

COUNCIL CUTS LICENSE FEES FOR CIRCUSES

A new circus ordinance reducing a previous exorbitant license fee for showing within the city limits, and setting a new license at $100 per day for any type of carnival, circus or menagerie show, was introduced at the Monday evening meeting of the city council. The ordinance was passed on second reading, and by special motion read for the third and final time and approved and passed by the council.

An ordinance repealing all former licensing of slot machines, dart games, and so-called games of skill was passed to the third and final reading and adopted.

Many Licenses Lapse
Chief of Police Frank Hamm was authorized to arrest and prosecute any firm or store which issues and distributes hand bills on city streets. There is an ordinance prohibiting this practice, which has become an abuse in the city, according to Councilman J. J. Keller, and future infringements will be dealt with according to provisions of this ordinance.

Police Judge Richmond called the council's attention to the fact that many milk and meat dealers, as well as rooming houses and hotel operators had failed to renew their licenses which fell due on January 1, 1936.

Beer Refusal Reconsidered
The chief of police was authorized to notify managers of these establishments that the license fees must be paid by May 1, or their places of business closed.

Beer package license application for a neighborhood store at 1050 California avenue which was refused at a recent meeting of the council was re-considered Monday evening and allowed, following study of a resolution governing issuance of beer licenses. It was determined that the resolution which prohibits the issuance of any more beer licenses applied to Main street establishments only.

Hockley Due May 1
C. C. Hockley, state PWA administrator, will be in Klamath Falls on May 1, according to the communication received by the police judge and read to the council. Hockley desired to have a meeting arranged for that date, at which PWA achievements may be discussed. The mayor, city engineer, members of the council and others who have been engaged in administrative work on PWA projects, will be present at this meeting.

The council voted to allow the council chambers to be used Wednesday evening, April 22, for a meeting of all food and beverage dispensers of the city. The meeting has been called by the Oregon Food and Dispensers, Inc., and such meetings are being scheduled over the state. Members of the Oregon liquor control commission will be present at this time, and will address the dispensers on interpretation of the Knox liquor law and other matters relative to the business.

Building permits as approved by the building inspector and other license applications approved were passed by the council.

Acting Mayor J. J. Keller presided Monday evening in the absence of Mayor W. E. Mahoney.

Suspect Denies Role In Wendel Kidnap

NEW YORK, April 21. (UP)—Martin Schlossman, a 26-year-old laundry man, was arraigned and pleaded not guilty Monday to a charge of kidnaping Paul H. Wendel of Trenton, N. J.—a maneuver that kept Bruno Richard Hauptmann alive three days beyond his allotted span of life.

There still was much unexplained tonight about the story-book activities of Wendel in the Hauptmann case, but District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan appeared to be confident that he had taken the first step along a path that will lead to an ultimate solution.

No bail was set for Schlossman.

Highway Board Lifts Reduced Load Limits

Notice of lifting of reduced load limits on state highways in Klamath county and eastern Oregon was received Monday from the state highway commission by state police here.

The notice read: "State highway commission Saturday lifted reduced load limits on following highways, to-wit: Maupin to Bend, Dalry to Bonanza and Klamath lake secondary highway. Order takes effect immediately."

The limits on the Bend-Klamath Falls section of The Dalles-California highway are apparently still in effect, state police said.

House Rebukes Zioncheck by Ordering Remarks Expunged

WASHINGTON, April 21. (UP)—The house of representatives Monday roared a rebuke to Representative Marion Zioncheck, democrat, Washington, in ordering expunged from the congressional record his attack upon political and personal activities of Representative Thomas L. Blanton, democrat, Texas.

Not one member arose to defend Zioncheck but 272 congressmen shouted "aye" on the resolution of censure offered by Blanton.

Swiss Bull Mentioned
The two democrats have been feuding for months over a resolution adopted at the last session which forbids teaching of communism in the District of Columbia schools. Zioncheck is leading a movement to repeal the legislation while Blanton is fighting to keep it on the statute books.

Last Friday, the Washington congressman obtained permission to revise and extend his remarks in the record. He inserted a broad attack on the Texas and at the close included a newspaper article headed "Rats Face Synthetic Jitters So Science Can Study the Case." There was a reference also to the Swiss bull named "Hitler."

Blanton Pale, Angry
Today, as the house met at noon, Blanton, pale and angry, arose on a point of personal privilege. A few feet away sat Zioncheck, flushed and jovial. Blanton offered his resolution condemning Zioncheck's remarks and demanding they be stricken from the record.

The clerk began reading when Zioncheck leaped to his feet. "Point of order, Mr. Speaker!" he explained.

"The gentleman will state it," said Speaker Joseph W. Byrns. "I make the point that this resolution is not privileged and that he has lied in it a few times and . . ." Zioncheck began.

Chamber in Confusion
Byrns banged his gavel. Blanton turned furiously and shouted:

"I ask that the words be taken down."

This is the parliamentary procedure preceding a move to eliminate offensive words from the record. Zioncheck's remarks were read. Then he arose and withdrew them. By this time the chamber was in boisterous confusion and Byrns was having difficulty maintaining order.

Finally, Blanton concluded his observations and called for a vote on the resolution. There was a roar of "ayes." Byrns announced the vote and it was promptly challenged by Zioncheck who called for a standing vote.

A total of 118 members were present. All voted "aye." Zioncheck was still dissatisfied. He demanded a roll call. He sat silently as Byrns said: "The ayes are 272, the nays

SALESMAN TRAILS HIT-RUN DRIVERS

BIEBER, Cal.—D. L. Cook, a traveling salesman of Redding, is credited here with trailing 40 miles and finally halting single-handed until police arrived, an automobile carrying three Indians and some whiskey which was believed responsible for the overturning of another car and the injury of two of its occupants Thursday at Canby.

After the accident, in which Mr. and Mrs. Howard Royce of Cedarville suffered head cuts and bruises, a car that had forced them off the road kept on going Southward. Cook followed it and phoned from Adin to put Bieber police on the lookout. The Indians probably slipped through here after dark.

Cook caught up with them that night in front of the Pine Cone Inn on the mountain six miles southwest of here and herded their car to a stop in the ditch. Two Indians ran into the brush and disappeared. Cook borrowed an unloaded pistol from Earl Buckley, the innkeeper, and was detaining Albert

Hess and the other when Deputy Sheriff Leigh Jensen and Traffic Patrolman Arthur Gloster got there from Bieber. Search was made for the fugitives, but they were still at large Saturday so far as known here.

Hess, an Indian buckaroo from Likely, paid a $5 fine in justice court here Friday for being drunk on the public highway, which he confessed he was. Hess said the car was his but that Ivan Onsal was driving it at Canby and Larry Onsal did the driving after they left Adin. Hess said he did not know of the accident. He was headed for the Red Bluff rodeo and lamented that his riding boots had run off with Larry Onsal. Hess said they got some whiskey at Alturas.

Captain Will Smith of the highway patrol said the Royces told him the Canby operator discouraged them from phoning news of their accident to his office in Alturas; he did not learn of it until after they reached Alturas, hours later.
