NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALION

WASHINGTON, June 2 — The practical difficulties of planned economy are being brought home to Agriculture Secretary Wallace and his agricultural planners by the deep troubles they are getting into in wheat.

It will not be admitted publicly, but Mr. Wallace is losing some sleep over it. He has even dispatched agents to the wheat belt to try to talk the farmers into being reasonable. One of the agents is George Farrell, head of the western division of AAA.

The trouble comes from the new farm act. It requires the government to make loans on a basis of $2 to 75 per cent of old parity prices. When Mr. Wallace's calculations showed the price parity for April it came to the astounding total of $1.15 a bushel. This means loans on wheat could be made no lower than 60 cents a bushel, but the price of wheat at the farm may soon be considerably less than that. It is now about 60 cents.

Now if Wallace is going to lend at a price above the market, it will mean pegging the price above the world market, a loss of the export market and an enormous accumulation of wheat by the federal government.

ELECTION YEAR

Under ordinary circumstances, you would think that Wallace would go to congress and get another amendment to the farm act (18 have been passed already in the 96 days since the act was enacted). But congressmen are not likely to become excited at the prospect that the farmers will get more than the market price out of the federal treasury. Unfortunately this is an election year.

CERES OBSTINATE

The inside guessing which Mr. Wallace's experts are doing on the wheat crop prospects is not easing his pain either.

Their best guess of supplies for the crop year beginning July 1 is 6,125,000,000 bushels which would be the fourth largest supply in history, exceeded only in the years 1930, 1931 and 1932. On this basis they expect a carry-over of 400,000,000 bushels, compared with the normal carry-over of 210 to 225 million bushels.

The crop now in the ground is officially estimated at about one billion bushels, the winter production being 754,000,000 and spring upwards of 200,000,000.

Ceres just will not cooperate with planned economy.

PARISIAN ALARM

What alarmed up the state department about war prospects in the Czechoslovakian situation last week was a series of trans-Atlantic telephone calls from the Paris embassy. Apparently the French government was excited and really believed this was the European break that had long been fearfully anticipated. Inside reports from other American sources in Europe were calmer.

NO FLARE

A movement is afoot to provide TVA's ex-chairman Arthur Morgan with a publicity adviser. His first appearances before the TVA investigating committee were dismal flops for the headline writers. He seemed to have some goods, but little public attention was drawn to them because of the involved scholastic manner of presentation.

For instance, Morgan charged Director Lillenthal with doctoring the TVA record, but no one will ever know it without close reading of the record. Specifically he accused Lillenthal of eliminating two paragraphs from the minutes of a TVA board meeting of November 2, 1933.

One of these paragraphs related that Lillenthal reported Communist Wealth and Southern "would enter into an arrangement without reservations for the transfer of power facilities from private to public ownership in communities selected by the parties." The other showed Lillenthal had conferred with Interior Secretary Ickes to speed up PWA loans to Tuscumbia and Sheffield to build power distribution systems.

Morgan did not make it clear, but the matter was of some importance because the power companies were granted permission by a court to search the TVA record for evidence that Ickes and Lillenthal had worked together on a cooperative PWA-TVA program. They could not find the evidence

The Family Doctor

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN, Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

An extraordinary condition that affects children particularly is known as glandular fever or infectious mononucleosis. Although this condition has been well recognized for 50 years, its exact cause has not yet been determined. It is known, however, to be an infection which involves the blood, the spleen, the liver and the lymph glands.

In recent years it seems to have become more frequent than it was some time ago, but this may be due to the fact that it is easier to recognize the disease on account of our modern methods of studying the blood.

Although the condition appears most commonly in children between the ages of 5 and 15, there are cases reported up to 40 years of age. A few cases are reported under 5 or over 40 years of age. Apparently the disease develops from 5 to 15 days after the person has been infected.

While the exact cause of the disease is not known, it is now generally believed to be not a germ that can be seen under the microscope but one of the type known as filtrable viruses, which are small enough to go through the pores of the clay filter. Such viruses cannot be seen under the microscope.

Glandular fever or infectious mononucleosis is seldom fatal. When death does occur, it is usually due to some secondary complication. Nowadays the diagnosis is made chiefly by studying the blood of the patient.

It is now recognized that there are several different types of white blood cells. In this condition, the white blood cells with a single nucleus, or the so-called mononuclear cells, which ordinarily represent but a small percentage of the total white blood cells, will range from 40 to 80 per cent of the total white blood cells. Indeed, one case has been recorded in which the mononuclear cells constituted 97.5 of the total.

