NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

The Inside Story From
 The Capital
 By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The Rhineland seizure by force, says Hitler, was the last of his series of blows designed to remove shackles from Germany. Of course, no one believes that.

On the contrary there is very good reason for suspecting that the Rhineland blow was the first of a new series designed to make Germany the most powerful nation on the European continent.

No one really knows, but this is the accepted theory of silent men here who make it their business to know far more about what is going on around the world than the censors abroad permit to be published.

VISION
 The next Hitler blow, as they see it, will be delivered southward, not eastward as generally expected. It will start down through central Europe and work through the Balkans, with the shores of Turkey as its ultimate goal. The conquest will not be conducted by arms, but by cunning diplomatic force.

The first move may come this summer in the form of an Anschluss with Austria. It will come while England and France are in their present mood, determined not to fight; after the Rhineland diplomatic ripples have died away; as soon as Austria has decided what she is going to be. (The arming of Russia was begun a few days ago with the passage of the new conscription act, proposing to keep 6,000 men in arms.)

Then similar economic agreements will be pressed upon Hungary, Yugoslavia and possibly even the allies of France, Czechoslovakia and Rumania. They will bring new markets to Germany, new grazing lands, the largest munitions works in the world. They would contribute to an underground empire more powerful than Bismarck's. Germany would thus become the dominant nation on the continent.

At least this is the hidden vision in Hitler's mind, as perceived by those best able to perceive it from this distance.

THE WAR
 One crowd believes Hitler will never get beyond an Austrian Anschluss. They think that will start the war. France and Italy will be aroused sufficiently then to go in and suppress Hitler before he goes further. England will side with the winner.

Another crowd places more faith in Hitler's diplomatic shrewdness. They expect him to time and conceal each of his moves as wisely as he did the seizure of the Rhineland. He will pick the time when the other nations are otherwise occupied, when they are least inclined to fight.

All admit that Hitler is not ready to fight yet. Their dogs are his air force will not be ready before late in the summer. His artillery will not be fully developed until next summer. He will certainly not fight this year if he can avoid it.

The best guess as to the time of the outbreak of the war, there, is this summer at the earliest, more probably next summer, and 1938 at the latest.

PSYCHOLOGY
 Russia is the only nation really hankering to fight Germany now. She sees the handwriting on the map of central Europe. However, she is woefully weak on communications and her general staff is by no means the brainiest in Europe. She would really be no match for Germany if Poland sides with Germany, as every military man expects.

A military defeat for Russia probably would mean the end of the Soviet social experiment and a return of the White Russians to power. The Reds therefore cannot venture alone. They must be shot with France, and France is in a confused condition. Her people have been fed the dogma of fear, the doctrine of defense, but her forts are impregnable. Hitler will never run his head against them. They were so strong 22 years ago that the Kaiser did not care to try them, but outflanked them through Belgium. Now they are twice as strong and the Belgian flank gate is closed.

TECHNIQUE
 There were two very good unadvertised reasons why France did not try to push Germany out of the Rhineland at once. One is that her people are not in the proper mood to fight an invading war. The other is that it would have cost them upwards of a million men.

Hitler's Rhineland maneuver has been played up as a diplomatic stroke, but the military brilliance of it has been overlooked. The Rhineland was won overnight with machine gun nests, backed by artillery. That is the German way. It was not

News of Oregon

PORTLAND, April 6. (AP)—A cry over the telephone to police: "I've been robbed!"

Four officers rushed to the establishment of Sam Lee, Chinese.

"He play lottery ticket—then he get mad when he no win; grab handful money," police said Lee asserted, indicating Jack Keegan, 24. The officers arrested Keegan for taking $1.45.

"But where was this lottery?" they asked Lee.

"Right here," officers said Lee responded, so they took him to jail, too.

PORTLAND, April 6. (AP)—Circuit Judge Lusk granted the application of the Portland Cleaning Works for a restraining order to enjoin unions from picketing the business. He said evidence showed picketing was undertaken to compel unionization of the shop and that "under the decisions of our supreme court this is not a lawful purpose."

LA GRANDE, April 6. (AP)—County Agent H. G. Avery said today that Union county stockmen reported an acute shortage of hay.

C. L. Cadwell, stockman near Union, said large bands of deer depleted ranges ordinarily available for stock. The long winter has required unusually large hay feeding.

The general price of hay here was $10 a ton, but one sale was reported at $12 a ton.

MEDFORD, Ore., April 6. (AP)—Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Howlett, 88-year-old pioneer who died late Saturday, will be held at Eagle Point tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. Howlett, who came across the plains with her parents when 4 years old, was the widow of the Rev. A. C. Howlett, old-time circuit rider.

Ten Years Ago in Klamath

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILWAY
 This afternoon submitted an amended bid to the city of Klamath Falls for 6.43 acres of the South Riverside city park, withdrawing its demand for exclusive street right privileges. The bid was submitted to the city park board this afternoon by R. C. Grobeck, S. P. counsel in this city.

This move of the S. P. marks the culmination of one of the most spectacular of the controversies between the S. P. and Northern since the Klamath railroad fight began.

The park board acted immediately, recommending that the bid be accepted.

With the application for a building permit before the city council this afternoon, Jack Slater will start work upon a two-story building 40 by 60 feet to be built of concrete and stone, on Seventh street between Main and Klamath, and to cost in the neighborhood of $20,000.

BONNEVILLE, Ore., April 6. (AP)—A $96,000 bridge to take the re-routed Columbia river highway across Eagle creek above the Bonneville dam backwater level will be completed May 1, contractors said today.

The next big task in the highway relocation project will be boring through Tooth Rock at the west approach to the bridge. It was understood a contract would be let for the job around April 15.

Fellowship of Prayer

MONDAY, April 6: "As the Father hath sent Me, even so send I you."

Most of us live our lives out of our thinking more than we think our way into our living. If our lives can therefore be anchored to a great personality from whom we receive perpetual inspiration and can be devoted to a supremely great purpose we will find our way to sound and fruitful ideas. Therefore Jesus sought to anchor His disciples to Himself and to His great cause. Here is His four-fold appeal:

"Learn of me, follow me, abide in me, go."

Prayer: O Master of the way of life, free us from the passion for pleasure as the way to lasting happiness. Let us be mindful of Thy tests of character. Help us to seek out and serve others who lack the abundant life which Thou dost give. Give us this day a deeper experience of Thy delivering love that we may bear it to some other seeking and impoverished soul. In Thy name. Amen.

Read John 20:11-24.

MANAGER NAMED

WOODBURN, Ore., April 6. (AP) Winton Hunt, former University of Oregon outfielder, will manage the Woodburn Townies baseball club which is a state league newcomer this season.

PORTLAND, Ore., April 6. (AP) An allocation of $30,000 will permit work to start on the 5,000-acre Silver Creek Recreation project within a week or 10 days, the regional settlement office announced. Nearly half the land to be acquired already is under option. Later allotments probably will allow development of camping grounds and picnic sites, the administration said.

Work on the new high school track was suspended last week due to too much snow.

Lola Snowgoose performed the duties of postmaster Saturday while Dan Doten attended to business in Klamath Falls.

The Keno Townsend club met Wednesday evening at the high school.

P. T. A. executive board met Tuesday evening and discussed plans for the rest of the year. The president, Mrs. Hull, gave a report on the council meeting held at the Fremont school.

Bob Jacobson, who has been spending the winter in New York with his parents, returned to Keno last Thursday.

Jacobson reported driving over roads on which travel had just been resumed after flood waters had taken them out in the eastern states. He also commented on the severe winter in New York.
