

Week Brings Year's Biggest Sports Events

17-Year-Old Hurler Has Advantage

Young Bob Feller, who struck out 15 St. Louis Browns in his first start, gifted with vital blinding speed.

Rogers Hornsby conducted a class in batting at a Cleveland coaches' school. The following afternoon 17-year-old Bob Feller struck out 15 of his St. Louis Browns, one less than the immortal Rube Waddell's American league record established in 1905 and only two shy of Dizzy Dean's major league mark of 17.

Judging by that, Hornsby ought to confine his lessons to his own club, but then, Feller, phenomenal right-handed recruit of the Indians, might have fanned 15 members of any outfit the day he mowed down the Browns.

Indeed, the Iowa farm boy might have equalled or bettered that total against the St. Louis Cardinals had he been permitted to go the route in an exhibition game on July 6. He struck out eight of nine Red Birds who faced him.

Feller has 90 per cent the best of it in launching what should be a long and brilliant major league career.

This advantage lies in his blazing fast ball. That's the first thing a scout looks for in a peegreen pill propper. A pitcher can be taught to curve the ball. A slow one and a change of pace can be acquired. Control comes with experience. But the hard one cannot be developed. It has to be there in the first place.

After Feller had made Medwick, Pepper Martin & Co. look so foolish during the brief period he worked in that exhibition game, Frankie Frisch remarked that the Cards would start the youngster the next day if he were their property.

"That kid's a natural," said Dizzy Dean. "He's got everything. He can't miss."

Only Migue Gonzales, veteran coach of the Gas House Gang, found the slightest fault with Feller.

"He is too much of an arm pitcher," pointed out the veteran catcher. "The strain on his arm is too severe. He's likely to hurt it."

But Gonzales and every other schooled observer knows that Feller gradually will shed his 137-pound body behind his pitches, and that with his follow through will come rhythm, more control, and additional speed. Pitchers who follow through are the superior fielders, too, for they finish their deliveries with an added step that leaves them on balance to move in either direction.

Such famous moundmen as Smokey Joe Wood and Bob Grove were all arm pitchers for three or four campaigns. Oral Hildebrand of the Indians has had considerable experience, but still is more of an arm than body pitcher.

Feller made the most amazing bow in the history of the two major wheels. He outstrips all other boy wonders. Waite Hoyt was crowding 19 when he crashed the Yankee lineup. Al Mamaux was older than Feller when he broke in. Walter Johnson was 19 when he made his debut with the Senators. Feller will not be 18 until December.

Feller, who did not pitch a single inning in the minors, carries himself like a veteran. His swagger is not affected.

Not once did the umpires have to caution Feller about his delivery or actions on the mound. That is very unusual. Most young pitchers have to be told about stepping on and off the rubber and about their motions.

Feller, who learned to pitch pegging at a makeshift backstop on a makeshift diamond in the cow pasture of his father's farm near Adel, Ia., first attracted attention by striking out 18 in a game in the national semi-professional tournament at Dayton, O., last year.

It has been estimated that 70,000,000 tons of soil fall on American cities annually.

SEVEN TITLES GO ON BLOCK

College Football Heroes Play Pros; Baseball Series Crucial

By GEORGE KIRKNEY NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(UP)

The year's biggest parade of champions will take place this week when titleholders in seven different sports go into action from Forest Hills to Chicago.

All-American football players, baseball heroes, basketball stalwarts, boxing champions, tennis titleholders, golf stars and polo aces will engage in a whirl of competition.

Chicago is staging two of the biggest sports shows of the week—the crucial four-game baseball series between the New York Giants and Chicago Cubs and the all-star Detroit Lions football game. The Giants, riding the crest of the greatest August drive in Wrigley Field baseball history collide with the champion Cubs in two games today and Tuesday after winning a doubleheader Sunday.

The results are expected to decide the National league pennant race.

Grid Game Tuesday College football hopes to assert its supremacy over the professional variety under the floodlights at Soldiers Field, Chicago, Tuesday night. The Collegians, boasting such stars as Jay Berwanger, Chicago, Bill Shakespear, Notre Dame, Gomer Jones, Ohio State, Dick Smith, Minnesota, and Keith Topping, Stanford, are coached by Bernie Bierman, Minnesota, who hasn't lost a game in three years. In previous games against the Chicago Bears the college boys played a scoreless tie and lost 5-0 on a field goal and a safety.

