A Campaign Advantage

WHEN Sam Brown, Willis Mahoney, Theodore Nelson or anybody else undertakes to oppose Senator McNary he must expect to buck up against a statewide appreciation for services that have been rendered by the senior senator from Oregon.

Senator McNary is working to secure funds to complete the Pacific Highway over the Siskiyou. The Senator McNary is fighting to secure funds to save the Crater Lake Highway from desecration—to preserve the present forest strips of timber from Rogue River to the park boundary.

In about a month the primary election will be held—the republicans will go to the polls to decide whether or not Senator McNary will represent that party in the national election this fall.

That's the sort of thing that is being said generally over Oregon. That's why it's hardly possible that anyone can beat McNary.

A Klamath man was talking the other day with a Lake county resident who is an admirer of Willis Mahoney. The Lake man and his association, however, have frequently called upon Senator McNary for assistance in one way or another, and he has always gone to bat for them.

A Fine Day

THERE never has been a finer spring day in Klamath Falls than was Easter Sunday. From sunup to sundown, it was perfect.

The day's events were in keeping, and they proved highly successful. The churches were crowded Sunday morning for special Easter services. To Moore park went hundreds in the afternoon for the Legion's Easter egg hunt.

It was, all in all, a grand and glorious day. There have been Easter days here when the wind blew cold and snow covered the ground. Indeed, a couple or three years ago one of the worst snowstorms of the year occurred on Easter.

Klamath people, looking back on the past week-end, have much to be thankful for.

Opening his season as a dub at the golf course Sunday, the writer noted the strains of some expertly produced hill-billy music from a house across the road from the course. Add assets of the Reames golf club: Mountain music at the fifth tee.

Here's a final reminder that on Tuesday night the registration books close for the primary election.

Suppose the city council were to undertake the regulation of the private affairs of all the businesses in town, carrying out the idea in the proposed beauty shop ordinance. That ought to provide a job as snopper for just about every resident of the city.

Telling the Editor

Klamath Agency, Ore.—(To the Editor): I have just read an article in your paper published March 19, 1936 by Ross Ferguson, former pastor of the Williamson River church, which was very ridiculous because most of it was far from the truth.

Mr. Ferguson says he built the Williamson River church in 1908. The very same church was built in 1878. In 1909 the present five was built by Stone-wall Jackson, an Indian of this reservation, in two days, and paid $5.00 by the Indians.

The railroad celebration was held in May of 1909 and not on the Fourth of July. The issuance of passes were discontinued prior to 1905 by Capt. O. C. Applegate, who is still alive and living in Klamath Falls, Oregon. Therefore no passes were needed by the Indians.

Mr. Ferguson and Mr. Peffley were not our chaperons. The writer was one of the participants of the parade during the Railroad Day celebration.

The Klamath Indians were very prosperous at the time Mr. Ferguson came. A number of the Indians owned more than WASHINGTON, April 13.—The wise new dealers make a business of not knowing much about their spending plans. Congressional inquirers have not been able to get much out of Mr. Hopkins on that subject.

The impression has been created that the federal handout next year will total $1,500,000,000, as requested by the president, plus whatever is left over from this year, and no one ever knows how much is going to be left over.

That is, no one ever admitted knowing until Mr. Dan Bell, the non-political budget director, testified at a house tax hearing recently. He let it out while his hearers were so deeply involved in the taxation subject that they overlooked it.

Mr. Bell was heard to say that the amount obligated for this fiscal year is $3,382,000,000 (not the amount allocated, mind you, but the amount which will be spent).

The left-over, he said, would be exactly $1,128,000,000, on the basis of figures compiled as late as March 20.

If you will add this left-over to the new relief fund, you will have President Roosevelt's secret—namely that the relief sock under his bed for the year beginning July 1 will contain about $2,828,000,000.

Mr. Bell was giving the status of the last relief fund of $4,800,000,000. He said it was carried on the books at $4,563,000,000 because some of it included reappropriations from the previous year. It would be incorrect to deduce from his figures that relief expenditures would be $754,000,000 less next year than this year, as the figures seem to indicate. If you count in the bonus, the extra-budgetary appropriations made in congress, and the relief appropriations switched from the emergency budget into the regular budget for next year, Mr. Roosevelt's total spending fund will be much larger than this year. In other words, Mr. Roosevelt can spend considerably more money next year instead of less, as generally supposed.

Swift legislative stepper in congress is shrewd Senator Smith. And the swiftest step he made was on the recent cotton loan legislation.

Mr. Smith was living up to his nickname of "Cotton Ed" by championing legislation requiring the commodity credit corporation to market 20,000 to 25,000 bales of its cotton holding each week.

The well known Mr. Oscar Johnson, AAA cotton expert, put his head together with the American Cotton Cooperative association expert and worked out a substitute plan. In private, they agreed to have the government take a 2 1/2-cent loss on its cotton loans by unloading the cotton upon certificate holders who would market it piecemeal.

The plan was to have been announced at 3 p. m., but Smith jumped the gun and introduced legislation embodying the plan as a substitute for his own several hours earlier.

Some of his senatorial friends were still championing his original bill at his committee hearing next day, not knowing that he had abandoned his old horse and was riding another in an opposite direction.

The hatred which congressmen have been breathing at lobbyists lately in public statements and speeches apparently does not apply to all lobbyists.