Such an examination of the blood can be made only by a physician or someone trained in this work. As far as the patient is concerned, he suffers from fever, enlargement of the glands and sometimes an associated sore throat. Occasionally the glands will become secondarily infected and will develop small abscesses.

While there is no specific method of treating this disease, the usual methods used in infectious diseases—including rest in bed, suitable diet and the use of drugs which definitely affect infections within the body—are helpful.

because Lillenthal had eliminated it.

PURCHASES

The killers and bad men of Alcatraz seem to be developing some modest new tastes.

The private files of the general accounting office show some of the things which have been bought lately by Al Capone, Alvin Karpis, Fred Reis, first citizens of the federal penitentiary. (The purchases are made with their own money, but the expenditures must be approved by the government.)

Karpis, the kidnaper, is developing a new interest in geography. He paid $2 for a World Atlas.

Capone, Chicago overlord of the underworld, bought a Hohner tritone pitch pipe to keep himself on key.

But the most practical purchase listed is that of Reis. He has bought a copy of "Practical Navigation," no doubt mindful of the fact that Alcatraz is an island.

As astonishing as it may seem, the fact clearly stands out that the army's transportation organization, in all its unworkability, is now right back again where it was when we entered the World War.—Col. William J. Wigus, transportation engineer.

Telling the Editor

ON RECOVERY PLAN

Lakeview, Ore. (To the Editor): To me it matters not what line of occupation, if honorable, we follow. We are Americans for each other's best interests. I have no political ambitions, never did. To me they are our paid servants and we should not idolize them, from chief executive to justice of the peace. Our demoralized, both moral and economic conditions of today can be attributed to no other than party political idolizing, which dates back to the assassination of Lincoln. Wherein our educated structure has defaulted in honor to Jefferson, who founded it. That our heritage would ever be safe as of today political party reverence to framers of our Constitution, as represented by candidates convictions, are not based upon constitutional safeguards for our welfare, but on political palaver which has with dishonor to our educated structure, (which we are proud of in all other endeavors), sunk us to the level of steaming from posterity in vain hopes of prosperity, which our chief executive and subvertent representatives, would have you, and are doing, believe patriotic. Henry Ford was right when he said there is nothing wrong with this country. Everything would be alright if American people would only think. In my endeavors to promote Oregon Recovery Plan Inc., as I vision it, it has fundamentals if enacted into law, will definitely promote our general welfare, state and nation, in its philosophy of reducing property taxes and honoring the aged by 2 per cent transaction tax. Since our outstanding governor, who has served our state so nobly, whose convictions there- in so doing, was based with reverence to framers of our Constitution, to protect our heritage against sinister influences and by that in party primary coalition suffered defeat for renomination. I supported Governor Martin as a Jefferson democrat. I now with due reverence to framers of our Constitution, with the welfare of our nation at heart am a republican Jeffersonian.

Tips on Bargains and Fashions for Klamath People

WHILE THE men are out fishing, or thinking about it, why not take advantage of the summer sales? I found one that no one should miss.

IT'S AT MARGOT'S . . . Where a summer clearance sale on coats and suits is underway . . . You know, I'm getting to be sort of a veteran when it comes to shopping . . . And even I was amazed at the values to be found there!

COATS are now priced from $3.00 to $12.75 . . . And suits are now $6.95 to $12.75 . . . When you stop to think how MARGOT'S is noted for low prices at the beginning of the season . . . And then go in and look over the stock on sale . . . Well, you, too, will realize that now is the time to buy and save . . . Every coat and suit in the house comes within these price ranges.

YES, the reductions are remarkable . . . And the cute suits . . . in tailored or dressmaker styles . . . and clever coats of undisputed style and quality are bargains if I ever saw any . . . At MARGOT'S

AND THEN there is more dollar cutting down the street at the ART AND GIFT SHOP . . . On the most attractive wa-a-t-e-p-a-p-e-r baskets you can find in town . . . When you find a necessity like this done up so attractively . . . and for only 95 cents . . . you can bet a lot of people are going to buy.

THE WASTEPAPER baskets formerly were priced up to $1.95 . . . They come in metal or fibre . . . In various sizes, and of good solid construction . . . Some are for bedrooms, with pastel prints or darling chenille animals on them . . . Others, more dignified and plain, are suitable for living rooms or even offices . . . At the

ONE OF THE cleverest new styles in this year's flock of shoe sensations can be found at FOULGER'S . . . I'm thinking of "wedgies" . . . The heel, you know, extends clear under the arch in the shape of a wedge . . . Giving a very streamlined appearance (Slightly Oriental) . . . And an amazing amount of comfort . . . When they cost only $2.95 a pair, everyone ought to have a couple for sportswear.