The two greatest basketball teams in the country, the McPherson, Kans., Oilers and the Hollywood Universals, back from winning the Olympic title, will meet in a "grudge" game at the Hippodrome, New York, Monday night. The Oilers beat the Universals for the national A. U. title but the Universals turned the tables on them in the final Olympic tryouts.

Three Boxing Titles At Stake Three boxing titles will be at stake within four days, with New York holding the prizefight spotlight. The complicated bantamweight championship will be settled when Sixto Escobar, Puerto Rico, recognized as champion by the New York commission, meets Babe Marino, Pittsburgh, in a 15-round bout at Dyckman oval Monday night.

Madison Square Garden will stage a championship "doubleheader" Thursday night when Tony Canzoneri defends his lightweight laurels against Lou Ambers, Herkimer, N. Y., challenger, and Mike Belloise, recognized as featherweight champion by the New York commission, puts his crown at stake against Dave Crowley, England. Both bouts are scheduled for 15 rounds.

Forest Hills Play Begins An international golf match will be held at the Pine Valley Country club, Clementon, N. J., Wednesday and Thursday when the Walker cup players of England and the United States meet in the biennial amateur series.

The United States has never lost the series which started at Hoyalake, Eng., in 1921.

The world's foremost tennis players will converge on Forest Hills Thursday for the start of the national championships in both men's and women's divisions. Helen Jacobs will defend her women's title against an international field. Fred Perry, Wimbledon champion, and Don Budge, Oakland, red-head, are favored to meet for the men's title relinquished by Wilmer Allison, out of singles competition because of an injury.

Polo Championship Title The national polo titles will be determined at Chestnut Hill Monday when Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, defending champions, meet Gene Mako and Don Budge, young Californians, for the men's title for the second straight year and Helen Jacobs and Mrs. Sarah Palfray Fabyan, defending titleholders, play Carolin Babcock and Mrs. John Van Ryn for the women's crown.

The national polo championship will start at Meadowbrook Sunday, with Greentree, last year's champion, favored to retain its laurels and meet the invading Argentine team, winner of the recent Olympic title, in an international series, starting September 19.

Madrid Confiscates Millionaire's Estate GIBRALTAIR, Aug. 31 (UP)—The Spanish government has confiscated the vast estates of Juan March, Spanish millionaire, it was reported here today.

Reports said the property would be appraised by experts and distributed among peasants of Malaga and Albacete provinces and other areas controlled by the government.

The Scoundrel Returns

Bob Montgomery, defeated meanie from Georgia, will be back in Klamath Falls Tuesday night to wrestle Blacksmith George Craig in the semi-final match of Mack Lillard's armory card. Joe Hubka will meet Cowboy Dude Chlek in the main event, and Johnny Soos will tackle a newcomer, Ray Snell, in the curtain raiser.

San Diego Double Loss Puts Beavers Two Games in Lead

By The Associated Press Portland held a two-game lead over the closest of five closely bunched rivals today at the conclusion of a sparkling week of baseball on Pacific Coast league diamonds.

While the Missions captured five games from Sacramento in last week's series, other teams fought in such even terms that all ended in 4-3 counts, with San Diego and Seattle in a tie for second place, the Missions in fourth, followed by Oakland and Los Angeles.

Portland improved its position slightly by dividing a doubleheader with the San Francisco Seals yesterday to win the series by the odd game. The Beavers captured the first game 6-5, only to fall in the short afterpiece, 3-10.

Powerful hitting by Joe Marty, Seal outfielder, kept his team in the game up to the eighth inning of the first contest. His efforts, which included a homer, double and single in three times at bat, accounting for three runs, were nullified when Pitcher Ed Stutz walked two Beavers to force in the winning run. George Caster, Portland pitcher, had a perfect day at bat, hitting two doubles and two singles.

In the nightcap, the Seals hammered three Portland pitchers for 14 blows, to run by an insurmountable margin. Marty hit a homer and a double in three trips to the plate.

Los Angeles' 6-5, 13-inning win over Seattle saw both teams come from behind at various times to end in a tie. Jigger Stutz, Seals' center fielder, broke up the game in the 13th when he sent home Relief Pitcher Joe Berry with his fourth blow of the game, a lusty triple.

In the seven-inning game, the Indians won 4-3, when Fay Thomsen's wild pitch let Dick Geysselman score the winning run in the fourth frame. After a ragged start, Paul Gregory held the Seals to two hits in the last four chukkers. The Angels took the series.

