to normal temperatures, he added, would bring most of the corn through without much rain.

A similar picture could be drawn in the other great corn-producing states—Illinois, Indiana and Nebraska—hope for a crop and Nebraska—the temperature drops.

But in the northwest, the Dakotas and parts of Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska and Wyoming, the spring wheat crop was parched virtually beyond salvage, and authorities said the yield would be far below normal.

Possibility of light rains affording little relief to crops in the Dakotas, northwestern Minnesota and northwestern Nebraska tomorrow, and in the west and north portions of North Dakota tonight was held out by Meteorologist J. R. Lloyd of Chicago.

Some Rain Reported

Scattered showers have occurred in portions of the western Ohio valley and the southern states, and light to scattered showers were rather general in the western mountain regions, Lloyd said.

At Winnipeg, Canada, heavy rains broke a drought over most sections of Saskatchewan and left property damage in their wake. Brief, heavy showers also brought welcome moisture to scattered parts of north Alberta.

In Wyoming and Montana three more fires started by lightning from rainless clouds, roared through powder-dry forest areas as more than a thousand fighters sought vainly to helplessly halt three blazes which have been raging since Sunday.

Rapid City, S. D., reported a forest fire which started Monday two miles north of Sundance, S. D., today had burned over a 7,000 acre area and was reported out of control in the north-west sector, with ranch families ordered from homes in the path of the flames. An additional 75 men were added to the 500 already on the firelines.

Cheerful Note Sounded

At Omaha, Neb., a cheerful note was sounded when the Federal Land bank of Omaha announced farmers and investors bought more farms from the bank during June than in any previous month in the bank's history. Seventy-five per cent of the buyers were farmers and tenants.

The president estimated 204,000 farm families—the bulk of them in the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wyoming and Montana—were in need of some form of immediate cash relief. He said 50,000 were being employed on WPA well digging, dam building and farm-to-market road construction projects at an average weekly wage of $15. He disclosed 2,800 in North Dakota, 800 in Minnesota and between 300 and 400 in Montana.

Mr. Roosevelt said substance loans would be advanced to 50,000 families through the resettlement administration in addition to 70,000 already receiving such aid.

Means of assisting 34,000 others must be worked out.

He also announced plans to adjust "dust bowl" farmers to new enterprises.

Next month, the president said, he would visit the "dust bowl," the Dakotas and possibly Minnesota to gauge the progress of the program.

Application Denied for Beer License

Beer license application of Jack Graf and Clay Sample, Klamath Falls men, was denied by the state liquor commission Wednesday. Reason given was that sufficient licenses already had been issued in this territory.

Sample and Graf had planned to operate in the place recently run as the Little Duck Inn, on South Sixth street.

John Nelson's license was suspended for 21 days because he was accused of selling liquor to intoxicated persons, according to an Associated Press report.

MAN ARRAIGNED IN POISON CASE

Ward Bannister, 68, was arraigned in justice court Wednesday on a charge of attempting to poison Claude Bradley, a distant relative by marriage.

Bradley, who signed the complaint, charges that Bannister put squirrel poison in Bradley's coffee pot at his house on the Keno road.

The case involves a strange mix-up of family relationships, Bradley being the stepson-in-law of Bannister's brother.

Discovers Poison

Bradley has been employed as a night watchman at the Weyerhaeuser plant, and accused Bannister of having influenced Mrs. Bradley to leave him. Mrs. Bradley has been staying in town with her mother, who is Ward Bannister's sister-in-law.

Bradley claims that Bannister went to the Keno road house on July 4, while Bradley was in town, and put squirrel poison in the coffee receptacle. He told the district attorney that on that evening, when he started to make coffee, he discovered the poison in the neck of the tin.

Samples Investigated

Samples of the allegedly poisoned coffee are held by the prosecutor, who is making a thorough investigation of the strange case.

Blackmer said Mrs. Bradley told him she had stayed in town because work at the country place, along with the labor she has been doing in a box factory, had become too heavy for her.

Drought Victims Given U. S. Help

The total monthly cost to relieve suffering in the drought areas, over and above those families now receiving cash grants from the resettlement administration, will be $1,590,000, officials estimate.

In addition, it was said, loans amounting to $9,500,000 would be necessary for a feed program, and $9,000,000 for a crop program in addition to the normal crop loan program. The resettlement administration estimates $4,500 new cases must be taken care of in the drought-stricken area.