AT FOULGER'S

BY THE WAY, you know the Lucien LeLong perfume at CURRIN'S FOR DRUGS . . . Well, I've forgotten to mention that you can buy it by the dram . . . From $1.25 to $2.00, depending upon the fragrance . . . I found it out the other day when a gal came in with a lovely crystal flacon and asked for a refill.

JUST TO change the subject . . . Some friends stopped here last week . . . people I had met in the Middle West a year ago . . . and you should have heard them go into ecstasies over Upper Klamath Lake . . . They couldn't understand why everyone in town didn't own a boat to put on it . . . So I got hold of some people who do have a boat, and arranged a ride for them . . . Last night, when we went for a drive that way, I looked at the lake with new eyes . . . Perhaps we are pretty lucky.

SPEAKING of night . . . Have you been in to CURRIN'S recently, after the lights are on in and around the perfume "bar"? . . . The effect of the bar, and the bulk perfume display right behind it, with the unique subdued lighting, are indescribably lovely . . . Look in, at night, as you go by.

CURRIN'S

JUNE, for some reason, is the month for weddings . . . It seems the June moon, rhyming with moon, might make the word "June" change its tune and become "now" . . . If you know what I mean.

ANYWAY, if you're getting married, why not take advantage of the low prices for engraved and process-printed wedding announcements which can be obtained at SHAW STATIONERY . . . The engraved ones are only $8.95 and up for 50 . . . The process-printed is cheaper, being $6.00 and up, yet is very much in style and perfectly proper . . . Only five to 10 days are needed to get them, complete, from SHAW'S

There are signs that business is bottoming out. It will move upward, and things should be looking a whole lot better by the November election.—Roger W. Babson, prominent economist.

Plans for the Shasta-Cascade Wonderland building at the Golden Gate International exposition are now complete, and work on the displays is started.

The Klamath county photographic committee composed of Ralph Howard, chairman; A. H. Bussman, Malcolm Eply, Embert Fossum, C. H. Foster, R. L. Jacobs and Percy Murray is busy selecting subjects and scenes to be photographed.

The Kennell-Ellis studio of Klamath Falls has been selected as the official photographers for Klamath county and has already taken many beautiful pictures.

The committee will welcome suggestions and information that will aid it in getting the very best in pictures for the Wonderland building.

Dirty Magazines

DIRTY magazines are arousing considerable public protest and indignation. Recent action by the district attorney's office in warning newsstand operators to eliminate questionable material of this sort has met apparent public approval, and some organizations took the trouble to express themselves formally on the matter. In Eugene, the city council has undertaken legislation against dirty magazines.

Some magazines are frankly dirty and nothing would be left of them if all the dirt were eliminated. Others are only partly devoted to undesirable material, and their publishers could easily make changes that would make them acceptable. The publishers themselves would be wise to undertake a clean-up that would avert the possibility of censorship, which is generally distasteful and usually goes too far.

Worst thing about the openly obscene or slyly satirical magazines is that they are obtained and read by children of impressionable age. Juvenile authorities will tell you that a great deal of rotten reading material, with obscene illustrations, passes around among youngsters in the schools. There are low-minded individuals who make it a practice to distribute this sort of thing among children.

What is needed is a strong showing of public disapproval. Where laws exist that cover the offense of giving or selling such literature to children, a few arrests and stiff punishments would do a lot of good.

Feminine Rasslin' Fans

THE bright young fellow who promotes wrestling matches in Southern Oregon recently has hit upon an idea for attracting more members of the fair sex to his shows. In Klamath Falls and in Medford, society editors have temporarily abandoned teas and weddings for a little virile sports writing, giving the women's viewpoint of the grunt-and-groan affairs known currently as rassling. The resourceful promoter has followed up with "ladies' nights" with special price inducements, and the girls have turned out in large numbers.

It is an interesting experiment, and a feather in the cap of the promoter. Women, however, are not new to wrestling matches, as any veteran customer will tell you. A scattering of women have been going to them for a long time, and women are likely as not to be the most vociferous customers. Often the most blood-curdling suggestions to the burly fellows in the ring come from feminine throats. Who among wrestling fans has not heard a twangy soprano urging her favorite to gouge something out, bite something off, or commit some other act of mayhem?

The recent enterprise will probably make more rabid feminine fans like that in these parts. Women may be a little hesitant, but when they go in for something (take smoking, for instance) they do it in a big way. Now that the ice has been broken for many of them, they'll hie to the sports arena in increasing numbers, and mere males will find themselves again crowded into the background in a diversion they once had pretty much to themselves.
