Bonus Payment Coming

PAYMENT of the bonus is a big event of this month that promises excitement in every town and hamlet of the country. The objective of years of veteran activity, the payment will put $56,879,306 in the pockets of veterans of the states of Oregon and Washington.
 At least temporarily, the bonus payments will ease the financial problem of thousands of veteran families. The flow of money is expected to give business a boost. An American Legion survey has shown that veterans will buy homes and farms with approximately 32 1/2 per cent of the money, and the remainder will be spent in paying off old debts, buying automobiles, meeting current bills, or increasing insurance and savings reserves.
 Payment of the bonus involves a good deal of red tape. Bonds for Klamath veterans are expected to be released from San Francisco June 15, and will be here June 16. The registered letters will be taken out by carriers on June 17, and identification must be made to the carrier before the veteran can receive his bonus bond. Surrender of the bonds for cash involves still further red tape, and there will be a good deal of head-scratching among the ex-soldiers of the land this month as they study rules and regulations on all this procedure.
 Payment of the bonus writes finis to a long and controversial chapter in American history, which reached its most sensational phase when the bonusers were ousted from Washington in the Hoover administration. The plague of post-war presidents, the bonus was finally passed for full payment over the veto of President Roosevelt. Bonus forces received the aid this time of many who might otherwise oppose their cause, but believed that if the government was going to continue on a rampage of wild spending, it might as well spend part of that money in meeting a recognized obligation to the veterans.

The Garden Show

PROOF of progress made in beautifying home surroundings in Klamath Falls will be found in abundance at the garden show to be held at Fremont auditorium Thursday under sponsorship of the Woman's Library club.
 Many attractive gardens have been developed on residential property in and near the city in recent years, and the owners of older gardens, such as those on Conger avenue, have continued and improved on the good work begun so many years ago.
 Material for exhibits at the garden show will be taken from the home gardens of the community, and there is every promise that they will provide an interesting and inspiring sight for the visitor.
 The garden show is a worthy project for the encouragement of the sort of enterprise that is throwing off Klamath's reputation as a rather barren spot. It will be well worth attending.
 We read with some astonishment that Mussolini threatened to take before the League of Nations the charges that England furnished outlawed dum-dum bullets to Ethiopians for use in fighting Italians. What sort of business is this, that Mussolini, who has done more than anybody else to make the League of Nations the laughing stock of the world, should go before the League with any kind of a complaint or should in any other way recognize it?

The Keno hitch-hiker gangsters have thumbed for themselves a long ride from Pocatello back to Klamath Falls with the sheriff.

Chain Letter Asks Zioncheck to Quit

SEATTLE, June 3. (UP)—A "chain letter" asking Congressman Marion A. Zioncheck to resign, spread through his Seattle district Tuesday.
 "Keep this chain unbroken," cards passing through the mails read. "Please mail one card to Congressman Marion A. Zioncheck asking him to resign. Then mail five cards to five of your friends within the state asking them to do likewise."
 The chain originated at Wenatchee, outside Zioncheck's district. Only the "playboy congressman's office would be able to tell its extent."

TULELAKE BRIEFS

TULELAKE, June 2.—Mrs. William Kears, assisted by Mrs. William Chubb, was hostess to the Winema club Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Stevenson taking the chair as president.
 Reports were made on the moving of the small one-room building formerly used as a first grade room at Winema school, which is to be placed near the front of the school lot for future use as a club room.
 The club now has a membership of 75 and at present is one of the largest clubs in the Klamath basin. Hostesses whose homes are small will be privileged to use the club room to entertain in. Social affairs sponsored by the organization will also be held here.
 Members plan to enter the subscription contest of the Tulelake Reporter in which cash prizes are to be given, the prize money, if won, to be turned into the club treasury. No definite plans were made for the next meeting.
 Tulelake gangsters turned out Thursday evening for an interesting, well-attended session. During the business session a lengthy discussion of the benefits of grange insurance was conducted, and W. H. Anderson talked on the necessity for control of noxious weeds.

 Mr. Higler, who spent some months recently in Germany, gave an instructive talk on farming problems, covering crops, prices for produce and conditions under which the working class of Germany labors.
 The grange will conduct sessions only once a month during the summer.
 Announcement was made here this week by Walter Chandler, Tulelake attorney, of his marriage May 25 at Medford to Margaret Vance, daughter of C. C. Vance.
 The bride, a graduate of Sacramento junior college, is a member of a Yreka school faculty. Following the close of school she will join Mr. Chandler to make her home here.
 J. H. Weltkamp has been called to Powell, Wyo., by the critical illness of a son.
 Robert Lyons, who has been employed at various times on the reclamation work in this district, plans to leave soon for Lakeview to work in the timber.
 Mr. and Mrs. E. Fraley left Monday for Toppish, Wash., where they will visit relatives and friends.
 Mr. and Mrs. E. H. McElroy and son left Saturday for points in North Carolina where they plan to visit relatives. They will spend some time at the home of McElroy's mother at Waynesville, N. C., McElroy's old home. Roy McElroy, recently ill, is remaining in Tulelake.
 Students who will serve as student body officers of the Tulelake high school next term were elected recently at a school assembly. Those who will fill offices are Tilden Osborne, president; John Urbach, vice president; Louise Lindsey, secretary; Barbara Prentice, treasurer; Billy Ganger, sergeant-at-arms; Gail Orr, yell leader.
 Dr. C. O. Prentice has been in the Fort Klamath country assisting with vaccination of cattle in that district.