The split enabled Seattle to go into a split with San Diego as the Padres lost both games to Oakland, 9-1, 4-3. The initial game was all Ken Douglas, as the lean left-hander pitched shutout ball until Vince DiMaggio homed in the ninth.

In the nightcap, Relief Pitcher Jimmy Robin singled with two out in the sixth and was pushed over the plate on singles by Jim Hitchcock and Earl Bolyard. The score broke a 2-3 tie. Jimmy pitched three-hit ball after the first inning. The Padres won the series.

Four Mission pitchers couldn't hold the Seals in the first game, as the Solons won, 14-8. It was a sour beginning for Manager Willie Kamm on a day in his honor, but Walter Beck pitched sterling ball in the nightcap to give the Reds a 2-0 verdict. The Solons couldn't get past second on Big Walter. Lou Vezelich hit a homer in the first game for Sacramento.

hurdling ace, and Gene Venzke, the distance runner from Penn, were just a couple of the returning Olympians who got a few things off their chests. . . . They quawked because the bandage-wearers rode first class while the athletes were No. 3. . . . Hardin said the trip cost each performer about $300.

Willamette Player Signed by Yankees SALEM, Aug. 31 (AP)—The big leagues took one of Willamette University's star baseball players today, Ken Manning, first baseman, who will report next spring to one of the New York Yankees' camps. Manning took the chance in preference to a teaching-coaching job at Central Point.

GIANTS BOOST PENNANT LEAD

Double Win Over Chicago Puts New York In Favorable Spot

By The Associated Press

The way things shape up now, those red-hot Giants are in a nice spot to ride into the National league pennant on Carl (Screwball) Hubbell's pitching arm, Mel (Little Fellow) Ott's bat—and the breaks.

Anyway, Bill Terry's troupe is sporting a four-game lead on the second-place Cardinals today, because of those factors, while the Cubs are nursing a lot of sore spots down in third place—also because of the same.

With the worst of the western trip over, things look bright from a Giant standpoint, for a subway series in New York. Of course, there are still two games to go with the Cubs and a pair with the Cards. But the worst that can happen will still leave the Giants in front when they go back to the Polo grounds.

The double-header start of the "crucial" series, by which the Cubs hoped to chop the Giants' lead to one game yesterday, was mostly New York before it ended. "Screwball" Hubbell's elbowing baffled the Chicago champs in the opener to pull out a seven-hit 6-1 decision for the portender's 20th win of the campaign. The "Little Feller" bat came through in the nightcap, blasting out homer No. 28, with two mates aboard in the ninth inning to turn what seemed certain defeat into an 8-6 Giant win over Larry French.

This double defeat dropped the Cubs out of second, and pulled the Cards into the number two spot. The gas house gang, with Dizzy Dean, as usual, gangster No. 1, clubbed the Dodgers 6-3 in the opener of their bargain bill, to gain an even break. Van Mungo allowed seven hits in the 13-inning nightcap for a 2-1 Dodger win.

The Yanks all but nailed the American league pennant to their mast by taking the White Sox in the opener of a doubleheader, 8-1 and 4-1. Bump Hadley turned in his 12th win of the season in the opener, and Monte Pearson pitched three-hit ball in the nightcap, in which the Yanks came through against Vernon Kennedy's futile three-hit pitching with a four-run rally in the seventh inning.

Since the Boston Red Sox snapped out of their slump and nosed out the second-place Cleveland Indians in both games of their double bill, the Yanks' twin win hoisted them full 16 games in front of the pack, and from here on they will have to play less than 500 ball.

Wes Ferrell, with the aid of Eric McNair's four hits, took the opener of the double, 3-2, while old Rube Waddell hurled a three-hitter for a 5-1 win in the nightcap, in which last week's "strikeout sensation" Young Bob Feller, was rudely blasted from the hill in five innings.

The Tigers split with the Athletics, winning the nightcap behind Tommy Bridges, after dropping the 12-inning opener 5-4, to advance to a third-place with the White Sox.

By getting the even break, the A's pulled out of the cellar for the first time in a month, and the Browns dropped in. The Senators shoved the Browns to the bottom by sweeping their two games, 5-4 and 7-4.

The Cincinnati Reds beat the Phillies twice, 6-4 and 4-3, to go back into fifth place in the National league, replacing the Bees.

