Cream of American Athletes Selected for Invasion of Berlin Olympics

NEW YORK, July 14. (AP)—Bound for Berlin, America's team of 66 track and field men emerged Monday from the final tryouts with a flock of familiar faces missing and Uncle Sam's hopes of Olympic conquest largely pinned on the most sensational squad of freshman athletes ever assembled.

They represent the cream of the 1936 crop, a complete entry for all 23 Olympic events, and in many respects the most startling array of performers this country has yet produce for the quadrennial world championships.

Featuring the list is an extraordinary group of 10 negro athletes, led by the redoubtable Jesse Owens of Ohio State, only man to gain three places.

Eight athletes who entered the final tests with reputations as world record-breakers, Olympic champions or national titleholders emerged with nothing but the exercise.

Outstanding victims of the form reversals including big Ben Eastman, world record co-holder, who finished a bad sixth, and Charley Beetham, Ohio State's brilliant national champion, who fell and was eliminated on a heart-breaking 800 meter final.

Head Coach Lawson Robertson was among those rating Eastman's downfall as the biggest blow struck at America's Olympic scoring prospects.

San Francisco's colorful George Varoff, who cleared the world record height of 14 feet, 6½ inches in the pole vault a week ago in the national championships, was beaten out by a trio of Southern Californians.

Ralph Metcalfe, dusky Marquette flier, five-times national champion, and co-holder of the world record for the event, finished fifth and was eliminated in the 200 meter dash to the astonishment of all. He made the team by running second to Owens in the 100 meters.

Walter Marty, unable to do better than 6 feet, 4 inches in the high jump, also failed to make the team. Two negro rivals, Cornelius Johnson of Los Angeles and Dave Albritton of Ohio State, negotiated a new world record height of 6 feet, 9¾ inches in the most startling performance of the final trials. Marty set the listed mark of 6 feet, 9¼ inches in 1934.

Another west coast favorite, Norman Bright of Sunnyvale, Calif., ran fifth and was shut out in the 5,000 meters, which ended in a dead heat between Indiana's redoubtable Don Lash and a surprise contender, Louis Zamperini of Torrance, Calif.

The comeback of Glenn Cunningham, world mile recordholder, and the sensational development of a fellow Kansan, Archie San Romani, strengthen America's bid to win the classic 1500 meters for the first time since 1908.

Cunningham and San Romani ran one-two in a thrilling stretch duel yesterday, with both being clocked under the Olympic record in 3:49.9.

Trailing them by 10 yards was Pennsylvania's picture runner, Gene Venzke, who beat Bonthron for third place and thus redeemed his failure of 1932.

The negro talent captured 7 of 12 places in the flat races, a standout in the 400, and long-striding John Woodruff, University of Pittsburgh runner, filling the place conceded a month ago to Eastman in the 800.

Fritz Pollard, Jr., University of North Dakota high hurdler who placed second to Towns in the final, rounds out the contingent of extraordinary negro athletes.

Woodruff came within a tenth-second of equalling the world record Saturday when he won his trial 800 meter heat in 1:49.9. Yesterday the Pitt negro flashed home in front of the veteran Chuck Hornbostel of Indiana and Harry Williams of the University of North Carolina in a spectacular final.

Lash was placed first by the judges, but the motion pictures later determined they hit the tape together. The official verdict was altered accordingly.

Despite these upsets, American coaches and officials found plenty of room for optimism in the makeup of the team that sails Wednesday with the rest of the Olympic forces, numbering upwards of 300 athletes in a score of sports.

Olympic records were bettered in 10 of 27 events in the final tryouts at Randall Island stadium. World records were smashed by four athletes, including the two high jumpers, Glenn Morris of Fort Collins, Colo., in the decathlon at Milwaukee, and by Owens in the 200 meter final yesterday.

The team personnel included 13 individuals who either hold or have claims to possession of world track and field records.

Led by Owens, who will be America's favorite to capture both sprints and broad jump, the record-smashing headliners making the team include the two renowned southern hurdlers, Forrest (Spec) Towns of Georgia in the 110 meters, and Glenn (Slats) Hardin in the 400 meters.

Towns and Hardin, unbeaten in any Olympic test, give the United States its best chance to sweep the Olympic hurdling honors since 1924.

Cleaning Firm Increases Staff

The Pelitorium Cleaners and Dyers have added Sally Alfdem to their staff of employes. Miss Alfdem has spent a number of years in a large plant in Tacoma. O. A. Craig, recently from Philadelphia, is also a new member of the Pelitorium, taking over the men's pressing position left vacant by Roy Clark.

R. D. Bussard's brother, Kyffin,, will be here in a couple of weeks from Washington, D. C., where he is attending the National Institute of Dry Cleaning and Dyeing, a "University of the Cleaning Industry." The Bussard family seems to follow the dry cleaning trade. Kyffin is the third member of the Bussard family to make this business his choice. Mrs. Bussard's father, S. D. Doremus, owned and operated his plants for more than 10 years until his health failed and he sold his plants. Since having rested and regained his health, Doremus is now in charge of the cleaning department of the Pelitorium.

For safety's sake the air pressure in tires should be tested once a week.
