The old swimming hole in the gravel pit on the Crater Lake highway was the scene of the annual carpenters' union picnic Sunday afternoon. THE FAMILY DOCTOR
(This is the first of two articles by Dr. F. H. Babin on foreign and American water curing.)
By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine
The difficulties of travel abroad at the present time, and the changes that have taken place in many of the foreign countries to which Americans used to go in great numbers in order to avail themselves of various healing springs and waters has turned new attention to the healing springs and mineral waters of the United States.
From the very earliest times men have had the belief that a stay at such healing springs was exceedingly beneficial to the health. There is hardly a nation in the world which does not have certain mineral spring resorts.
When the waters of these resorts are studied chemically or with relationship to their effects on the human body, it is found that in hundreds of instances the waters are without any extraordinary physical or chemical qualities whatever. In other instances the waters possess extraordinary amounts of laxative salts; sometimes they are impregnated with various gases. In some instances small amounts of radium emanation have been found in the waters, but regardless of the amount of quality of the materials found, they are usually endowed with virtues far beyond anything that science can really demonstrate.

SCOUTS TAKE HAND IN FIGHTING BLAZE

CRESCENT LAKE, July 18—Helping the forest service control a forest fire highlighted the first week of the Boy Scout camp at Crescent lake. Quick action confined the fire to a single acre. Twenty-three scouts finished their first week at camp Sunday and dozens that number were on the rolls for the second of the four weeks' encampment at the mouth of Whitefish creek. Besides regular camp work and handicraft projects, the scouts hiked to several of the nearby points of interest.
Several small lakes lie within a few miles of the campsite, and Cowhorn and Diamond peaks are not much farther away. The famous Skyline trail, which follows the backbone of the Cascades, passes close to the camp.
Contributing their bit toward improvement of the area and at the same time earning credit in scoutcraft, the scouts began a project of building trail bridges over creeks near the camp.
Included in the recreation program that offsets the more strenuous side of camp life are three hours of boating each day and two one-hour swimming periods.
A staff of seven members under Scout Executive Dwight Gilchrist was in charge of the first week, including Milton McAuley and Hugh Kaffon, scoutmasters; John Raffetto and Craig Coyner, assistant scoutmasters; Ray McAuley, in charge of mess; Dick Curran, in charge of first aid and lifesaving, and Rev. Eugene B. Haynes, who served as a general capacity for the first week and is the only member of the staff who will not serve for the other three weeks. The other staff members were warm in their praise of Haynes' assistance in directing several of the projects.

TWO MEN HELD AS HOLDUP SUSPECTS

Lloyd Williams and James Alderman, negroes, are held for investigation in the Klamath Falls city jail and charged with vagrancy in connection with the alleged holdup of Ralph Aubrey of the Mills section.
According to the story told police by Aubrey, two negroes held him up near the Buffalo lunch at 1:05 o'clock Sunday morning. They are said to have taken Aubrey's wallet and also his driver's license. No money was obtained.
The men were arrested by Special Officer Al Kennerly on the South Sixth street viaduct.

LOCKE EMPLOYEES ENJOY OUTING

All members of the Locke Motor company organization and their families enjoyed an outing at Diamond lake Sunday as guests of Walter Locke.
The affair came as reward for a successful week's car campaign carried on through June. The highlight of the day was a ball game between the salesmen and the service department.

OUR HOME TOWN BICYCLE RIDERS

By EARL WHITLOCK
One hears many motorists say that a cyclist coming along the highway makes them nervous. Some of them it makes irritable. They seem to feel it an intrusion of their 60- or 80-mile-an-hour rights that a cyclist should be permitted on the public road.
Well, no matter how wide they make the highways, we're not going to have safety as long as we continue to fill them up with narrow-minded people. And this prejudice against bicycle riders is a narrow one, indeed.
Bear in mind that the bicycle is a vehicle and, as such, is entitled to its full half of the road. Give the cyclist on the highway as much room as you would give to another car and don't go past him where you wouldn't pass another car. Nine times out of ten, the bicycle rider annoys you because you're trying to allow him less space than complete safety calls for — far less space, for instance, than you'd allow a good, solid truck joggling along at the same speed.
You'll be surprised how yielding half the road will smooth out your irritation. After all, there are a few cyclists who wouldn't gladly change places with the automobile driver. They don't ride bicycles to be annoying. They ride them, as you drive your car, to get somewhere more quickly and easily.

At Odell—Mrs. Ernest Bubb and daughter, Janice, and Mrs. James Bishop Foster motored to Odell lake Sunday as the guests of the Junior Daggetts at their summer home.
Bike Taken—Edward Canton reported to city police the theft of his bicycle, a red and white Savage, from the Fremont school grounds early Monday morning.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

The mineral wells, the sulphur springs, the hot water geysers, and those springs which provided waters with varying amounts of chemical ingredients have been the ones which have always attracted the most attention and aroused most comment.
One expert has pointed out that the qualities of natural water cures may be automatically arranged into three groups: (1) those water cures which have physical effects; (2) those water cures in which certain magical virtues are accredited to the water and (3) those springs which are endowed with certain religious attributes because of occurrences which may have taken place at one time or another in the past.
The shock associated by suddenly plunging the human body into very cold water is known to have a definite effect both on the mind and on the body.
In a previous generation it was customary to put all patients with typhoid fever into extremely cold baths, with the idea of keeping the fever low by this method. Nowadays we recognize that fever may be beneficial, and it is not controlled in this manner.
In an earlier generation it was customary to plunge the insane into very cold water with the idea that the shock might do them some good. Today we recognize the exceedingly sedative and quieting effects of long immersion in warm water. The one of the warm water baths, the continuous well-established means for quieting those who are mentally disturbed.

Christian Science

"Life" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, July 17.
The Golden Text was, "As the Father hath life in himself; so hath he given life to the Son to have life in himself" (John 5:26).
Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "I call heaven and earth to record this day against you, that I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing; therefore choose life, that both thou and thy seed may live. That thou mayest love the Lord thy God, and that thou mayest cleave unto him; the length of thy days" (Deut. 30:19,20).
The Lesson-Sermon also included the following correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Question.—What is Life? Answer.—Life is divine Principle, Mind, Soul, Spirit. Life is without beginning and without end. Eternal, not time, expresses the thought of Life, and time is no part of eternity. One ceases in proportion as the other is recognized. Time is finite; eternity is forever infinite. Life is neither in nor of matter. What is termed matter is unknown to Spirit, which includes in itself all substance and is Life eternal. Matter is a human concept. Life is divine Mind" (p. 468).
