

HACKAMORE DEER DEATH MEETING SET

Removal of the top strand and installation of boards of tin strips on the other strands of the Southern Pacific right-of-way fence through the deer country south of Tulelake will be proposed and discussed at Saturday's wildlife conference at Hackamore CCC camp.

The conference, called by the natural resources unit of the Shasta-Cascade Wildland association, will attract conservationists, railroad men, sportsmen and wildlife enthusiasts, from a wide area on both sides of the state line.

Purpose of the proposed changes in the fence is to make it safer for deer, which crowd by the hundreds into the lava beds area in the winter and spring. Heavy loss of life among the deer is said to have resulted from the animals running in fright from trains and crashing into the barrier.

Removal of the top wire, it is believed, will make it easier for the deer to jump the fence, while the tin strips on other strands will make it easier to see. It is said that the deer, when wild with fright, fail to see the barbed wire and run into fences which they could easily leap.

W. L. Hack, superintendent of the Sacramento division of the Southern Pacific, will attend the meeting, according to T. L. Stanley, secretary of the Shasta-Cascade association. A number of railroad men from here, including trainmen who have worked the Alturas line and witnessed the deer deaths along that line, are expected to attend.

The Klamath county council of the Oregon Wildlife Federation, the Klamath Sportsmen's association, the county court and other organizations here will be represented at the conference, which will continue through the late afternoon and evening.

In addition to the winter deaths of deer, the conference will discuss the deer food situation in southern Lake and northern Modoc counties and the proposed uniformity of duck hunting dates in northern California and Oregon.

BUTTE VALLEY

DORRIS—Mr. Paul M. Goodwin and Mr. Harry Renold attended the principals' and coaches' meeting of the Klamath-Siskiyou County Athletic Association at Klamath Falls, on Wednesday evening of this week.

The football team will play its second game of the season at Mt. Shasta on Friday, September 24.

The girls' league will hold its annual picnic at Moore park, Klamath Falls, on Friday afternoon.

The contests between classes and students are of great interest this week. Each class is struggling for the highest percentage of student body card holders among its members. At present, the seniors are in the lead with the freshmen winning a close second. The victorious class will be awarded a box of chocolates. The contest closes next Monday, September 27.

Students are busy writing new "yells" which will cheer their teams to victory. The author of the best "yell" will receive the price of a student body card.

LANG CASE GOES DOWN AS MISHAP

The death of Clarinda Ball Lang goes into the records as an accident.

Although officers said Friday that the case still possessed some mysterious circumstances, they agreed that definite evidence is lacking that would lead to any theory but an accident.

The Klamath Indian woman fell from a car driven by her father, Ed Ball, in the Shady Pine district and died of a fractured skull.

George Santorno, Wisconsin Indian, was riding with her in the back seat of the car just before the mishap.

District Attorney H. C. Blackmer said that investigators had found that Mrs. Lang and Bertina Isaacs, another Indian woman, had been in town ostensibly to attend a show. He said that apparently they did not attend a show, and when the two men found the woman, with Mrs. Lang in an intoxicated condition, they decided to drive them home in the car. Mrs. Lang, the prosecutor said, assertedly fought savagely in the back seat before leaving the car.

ORR TO SPEAK ON SUNDAY WORSHIP

As a special subject to be discussed by Rev. J. Clarence Orr, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church Sunday evening will be, "The One Thousand Dollar Text, or Why Do Christians Worship on Sunday?" The pastor has made a thorough study of the subject, and sometime ago when "One Thousand Dollars" was offered for a text, he accepted the challenge, but the challenger refused even to talk to him about the subject, according to Rev. Orr.

Sunday evening he will deal with the subject and will tell exactly where, not only the text is found, but will give at least three texts, directly dealing with the subject found in the New Testament.

CARR TO HEAD RETAIL CLERKS

Ted A. Carr has been appointed manager of the Retail Clerks Protective association here.

He has been serving as secretary and treasurer. He will take over the full time job of business manager Monday.

Carr was appointed by the local union at the suggestion of Carl Bergstrom, organizer for Oregon and Washington, who spent last week here. He is one of the few persons in town who have belonged to a retail clerks' union.

The business manager was formerly with Hardenbrook.

THREE APPOINTED TO BUDGET BOARD

Ray members of the county budget committee are Alfred Collier, U. B. Reeder and C. A. Bunnell.

Bunnell was appointed by County Judge George Grizzle, Reeder by Commissioner W. F. B. Chase and Collier by Commissioner Roy Taylor.

The board will meet October 11 for a preliminary session and expects to finish the budget on October 14 and 15.

OCCUPANTS SUFFER MINOR INJURIES AS CARS COLLIDE

Occupants of both cars were scratched and bruised in an accident near Malin involving autos driven by Harvey E. Walker and Laura E. Paulsen, according to a report filed with the sheriff.

W. L. Clement reported hitting a dog at Pleasant View. Mrs. Jato Epley reported that the car she was driving struck a cow in the Altamont district. The animal was unhurt.

C. L. Dixon of Benton, Wash., and Mrs. J. Visio of Palo Alto, Calif., were drivers of cars in a crash near Algoma.

VIOLATION OF BASIC RULE BRINGS $5.45 FINE

John Varnum McKee was assessed $5.45 costs when he appeared in justice court on a charge of violating the basic traffic rule.

Graydon Broyles and Roy Belar were similarly charged. They had not appeared Friday afternoon.
