Spanish Mata Hari Blamed

By Government for Giving Information to Insurgents

Copyright, 1936, by United Press

MADRID, Aug. 24 (UP)—A mysterious woman spy—the Mata Hari of the Spanish revolution—was blamed by government circles today for supplying valuable military and political information to the insurgents.

The woman, who had entree into high political circles, cooperated with a "rebel" liaison committee. They, it was learned, sent information about government troop movements gathered by the feminine spy to the rebels from a concealed radio station. Neither the woman's name nor that of her fellow conspirators has been revealed, although it is known that they have been arrested.

Despite reports of rebel success in various parts of Spain, the war ministry today forecast a speedy government victory.

"The loyalists," said a communiqué issued at 3 p. m., "continue occupying new positions, reinforcing positions already occupied and obtaining triumphs in various sectors. This leads to the hope of important and decisive action in the near future."

Stocks Grope for Recovery

STEEL, SUGAR AMUSEMENTS LEAD ADVANCE

NEW YORK, Aug. 25 (AP)—The stock market groped for further recovery today and found its principal stimulation in the strength of steel, amusements and sugars, which pushed up fractions to three or more points.

Elsewhere trends were rather indefinite, with the motors, utilities, rails, aircrafts and oils marking time. The close was steady. Transfers were around $50,000 shares.

The market had plenty of bullish ammunition in the way of business and industrial developments, but traders were a bit more careful