A small veterans' organization, which boosted the soldier bonus, is now delivering a handsome citation to senators and representatives who voted for it. The citation looks like a diploma. At the top is the name of the congressman, written out in full in an impressive way. The body of the document received by one congressman stated that he had been awarded the citation for "outstanding service" in the fight for the soldiers' bonus.

The congressmen are very proud of these citations. As has been said before, a lobbyist is a public benefactor if you happen to be on his side. He is a despicable crook if you happen to be against him.

STOPPLES
Able Senator Jimmy Byrnes is understood to be in the market for ear stopples to afford himself the same sort of relief that Senator Glass gets from his ear stopples. His problem is not anti-noise, but anti-quorum.

Senate leaders successfully side-tracked the Davis resolution calling for a senate inquiry into WPA politics, by sending it to Byrnes' committee on audit and control. Byrnes is supposed to have sought the counsel of a wise wit who sits near him, asking what should be done about the resolution. The response was: "Lose it."

Apparently the only way Mr. Byrnes could conceive of offhand was to avoid getting a quorum of his committee together. Each day three good members of his committee appear in the senate, but he declines to see them. However, it is getting more difficult each day. Senator Davis keeps howling for action on his resolution and the quorum keeps re-appearing, declining to go off and die, or even play golf.

Klamath Post No. 8 American Legion
Next meeting of the post, Tuesday, April 21, will be known as Sailors and Marine night. Carl Cook will represent the marines and V. Pickett will handle the sailors. Carl Cook will use only three small marines, to offset the hundred sailors who will turn out to hold up their end.

Carl Cook says that the sailors will furnish the refreshments and K. P. detail and the few marines will boss the detail and help eat the refreshments served by the sailors.

The auxiliary will sponsor a dance at the Legion hall next meeting, April 21. Refreshments will be served by the junior auxiliary.

The post completed its second annual Easter egg hunt at Moore park Sunday. C. C. Kelly was general chairman and everything went off in good shape.

The post will conduct a forest fire prevention week campaign from May 4 to May 9 and will work in cooperation with state and federal forestry department officials.

Hal Ogie is general chairman in charge of this campaign.

Ten Years Ago

in Klamath

CLEAR cut and far reaching, a decision was handed down this morning by Circuit Judge A. L. Leavitt by which state and county officers are barred from arresting Klamath Indians within the boundaries of the Klamath reservation.

The epochal ruling, which, it is said, will revolutionize law enforcement on the reservation, was handed down in connection with the petition of Guy Scenchin of Beatty, for release from the county jail on a writ of habeas corpus. The petition was granted and Scenchin was released.

Judge Leavitt ruled that by virtue of a treaty enacted between the Indians and the federal government that the Klamath Indians became charges of the federal government, and that as such they are solely under the jurisdiction of federal authorities.

The P-T-A. county council held its executive meeting, Monday afternoon, April 6th, at the home of Mrs. Twyla Ferguson at Altamont.

The student loan fund was discussed and it was voted to award this loan to high school students and not to include college students.

Those present were: Mesdames Robert Ross, president, W. E. Lamm, moderator, P.T.A. president, Howard Abbey, Wm. Wales, C. W. Stanley, R. A. LaLonde, Wm. Bishop, Kenneth Bayliss, Chas. M. Reynolds, Everett, White, Wishard and Twyla Ferguson.

Parents and teachers of the Pelican P-T-A. will meet Tuesday, April 21, for the last business meeting and social gathering of the fiscal year.

A good program is in store for those who attend, and officers for the coming year will be installed by Mrs. Ross, president of the county P-T. A.

"Juvenile Delinquency" was the topic on which Officer Carl Cook spoke to the Fairhaven P-T. A. Study club Wednesday evening, April 1.

Mr. Wier sang several songs to the accompaniment of his guitar. Forest Duncan presented a tap dance and Sig and Dorothy Ellingson of Klamath Falls played two selections on their accordions: "Red Sails in the Sunset" and "When I Grow Too Old to Dream."

On Wednesday, April 15, at 2 o'clock the Fairhaven P-T. A. executive committee will meet for a study on "Publications" and a discussion of important business to be transacted at the next regular P-T. A. meeting. The president, Mrs. Johnston urges a full attendance at this meeting.

The Fairhaven P-T. A. will hold their regular meeting Friday, April 17, beginning with a pot luck supper at 6 o'clock under the direction of Mrs. McLean.

Everyone is invited.

Stock Market Quotations

NEW YORK, April 13, (AP)—Scattered firm spots were in evidence in today's stock market, but many of the leaders were subjected to quiet profit-taking pressure.

Coppers, rails and specialties gave the best account of themselves. The close was irregular. Transfers approximated 1,500,000 shares.

Industrial news continued to reflect progress in economic recovery. The American Iron & Steel Institute estimated current mill operations at 67.9 per cent of capacity, the best since 1930. The gain over the previous week was 5.3 per cent.

New oil stocks responded to a jump of two cents a gallon in gasoline at Pacific coast centers. Such shares as Chrysler, Santa Fe and Case stepped up to new highs for the move. Case got ahead about four points on a small turnover. Improvement was shown by New York Central, General Motors, Pullman & Co., American Can, White Motors and Federal Trust.

On the offside fractions to two points or so were General Motors, Continental Steel, Poor & Co., U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Douglas Aircraft, Auburn, Western Union and Consolidated Edison.
