

FARM SERIES WILL OPEN THIS WEEK

Farmers of Klamath county will have an opportunity to learn requirements for qualification for grants under the new soil conservation and domestic allotment plan this week, when a series of community meetings will be held. The first is scheduled for Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock in the Henley gymnasium.

The meetings will be conducted by temporary chairmen and committees appointed for the purpose, and C. W. Henkle, assistant county agent, will be present at each meeting and will tell of the plan and answer questions.

The soil conservation and domestic allotment act which has been developed in place of the AAA is a national plan. The extension service, through the offices of the Klamath county agent, has obtained all available information, and this will be presented to those attending the community meetings.

Since every farmer in each community is to be affected directly or indirectly by the program, speedy action is necessary if the farmers are to be able to plan their program in order to be eligible to receive grants.

The complete schedule of meetings is as follows:

Mayors Feel Billion and Half Minimum Needed for Relief

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21. (UP)—The $1,500,000,000 appropriation asked of congress by President Franklin D. Roosevelt represents the minimum on which relief can be continued to the end of the calendar year, mayors of 20 cities meeting in conference Monday agreed.

A resolution passed by the regional session of the Mayors' Conference of America set the billion and a half figure as the smallest possible appropriation.

Dole "unthinkable"

At the same time, all joined in the opinion expressed by Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia of New York that a return to the dole system would be "unthinkable."

A resolution was passed opposing any arbitrary reduction of the WPA program at present.

The mayors, in an unusually harmonious session that was interrupted by only one clash, unanimously favored continuation of work relief activities.

Most were of the belief that a long term approach should be sought in efforts to solve relief problems. One resolution also adopted late in the day called for continuation of the federal WPA plan set up in addition to the works progress administration.

Walmesley Presides

Mayor T. Sommes Walmesley of New Orleans presided at the session, with Mayor Angelo Rossi of San Francisco acting as host and Mayor LaGuardia serving as the leading speaker.

LaGuardia, a swarthy, stocky executive of the nation's largest city, won special tribute from the mayors when they adopted a resolution thanking him and lauding him for his work for other American cities.

During the day he stoutly defended President Roosevelt's work relief program, branding a return to the dole system "unthinkable."

California Chiefs Clash

"Without the aid of the federal government I don't know what my city would have done. I'm sure most of you mayors feel the same way," he remarked.

The sole brush between delegates during the meeting came when Frank Shaw, mayor of the west's largest city, Los Angeles, was interrupted by Mayor Edmund O. Hanson, white-haired firebrand chief executive of Santa Barbara, Cal. Shaw had joined LaGuardia in a stout defense of the administration's relief program.

Suddenly, Hansen, an unscheduled speaker, interrupted him to charge that "democrats who were able to obtain relief in Los Angeles. He added a plea for higher relief wages. Shaw angrily answered him, and the two quarrelled loudly until Mayor Rossi intervened and restored quiet.

Seattle Woman Under Guard as Murder Witness

PORTLAND, April 21. (UP) State and city police provided a guard for Peggy Peterson Paulos Monday as the attractive Seattle woman prepared to aid the state's attempt to convict Jack Bernard Justice of murdering W. Frank Akin in his apartment here three years ago.

It was testimony by Mrs. Paulos that brought a death sentence upon Leo Hall, slayer of six persons in a Bremerton beach cottage.

She is ready to allege that Justice, acting for a third person as yet unnamed, hired Hall to kill Akin, who was a special investigator for the Governor Julius L. Meier into port of Portland affairs, the state believes.

Mrs. Paulos said after appearing before the grand jury here recently that she could trace the gun used to kill Akin from its original owner to Justice and Hall.

Mrs. Paulos kept to her hotel room as the Justice trial started late in the day. She came here from Seattle with Mr. and Mrs. James Smith, who also will testify for the state, and Ralph Horr, Seattle, who was Mrs. Paulos' attorney when she was acquitted in the Bremerton murders.

Seattle Streetcar Operators Object To Exam Question

SEATTLE, April 21. (UP)—The Amalgamated Association of Street Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America Monday asked the Seattle city council what the number of spots on a pair of dice had to do with successful trolley operation.

The council was not sure, but promised to consider the matter at an early meeting.

"How many spots on a pair of dice?" was only one of several "perfectly silly" questions asked prospective operators by the Seattle civil service commission, W. J. Molyneux, business agent of the union charged.

Others included: "How long is a piece of string?" (The correct answer: Twice the length from one end to the middle). "Tom is older than Dick, and Dick is younger than Harry. Is Harry younger than Dick?" Molyneux asked the council.
