 31

SALEM, Ore., Jan. 24. (UP)—A week from today Oregon will vote in a special election in which interest has been so lacking that a poll of only 40 per cent or less of the registration is expected. The registration itself has dropped several thousand.

Of the four measures on the ballot, only one—the proposal to change the direct primary election from May to September—has been conceded the slightest chance of passage.

Its defeat, too, along with the sales tax, student fee bill and legislators' pay law, has been openly predicted.

The very words "sales tax" are said to be enough to defeat the plan to raise between $2,000,000 and $4,000,000 annually for the 18,000 persons 65 or more who will be eligible for old age pensions. Sales taxes in other forms have been turned down twice before at the polls.

And if the third sales tax bill is treated likewise, the threat of a second special session of the legislature will hang over the state.

Governor Martin has vowed there will be no gathering of the representatives and senators until the regular date in January, 1937, but social security experts wonder if the executive will be able to withstand the pressure for a special session, possibly in March, should the sales tax lose.

Student fees—paid without protest for years until they were made a political issue—are doomed, election forecasters say.

It is feared the sales tax "no" votes will work all down the line on the ballot, except that the September primary may win enough support to carry.

KLAMATH SELECTED FOR GROUND SCHOOL

Klamath Falls has been selected as one of the eleven Oregon cities and towns in which to carry out an aviation ground school project financed by the Works Progress Administration and sponsored by the State Board of Aeronautics.

The state department of education will direct the project under the W. P. A. adult education program and first classes will be held here upon completion of arrangements for a classroom with local school authorities by an instructor already selected.

In charge of the school here will be Carl F. Christensen, 212 Gage Road, Klamath Falls.

The instruction will be free to the public. Applicants must be 16 years of age or older and they will be required to furnish their own text books. The course will be held two nights a week for a period of at least three months.

Subjects to be covered in the course include theory of flight, structures and rigging, air commerce regulations and air traffic rules, controls and their use and aircraft engines. Where available, actual equipment, such as engines and propellers and other apparatuses will be used by instructors.

The text, which has been approved by the State Board of Aeronautics, is the Rankin Text, written by Tex Rankin of Portland, leading northwest flier.

According to present plans, prominent pilots and aviation officials, including Tex Rankin, will make personal appearances at the classes from time to time and lecture on phases of aviation.

The instructors chosen for the work have received special instruction in aeronautics under the supervision of F. D. Moss, Sr., former superintendent of the Rankin school of flying at Portland and well-known authority on ground school subjects.

Inspiration for the project, as explained by the Board of Aeronautics, has been found in the growing space and facilities for disseminating technical information heretofore have been concentrated principally at special schools in the major cities.

The board has announced that

Preparations for Economic Outlook Conference Begin

Preliminary work preparatory to the important agricultural economic outlook conference to be held in Klamath Falls on February 25 and 26, is well under way, according to an announcement from C. W. Henkle, assistant county agricultural agent.

Meetings of all committees which are preparing information to be studied at the conference, and recommendations to be submitted at that time have been scheduled and are being held daily at the county agent's office.

The truck crops committee met Wednesday afternoon, January 22, and the potato committee on Thursday afternoon, January 23. Other committee meetings have been set as follows:

Friday, January 24 — Small seeds committee.

Monday, January 27 — Grain committee.

Tuesday, January 28 — Dairy committee.

Wednesday, January 29 — Hay and forage committee.

Tuesday, February 4 — Beef committee.

Wednesday, February 5 — Sheep committee.

Thursday, February 6 — Hog committee.

Friday, February 7 — Poultry committee.

Young Malin Couple Married on Sunday

MALIN, Jan. 24.—A marriage of interest to south-end residents was solemnized at 9:30 a. m. last Sunday morning in the Presbyterian parsonage when Miss Frances Burress became the bride of Enoch Petrasak. The ceremony was performed by Dr. R. M. Stevenson.

The bride was attended by Miss Irene Jelutik and the groom was attended by his brother, Paul Petrasak.

The young couple left soon after the ceremony for Eureka where they spent several days with the bride's mother, returning to Malin Thursday.

Petrasak is owner and proprietor of the Shamrock cafe.

FLOW STRENGTH OF WELL TESTED

TULELAKE, Jan. 24.—A test of the flow strength of the well being sunk on the Tulelake laundry property by Charles Heitz, Clyde Jarka and Mr. Cummings, is to be taken the last of the week to determine the amount of water available in the 282-foot hole completed the middle of the week by Lon Storey. The pump is to be attached for the test, Jarka stated, and in event an insufficient flow is recorded for the needs of the three pieces of property, the shaft will be sunk still deeper.

All other preliminary preparations for use of the water have been completed, the steam engine and pump are in readiness and it is expected that water will be available in the well a few days. Sponsors of the well are hoping that the flow will be adequate to furnish water to the schools.

CORRECTION

The News and Herald in Thursday issue incorrectly credited announcement of the Kiwanis club's 21st anniversary celebration to Henry Perkins, as president of the local Kiwanis club. The announcement was made by Elbert Yeatch, who is president of the club. The News and Herald regret the error and are pleased to make correction.

DO YOU KNOW HOW TO BUY PEAS?

Above shows the actual size of the 5 most popular "steves" of canned peas. They are determined by the size of the screen mesh through which they pass when graded for size by the canner. The smallest size is expensive because there are fewer of them canned and packing costs are higher.

THERE are two types of canned peas. The Early June or "Alaska" is a smooth skinned variety. The "Sweet" pea has a slightly wrinkled skin. There is some difference in flavor—but both are popular. Peas are packed by grades as well as sizes—Fancy, Extra Standard and Standard—determined by the amount of starch in the peas. This is indicated by the firmness of the pea and the clarity of the brine. Standard Grade is sometimes used as a regular vegetable dish—has being starchier—it is better adapted for purees and soups. In selecting sizes—the No. 1 pea is chiefly used as a dainty garnish for steaks, chops and roasts. The larger sizes are the most popular for general use, as many people consider them superior in flavor.
