Dispute Boils at Wisconsin

Question Raised Whether or Not Players Given Stimulants Before Big Games.

The unsettled athletic situation at the University of Wisconsin hinges on a bottle of whiskey.

The question is: Did Dr. C. W. Spears, former Oregon coach, give his players a "wee drop" before Big Ten conference contests? Some say yes. Some say no.

The argument that the "wee drop" was given as a stimulant for winning games doesn't hold true. The team might have absorbed all the liquor in the state of Wisconsin, but its football victories were few and far between.

An informant who is on the inside in the university reports investigation of the muddled affairs of the athletic department revealed to the United Press that notarized statements were obtained from William J. Fallon, football team trainer, charging that he spiked the players' coffee with alcoholic stimulants before important games under direct orders from Coach Clarence W. Spears.

Fallon's affidavit was supported by another sworn to by William H. Aspinwall, athletic department accountant, asserting that he was the one who was sent to purchase liquor on these occasions, said the informant who asserted that he had examined both affidavits.

The regents also have affidavits from heads of the university students infirmary charging Spears with securing release of certain injured players before the infirmary believed they were sufficiently recovered, the informant said.

Both Fallon and Aspinwall were evasive when questioned about the matter, however, claiming they were under orders not to talk to anyone regarding athletic department affairs excepting university officials conducting the inquiry.

Fallon denied signing such an affidavit. Aspinwall said the sworn statement attributed to him were "all wrong." Asked if he knew anything about liquor being served to football men, he replied: "That is beside the point."

Spears cited his own denial before the athletic board that he served liquor or ordered it served to his players.

"I wasn't lying when I said that," he assured the United Press tonight.

The matter first received attention when several players revealed to the athletic board that they believed their coffee had been spiked with brandy before the game against Minnesota last fall.

Fallon admitted to the board that on several occasions he had put brandy or whiskey into the players' coffee, but insisted he did so under orders from "higher-ups," whom he refused to name.

Spears' flat denial of giving or ordering liquor for the team was said to have aroused Fallon to swear to his accusation and to name who instructed him to give out the liquor. His affidavit resulted. The person who revealed this development said Fallon listed in the affidavit not only the Minnesota game, but "every other last game of the season since he has been here, and several others as well."

John Golemske, football captain-elect, who accused Athletic Director Walter E. Meanwell of giving him a swig of whiskey as Wisconsin was returning home after being defeated by Northwestern last fall, was unaware or neglected to disclose that liquor was dispensed to the team secretly in spiked coffee, developments today indicated.

It was Golemske who accused Meanwell of inducing him to circulate a petition against Spears.

FRENCH NAMES STARTING FIVE

District Rivals Play Here Again Saturday Night.

With one player definitely out for the remainder of the season and another just recovering from an illness, the Klamath Pelicans tonight enter an important district basketball series against the Bend Lava Bears.

Tonight's contest will get underway in the high school gymnasium at 7:30 o'clock. There will be no preliminary.

The Klamath Wildcats will meet Henley high school in a Klamath-Siskiyou conference contest Saturday night as a preliminary to the second Klamath-Bend game. The first game will start at 7:00 o'clock with the second following immediately.

Earl Atkins is not expected to get back into the lineup again this season. He is out with tonsillitis.

Dominic Giovannini, guard, will be unable to start, but it is possible he will be shoved into the game as a reserve. He has been suffering from a severe cold.

Thus, with his combination somewhat shaken up, Dwight French, coach, will start against the Bears tonight with Reginato and Putman at guards, Sanders at center and Durbin and Muselman at forwards.

The steady improvement of the Bend team since its first defeat at the hands of the Pelicans puts both combinations on a par. Klamath won the opening game at Bend several weeks ago.

The teams are the leading contenders for the district title, and, despite the outcome of this week's series, the dispute will be finally settled in a district tournament.

Bonanza Chooses Antlers as Name for School Teams

BONANZA, Ore.—The Bonanza school has chosen the name of "Antlers" for its athletic teams. Luther Sanders submitted the name which was chosen by the judges: Jane Pool, June Burns, Willard Keeler, Ben Horsley and Howard McClain with the help of Coach Hamilton.

"The reason this name was chosen was in connection with the many mule tail deer around this district. The deer depend on no one and neither does our Bonanza athletic teams. The deer are nimble. Best of foot, therefore resembling the Bonanza boys more than ever," the judges said.

Stars of Past Recalled By Hall of Fame Election

CHICAGO, Jan. 31. (AP)—Over the trail of faded memory returned the names of ancient diamond greats in such prominent today that not even such pioneer unforgettables as Buck Ewing, Pop Anson or Willie Keeler were able definitely to win a place in baseball's real hall of fame.

Ewing and Anson, two of the greatest figures in the game's history, tied for first place in the balloting with Keeler third but neither received the required minimum of 75 per cent of the voters cast. As a result, the 12 leaders of the first poll, taken among pioneer players and baseball writers, will be re-submitted for a second vote in an attempt to name five immortals of the game prior to 1900.