Big Lakes Whips Camp Klamath in Tilt Here Sunday

Big Lakes defeated Camp Klamath 6-3 Sunday in one of the closest games of the local amateur baseball season.

R. Thexton, pitcher for the mill team, was largely responsible for the CCC boys' defeat, striking out 12 batters in the short seven-inning game.

Salem Loses to Bend in Playoff

BEND, Aug. 31 (AP)—Nine other times Bend tried and failed but the tenth time brought victory and an opportunity to play Toledo for the state league baseball championship.

Beaten in nine consecutive games with Salem, the last being a week ago when it lost 2-1, Bend came through Sunday in a playoff for the second-half championship of the league to whip the Senators, 10-6, and go into the season championship series with Toledo, first-half winners.

A capacity crowd saw the game. Score: Salem R. H. E. Bend 10 6 2 Salem 2 1 0 Roberts and Hawkins; Bevens, Gastinger, Wilson, Wintermute and Maple.

OREGON'S GRID CHANGES GOOD

Ball-Carrying Talent Best Since 1933; Corvallis Outlook Doubtful

By The Associated Press

Football dopesters took a look at the sports pages today, saw the stretch, and decided it was time to investigate the low-down of the approaching gridiron season.

Here is what they offered up from five Oregon citadels of America's great fall game: Eugene—The University of Oregon is blessed with the best all-around backfield possibilities since the championship days of 1933.

Corvallis—The sideline experts are so seriously divided that there are those who think Oregon State college will be lucky to win a game (or maybe they are just Zuppke psychologists), and then there are those, among them Coach Lon Stiner, who see the outlook in the best since the 1933 iron-man eleven. Stiner admits a veteran first string, but a scarcity of reserves and particular weakness at the ends.

Salmon—Supported by a veteran line, Coach Roy Keene is preparing to shift Willamette university from a line-pounding aggression to an intricate passing and razzle-dazzle eleven something akin to the wild-riding Texas Mustangs. Whether he has the deceptive running halfbacks to carry out his plans will be answered several games hence.

Portland—The head-shaking at the University of Portland over the tackle situation is enough to give even a spectator a headache. Coach Gene Murphy grudgingly agrees he has two first-class tackles in Elwyn Dunstan, 219-pounder, and Larry Koch, 197, but after that the prospects are just as bright as the day-before-Thanksgiving for a turkey, if you believe Murphy. Also, he adds, he would like some outside help.

McMinnville—Coach Henry Lever feels badly about the Linfield college eleven, having only nine instead of all eleven of his championship team of 1935 coming back. George Harrington, Medford quarterback, is expected to get the signal-calling post.

Olympic Ruckus Not Expected to Cause Upheaval

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (AP)—Whether the verbal gunfire loosed by returning Olympians against domination of this country's amateur athletics by the A. U. will bring about anything resembling an upheaval appeared doubtful today unless more concrete action follows.

Current signs point to an effort by college leaders to obtain stronger representation in and perhaps definite control of the American Olympic association, before the invasion of Japan in 1940.

It will be two years, however, before there can be a showdown. Meanwhile the A. U. not only has time to put its own house-hold in order but opportunity if not actual incentive to effect more harmonious working relations with the collegiate chiefs.

State Softball Title Goes to Portland Team

SALEM, Aug. 31 (AP)—M. & M. Woodworkers of Portland ruled as the new state softball champions today. They defeated Hogg Brothers of Salem 5 to 1 Saturday in a championship game.

A four-run rally, set off by Roy Holser's long home run, gave them the game after 7 innings of the tightest kind of ball. To that point, each team had shovled across one unearned run.

Mickey Berjant pitched a brilliant game for the Portland team, letting Hogg Brothers down with 5 hits. Vern Gilmore, hero of Hogg Brothers' spectacular Friday night win over Rotary Broom, was equally effective until the fatal eighth.

Blue Boot Wins Longacres Race SEATTLE, Aug. 31 (AP)—Blue Boot, Hynes and Beechey entry, clipped a record off the track record yesterday to win the $10,000 Longacres mile.

The winning time was 1:35.3-5. A Gray roe Blue Boot, which paid $6.70, $4.20 and $2.10 on a two-dollar ticket.

Indian Broom, the favorite, finished third, behind Primulas, which conquered Indian Broom in the $5,000 Seattle handicap. Primulas paid $6.70 and $4.20, and Indian Broom $2.10.