WASHINGTON

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS
 The Inside Story From The Capital
 By PAUL MALLON
 Copyright 1936, by Paul Mallon

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The Japanese are getting ready to put on a new act in their far eastern Punch and Judy show. They have stolen the script from Mussolini's adventures in Ethiopia and adapted it to the peculiar methods of oriental political stagecraft.
 Disturbing advance notices which have leaked to those in authority here indicate that the plot runs something like this: Chinese civil governors will be purchased by the Japanese at cut rates and established as local independent rulers through North China. They will be about as independent as the puppet emperor of Manchukuo. The Japanese will rule them for all practical purposes.
 To clear the way for this event, the Japanese are now staging demonstrations against themselves in North China. At least they are fostering the anti-Japanese demonstrations among the Chinese. These will give them the necessary excuse for doubling their military strength. And the added military strength will maintain the puppet governors, against China and the world.
 The seizure of North China will thus be as complete as the Mussolini seizure of Ethiopia.
 Note—Diplomatic advisers indicate that the move to double the Japanese garrison at Peking already has been begun. A boatload of Japanese soldiers is supposed to be on the way.

PROLOGUE
 The plot is not entirely new. The Japanese tried purchasing puppets in North China some time back but became frightened by the howls from London and Washington. Recently her military leaders appear to have become emboldened by the ease with which Mussolini defied world opinion. They are not likely to become frightened again, although right now Japanese diplomats are privately trying to find out how much opposition they may expect from the British and the Americans.
 This opposition may cause them to drag out the process by which they propose to establish complete hegemony over North China, but it is not likely to stop them.

CAST CHANGE
 Campaign picture time has come to the White House. Every presidential move has become a campaign picture, and well do the president's advisers know it.
 For instance, they seem to have effected a slight rearrangement of background for the last two movie news reel appearances of the president.
 Previously the background consisted mostly of a presidential bodyguard and friend who stood immediately behind him on all speaking occasions. The wistful countenance of the bodyguard was usually concentrated on the audience and the president's safety rather than the speech. His face remained frozen during some of the president's most humorous sallies. Theater audiences here have been known to watch him more closely than the president.
 In the last two news reels his place apparently was changed to a spot outside the camera focus. In his accustomed place appeared Mrs. Roosevelt.

SCENE SHIFT
 The vacation picture also is being arranged with an eye to improvement. There will be no battleships as background this year, and no Astor yachts. The president will go sailing up to Campobello after July 4, on a small sailboat, with his sons acting as sailors.

PRATICALLY
 Intimates of Joe Martin, the Massachusetts congressman, on at London's floor manager for the convention, consider him a very practical politician. They say he chose the London bandwagon methodically, that he did a lot of talking with average voters around the country before making his decision to toot the London horn.

FUN
 Nothing pleases democrats more than forcing a republican senator, who denounces New Deal extravagances six days out of seven, to lead the fight for an extravagance in his own state. Example: Senator Hale of Maine is strongly opposed to the Florida canal, etc., but he must say (and does) that the Passamaquoddy project to harness the tides in Maine is all right. He even admits that the project cannot be justified economically, unless you write off a good part of the cost to relief.

FEAR
 The AAA was always popular with congressmen for one reason. It provided liberal subsidies for the farmers. There is a fear now in the congressional heart that the soil conservation act will not be so liberal.
 Latest example: A Nebraska congressman has introduced a bill to authorize the payment of soil conservation subsidies to farmers on public lands. In other words, the government gives a man land at a very low rate and then pays him for living on it.

OMISSION
 The world court plank will be pulled out of its accustomed place in the democratic platform this year. That has been decided.

I can tell you from my own experience that you will get rain, thunder and plenty of storms in the public service.—Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia, New York City.

WHALES, LARGEST OF ALL ANIMALS, HAVE KEPT SECRET MOST OF THEIR LIVING HABITS!
 OF LATE YEARS, HOWEVER, MAN IS ENDEAVORING TO SOLVE THESE SECRETS BY SHOOTING INTO THE ANIMALS SMALL, HARMLESS, SILVER HARPOONS, EACH OF WHICH BEARS A NUMBER. THUS, WHEN THE WHALE EVENTUALLY IS KILLED, ITS TRAILS CAN BE TRACED.

WHALES cannot be kept in confinement, therefore it is impossible to make studies of their living habits, and the fact that they travel over such wide areas, and dive to such great depths, adds to the difficulty of checking up on them. Although they continue to grow for years, it is believed that the creatures mature at less than three years of age.