Two Poll 50 Per Cent Ewing and Anson each polled 39 1/2 of the 78 votes cast or approximately half of the required minimum. Keeler received 33 and Cy Young, only pitcher in baseball history to win more than 500 major league games, was right behind with 32 1/2. Barring a sudden shift in opinion, all four stand almost certain to be named.

Other leaders whose names will be submitted for the second poll were: Ed Delehanty, Philadelphia's great outfielder who was one of the most terrific hitters of pioneer baseball, 21 1/2; John J. McGraw, a great third baseman and a greater manager for the New York Giants, 17; Charles "Old Hoss" Radbourne, one of the game's greatest iron men, who pitched 72 games one season, 16; Herman Long, rated as the smartest and fastest of early shortstops, 15 1/2; Mike Kelly, the "Ty Cobb" of the early days for trickiness and base running, 15; Amos Rusie, the speed ball artist of his day, 11 1/2; Hugh Jennings, the dynamic shortstop Detroit never will forget, 11; and Fred Clark, who hit the

OREGON GIANTS MEET HUSKIES

Big Webfoot Basketball Team Seeks Revenge at Eugene.

EUGENE, Ore., Jan. 31. (AP)—The big Oregon basketball team, which does everything in a big way, whether it be winning or losing, meets the super-speed boys from the University of Washington here tonight and tomorrow night.

The undefeated Huskies set a whirlwind pace and swept the Webfoots off their feet in two games at Seattle last week. However, Coach Howard Hobson believes it will be a different story if his men find their shooting eyes again.

The Huskies showed up every little defect in the Oregon attack, and the Webfoots have brushed up their game from every angle this week.

Ken Purdy, lithe left-hander from California, probably will start at one of the guard positions to speed up Oregon's passing game.

Oregon, in third place, needs at least one win this week to retain any reasonable chance at the conference championship.

Deer, Dog Marooned on Floating Ice

ESSEX, Conn., Jan. 31. (AP)—It was a buck deer that Harry Sollow saw floating down the Connecticut river on a huge ice cake, but he named it Eliza just the same.

A dog, marooned on another ice cake, floated downstream a short distance behind the deer.

CLANSMEN TREK TO MT. SHASTA

Week-end Event to Draw Snow Sport Followers From Wide Area.

Winter sports enthusiasts from the Klamath country will trek to Mt. Shasta this week-end for the Pacific Coast amateur meet, to be staged by the Mt. Shasta Snowmen at Snowmen's hill.

Crews have been at work all week putting the playground in shape. It is located on the Mt. Shasta-Mt. Lassen highway, four miles from the Pacific highway, between Shasta City and Dunsuir.

Exhibition Scheduled In addition to the schedule of competitive events, which will find Klamath Snow Clansmen and Crater Lake Ski clubbers among the contestants, there will be an exhibition of fancy skiing by Max Straubhaar of Switzerland.

Events are as follows: Classes A, B, C and D, jumping, downhill racing, slalom racing, cross-country races of 10 miles for men, and five-mile cross-country race for women. Jumping will feature the Sunday program.

Klamath Snow Clansmen will have nine or ten entries. Frank Drew of Klamath Falls, who won the cross-country at Snowmen's hill a year or two ago, is at the University of Oregon, and will not compete this year. Placerville is sending California state champion, George Gustafson, and others for the men's cross-country.

Many Clubs Enter Among the clubs represented in the various contests are the Auburn Ski club, Mt. Lassen Ski club, Paul Bunyan Ski club of Westwood, Lake Tahoe and Truckee, Bend Skippers, Rogue Snowmen, Crater Lake Ski club, Klamath Snow Club and the Mt. Shasta Snowmen.

The Standard Oil load-speaker car will be on hand to announce the events. Meals will be available at the jump. Visitors will find highways in good condition, with hotel accommodations at the nearby towns of Weed, McCloud, Dunsuir and Mt. Shasta City.

Mt. Shasta, 16,140 feet manted in winter grandeur, stands in the center of the Shasta-Cascade Wonderland recreational area.

By Eddie Brietz (Associated Press Sports Writer) NEW YORK, Jan. 31. (AP)—Appointment of Red Dawson as Tilden's football coach may heap more coils on the collegiate fire around New Orleans. ... Ousted along with Red Cox, head coach, after the 1935 season, was Les Lautenschlager, backfield coach. He is the man who tutored Dawson as quarterback at Tulane.

Friends of Lautenschlager, rated by Clark Shaughnessy as one of the nation's best grid strategists, think he was badly treated. But it may be a good idea to see how Dawson handles the job, with a staff of Minnesota assistants, before sounding the anvil chorus on Canal street and the Rue Royale.

The Dodgers won't admit this, but they cut Joe Stripp $5,000 ... which shows how much they are counting on Joe doing the third-basing this year. ... Barney Ross is demanding $40,000 to fight Tony Canzoneri in New York. ... Who does this guy think he is—Louis?

