

LOG-BUCKING WINNER GETS RECOGNITION

Winner of the log bucking contest, which is to be a feature of the annual boat regatta, sponsored by the junior chamber of commerce on Sunday, May 30, will be recognized by the official representative of the Klamath basin in a championship final for the Oregon pine district to be held here about July 4, according to word received by Charles Mack, chairman of the regatta program committee.

The district champion, with entrants from three other Pacific coast districts, will enter the national log bucking contest to be held at the Pacific Logging Congress convention which meets this year at Seaside, Ore., from September 15 to 18. Other entrants will be taken from the following districts: Redwood forests, the Washington fir district and the Columbia fir region.

contestant, will be paid by the Pacific Logging Congress. Next year the Klamath county junior chamber of commerce plans to open its log bucking contest to the entire Oregon pine district, instead of just the Klamath basin, as was the case this year. Six mills in the Klamath basin have entered men for Sunday's contests, both in log rolling and log bucking, according to Mack. Virtually all the other mills in this district have offered to pay an entry fee but have been unable to find contestants to enter.

MEDFORD BEAUTY SCHOOL NOT TO OPEN BRANCH HERE

Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Moyer who operate the Medford School of Beauty Culture and are Klamath visitors this week announced that no one connected with their school is interested in any way with opening a beauty school in Klamath Falls.

At Monday night's council meeting the question of license fees for beauty schools was brought up for debate, and it was stated that a Medford party was interested in locating a school here. An erroneous impression that the Medford School of Beauty Culture was the party wishing to open here has been circulated, Moyer said, and he wished to make it clear that such is not the case.

WALGREEN STORE SIGNS CONTRACT

The recently-opened Walgreen drugstore, at Seventh and Main streets, Thursday signed a contract with the Culinary Workers' Alliance, G. C. Tapton, secretary of local No. 424, announced. The agreement covers all employees of the store's lunch counter department.

The store was picketed from 7 o'clock Thursday morning until shortly before noon, but the picketers were removed as soon as the contract was signed. Tapton expressed appreciation to the merchants and business men of the city for their help in respecting the picket lines.

THOUSANDS JOIN IN OPENING OF NEW BAY BRIDGE

Nearly 200 state and city police patrolled the bridge to guard against suicide attempts. Six fire trucks and six ambulances were also stationed at the span.

The bridge will be opened to motor traffic tomorrow. An anti-rail boycott threat by the Maritime Federation of the Pacific hung over the fiesta, and the city's largest hotels were still tied up by a strike that was in its twenty-seventh day, but neither of these appeared to affect the safety of San Francisco or of its thousands of visitors from all parts of western America.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 27 (AP) Governor Charles H. Martin and the huge caravan from the Web-foot state cut off a pretty good sized piece of the world today and "told it about Oregon."

Business houses closed and students left their classrooms to cheer the Oregon 100-car cavalcade as it headed south through the bright sunshine of northern California and made a triumphant entry into San Francisco for the Golden Gate bridge fiesta last night. A highway patrol and county and city officials picked up along the route guided the procession to the bay region.

"That's the way I want Oregon to sell itself," the governor said. "We have so much and I feel that Oregon should tell the world about it."

The Oregonians ferried across the bay and got their first glimpse of the inspiring span they came to help dedicate. "Here in San Francisco western brains and western brawn have again combined to do the impossible," said Governor Martin in a national broadcast.

Striplings of America "We of the western states are the striplings of America. Ours is the blood and spirit of the western pioneers whose vision and determination first drove the ox teams across the wilderness to a new frontier. Ours is the priceless heritage of daring and adventure. I thank God for that birthright. We of the west are still pioneers."

"Let us stop this childish bickering over state boundaries. Let us accept a broader view and through united action make of the west a great empire for all the world to admire."

HOT FIGHT WAGED OVER AMENDMENT TO RELIEF BILL

(Continued from page one) ment which would have made ineligible for relief any person who went on strike or incited or encouraged strikes.

"I know this is a very strong—almost radical—amendment," he said, "but there's nothing un-American about it. Why should anyone on charter, accepting a above-board denounce the congress and the relief program because we are not paying him enough wages?"

Fuller said most of the earmarking of the bill was due to the "animosity and rulings of Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator."

SIDELIGHTS ON GOLDEN GATE BRIDGE OPENING

Wearing a tiny jacket and a balloon, a black Scottie dog was the first animal to cross. The dog, named Champion Holquist Black Lancer, is owned by Val A. Smith of San Francisco.

Early morning fog was cleared by sunshine and it was a typical California day, with a slight breeze blowing.

Two small boys gave highway patrolmen theitters today by dropping into the safety net beneath the Golden Gate bridge. The net, from which 100 workmen once dropped to their deaths, sways dizzily 220 feet above the water.

Officers hauled the children to safety while other spectators gasped. The boys said they did the stunt for a thrill because the bridge was too crowded.

Milton Pilshashy, 35, started at 6 a. m. to roll a pill box across the Golden Gate bridge with his nose. He was still "going strong" three hours later, but the crowd became so dense that he and his box were lost in the shuffle.

FOUR KILLED AS CHARTER PLANE CRASHES, BURNS

Emme, a brother of Otto J. Emme, former exalted ruler of Los Angeles Elks, was reported to have invited the women, family friends, to accompany him to Los Angeles. They had been staying at Shell Beach, near here.

Back From Las Vegas Keenan, a few hours earlier, had finished flying an eloping couple to Las Vegas, Nev., "marrying judge." A third member of the bridal party was arrested on suspicion of issuing a bad check to cover the aerial charter fee, when Keenan returned with him to Burbank.

The chartered plane landed at Santa Maria shortly after 10 p. m., and departed a few minutes later. In a fight between two elephants, housed in circus winter quarters, one pushed the other through a solid brick wall 14 inches thick.

It is said that the majority of road accidents take place at speeds not exceeding 20 miles per hour. Bats guide their flight by some sixth sense which warns them of obstructions. Textile machinery exports constitute an important item in Germany's foreign trade.