Dr. W. W. Alexander and Joseph L. Daley, assistant administrators of the resettlement administration are now in Montana on a special inspection trip through the drought stricken area. They already have been through Nebraska and the Dakotas on a similar mission.

The two assistant administrators are reporting daily direct to Administrator Tugwell, and their reports are being made available to the inter-departmental drought committee.

Other resettlement officials are watching the southern situation closely, but the drought in that area as yet is not so severe as in the northwest. Should rains fall within a few days in the south, it was believed many sections now in serious danger of losing their entire crops, probably would be spared.

MARTIN PREPARES BUILDING PLANS

SALEM, July 8. (AP)—Governor Martin will place squarely before the 1937 legislature, without recommendation, developed plans for construction of a state office building and a state library, he announced today.

"Because of my experience with the last legislature I will not make any recommendations nor make suggestions as to the location, but will put it before them as outlined by the state planning board," Martin said.

In commenting upon his experience in the last legislature the governor referred to his recommendations for a $3,500,000 capitol building on Candalaria Heights in south Salem. The legislature, however, voted a $2,500,000 capitol upon the old site.

Hunters Take Many Predatory Animals

Predatory animal hunters in Klamath county working all or part time during June under federal, state and county funds, took 19 adult coyotes, 10 coyote pups and three bobcats, according to the monthly report from Roy Fugate, district agent for predatory animal control under the U. S. biological survey.

Fred R. Sankey assisted hunters and supervised rodent control operations in Klamath county during the month. Sankey also spent three days with officers of the Modoc national forest in California, outlining plans for live-beaver trapping and transplanting which is to be conducted by the biological survey and forest service in California.

JOURNAL MARKET EDITOR VISITS

Hymen H. Cohen, commercial and market editor of the Oregon Journal, was a visitor in Klamath Falls Wednesday.

Cohen, whose market articles are read throughout the northwest, is regarded as an authority on crops and markets. While here he obtained information on the Klamath potato crop, and was told by County Agent C. A. Henderson that if everything goes well, the year should be a banner one in the industry here.

"Klamath potatoes certainly were received well on their first appearance in our markets at Portland this year," said Cohen.

DUNN AND BAKER RECEIVE CONTRACT

Dunn and Baker Construction company was granted official permission to haul gravel for surfacing the Midland section of the Klamath Falls-Weed highway over city streets Wednesday morning, when the council met in special session at city hall.

The gravel trucks will be routed over California and Cooper avenues, over Link river bridge and past the Miller packing plant to the new highway.

Some discussion of the Town club's application for recommendation for a permit to sell liquor in accordance with the state law was held, but no decision made.

Final action on the matter of lifting the regular license fee for a tent show to be held here during the Moose convention was withheld by the council till a later date.

NOT GUILTY PLEA FILED WEDNESDAY

Peter Edward Hadley pleaded not guilty in Justice W. B. Barnes' court Wednesday to a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

State police arrested Hadley at Eleventh and Main streets. They charged that he drove his car on the sidewalk.

Hadley is out on bail. His trial date will be set Thursday.

FUNDS AVAILABLE FOR 1937 EVENTS

Marshall Cornett, chairman of the Fourth of July committee, reported Wednesday afternoon that the committee has come through the celebration with a nice "nest egg" to start next year's fund.

"We believe that the showing at this year's celebration was definitely so good that it justifies improvement of facilities at the fairgrounds," Cornett declared. "A grandstand is needed there if we are to take care of the crowds which, obviously enough, want to attend the festivities Klamath Falls stages."

Cornett said he would confer with the county court on the matter of fairgrounds improvements later in the day.

The chamber of commerce directors adopted a resolution praising the Fourth of July committee's efforts and endorsing the effort for better facilities at the fairgrounds.

Pending a final check-up, Cornett did not announce definite figures, but said that "we are already off to a good start for next year."

the A. F. of L. and spokesman for its dominant faction of craft unionists, said bitterly that Lewis' "unwise policy" had produced only "division, discord and confusion" in labor ranks and would benefit "only the enemies of organized labor."

Lewis, United Mine Workers head and leader of the drive to organize steel workers into a single unit instead of into various unions according to the craft they work at, immediately flared back.

He said that if the A. F. of L. executive council "elects to join with the corporations composing the American Iron and Steel Institute" in fighting the Lewis group "the shame of such a dishonorable action will lie on the heads of Mr. Green and his irreconcilable associates."