The only reason Joe Louis isn't keen to meet Jim Braddock this year is income taxes. ... But Little Joe Gould wires from Miami: "September or never."

Well, well. ... Since this department ballhooped the fact that Dave McMillan's Minnesota cagers were pushovers in contrast to the unbeatable Gopher gridders, the basketballers have been doing things. They played three games against top-heavy favorites, beating Northwestern and Michigan and losing to Indiana by only two points. ... Wolcast Suspended by Boxing Chiefs PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 31. (AP)—The Portland boxing commission indefinitely suspended Midget Wolcast of Los Angeles, former flyweight champion, and fined him $129 for being disqualified in the seventh round of his fight here Tuesday with Ritchie Fontaine, Missoula, Mont. The fine was the unpaid balance of his $400 purse.

The fight was stopped when Wolcast, master of defensive boxing, refused to do anything but retreat and protect himself.

Boston Braves Will Be Known as Boston Bees

BOSTON, Jan. 31. (AP)—If the Boston National league baseball club doesn't have a honey of a team hereafter, don't blame their new name. For the Braves of old were re-christened the Boston Bees by a jury of sports writers of whom entomologists were in the majority.

"Bees" it was after writers with a bent for ornithology, history, art and zoology had put up a fierce but futile fight to make the new monicker Blue Birds, Beacons, Colonials, Bulls or Bulldogs.

The new name, one of 1327 submitted by 13,000 fans throughout the United States and its territories, was accepted officially by President Bob Quinn after it had been voted by 14 of the 26 writers.

Henceforth, it will be the Boston Bees, their playing field will be the "Bee Hive" and the club's new official colors will be blue and gold.

Thirteen persons suggested the new name. Their names were put in a hat and that of Arthur Rockwood of East Weymouth was drawn as the winner of two seasons passes. Eleven others will receive two tickets each to the opening game. The 13th, Norman Draper of Chicago, will get a pair of passes to the opening game of one of the Chicago teams, Quinn said.

Hockey Veteran Picks Fighting as Hardest Game

NEW YORK, Jan. 31. (AP)—Lionel Conacher, star defenseman of the Montreal Maroons hockey team, and a great all-around athlete, says boxing is the toughest sport.

He ought to know. He has been knocked out by Jack Dempsey, slashed by hockey and lacrosse sticks, bruised in American and Canadian football and has gone limp after grueling rowing races.

At Madison Square Garden last night, after his team had downed the New York Americans 3-2, Conacher sounded off on his experiences.

"You know a boxing ring is one of the loneliest places in the world," he said.

"In hockey and other games you have some mates around to help bear the burden when the going gets tough, but in boxing everything depends on you. Not only do you punish yourself with exertion, but the other fellow is hitting you around. For tough sport, they all come second to boxing in my estimation."

Portland Gains Tie With Lions in Hockey League

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 31. (AP)—The Portland and Vancouver ice hockey teams shared the top rung of the Northwestern Hockey league today as a result of Portland's slashing 4 to 1 victory over the British Columbia Lions here last night.

Prior to that game, Portland, with 26 points, was in fourth place. Tied for second were 55-point Vancouver, with Vancouver heading the procession with 28 points.

Sheppard for Vancouver opened last night's scoring with an unassisted goal in the first six minutes of the initial period. Pratt took Cooper's pass to tie the score three minutes later, but the visitors had a marked advantage through the frame.

The home town's Buckaroo took the lead in the second period when Cooper rifled in Blyth's pass, and went on in the furious third to pile up two more—McCarthy from Arbour and Blyth from Pratt.

Vancouver's six-man offense with an unattended goal went for naught in those final fast-moving minutes.

The Portlanders will play Seattle here next Thursday.

NEW YORK MILLS, Minn., Jan. 31. (AP)—The "Flying Finns" basketball team, like the army of the military axiom, travels on its stomach, fans learned when the five rolled up its eighth consecutive victory of the season. The manager said that between every half his charges partook of a large portion of "Finnish spinach," made of fish, buttermilk and break.

Dorris Defeats Klamath Quint

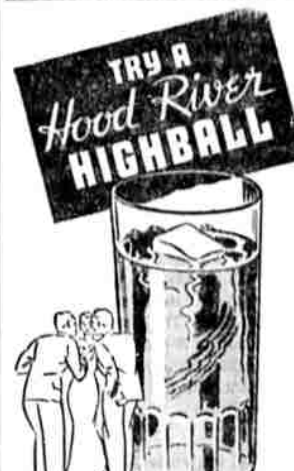

Wednesday the Bulldogs overwhelmed the C. Y. O. from Klamath Falls 36 to 8. It was the Bulldogs' game from start to finish.

In the curtain raiser the Bulldogs sked out a victory by a small margin over C. Y. O. second string, 10 to 9. The Bulldogs led at the end of the third quarter 10 to 2, but a desperate rally gave C. Y. O. seven points in the last quarter.
