

The Evening Herald

HERALD PUBLISHING COMPANY, Publishers
 FRANK JENKINS, Editor
 MALCOLM EPLEY, Managing Editor

Published every afternoon except Sunday by The Herald Publishing Company at Reginald and Pine Streets, Klamath Falls, Oregon.

Entered as second class matter at the postoffice of Klamath Falls, Ore., on August 30, 1906 under act of Congress, March 3, 1879.

Member of The Associated Press
 The Associated Press is authorized to use the name of publication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper, and also the local news published therein. All rights of reproduction of special dispatches are also reserved.

Represented Nationally by West-Whitely Co., Inc.
 New York, New York, Chicago, Portland, Los Angeles, St. Louis, Vancouver, B. C.
 Copies of The News and Herald, together with complete information about the Klamath Falls market, may be obtained for the asking at any of these offices.

MAIL RATES PAYABLE IN ADVANCE
 By Mail
 In Klamath, Lake, Modoc and Shasta Counties

Three Months	$2.25
Six Months	4.50
One Year	8.00

One Month	75c
Three Months	2.25
Six Months	4.00
One Year	7.00

Delivered by Carrier in City

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATION

Weekend Roundup

UNDERWAY in the suburban districts south and east of Klamath Falls is a development that is interesting and significant. The area has been divided into "wards" from which representatives are being chosen to sit on a general council which will consider the community's public problems and will represent it before such agencies as the county court and other authorities. This organization work is now well advanced, and it appears certain to go through with strong support among the residents of the district. It should prove of much benefit, and it may be the first step toward the realization of needed improvements, such as sanitation facilities.

It has been plain for quite some time that in this fringe area some sort of organization would have to develop. Settlement there has assumed virtually an urban status, with attendant problems. It may be that the organization now being effected will find itself without sufficient official authority to carry on as effectively as is desirable. In that case, incorporation or consolidation with Klamath Falls with incorporated status for the area may be the eventual result. At any rate, here are good wishes for the new venture, and a hope that the various authorities before which these problems come will be sympathetic and helpful.

There is general satisfaction in Oregon over the re-appointment of Charles P. Pray as superintendent of the state police. Whether there was ever much question that Governor Sprague would take this step seems doubtful. When the state police system was first established by Governor Julius Meier, there was genuine fear among many Oregon citizens that it would not be successful. That feeling was largely allayed when Governor Meier selected Mr. Pray for superintendent. He immediately established confidence in the endeavor, and under his guidance the state police organization has developed in efficiency and effectiveness. Governor Martin saw fit to re-appoint Mr. Pray, and he now continues for a four-year term. His experience and leadership will continue to be of great value to law enforcement in Oregon.

The figures on Klamath county relief costs in yesterday's paper deserve the careful consideration of every reader. They speak well of Klamath county, its economic health, and the character of its people. Here we have a per capita relief cost in June of 32 cents against a state average of 73 cents. The cost here is far below that of any comparable county. It is fair to attribute it all to these factors: good industrial and agricultural employment this summer; determination of the vast majority of Klamath people to "make a go of it" on their own resources; efficient administration of the county welfare program. Those who have contributed to any or all of these factors have reason to be proud of themselves and their county.

The Astrologer

William Dawson, resident of the Willard hotel, a teacher of astrology, is answering questions from The News and Herald subscribers concerning children born in 1918, 1919, 1920 and 1921. Questions should be addressed to Mr. Dawson at the hotel, where he also can be reached by those interested in further information. No real names will be used in the published answers, and for that reason those asking questions should give an identification name. Give the birth time, place of birth, and ask only one question. Address William Dawson, Willard hotel. Be sure to give the correct name and address of the sender although this will not be used in the published item.

ANSWERS
 XYZ—Born January 12, 1925, at 4 a. m. at Klamath Falls, Ore. Your desire for a thrill is your danger zone, but you should not hazard your life or limbs. Always remember that a jump is a good jump if you make it, and it is also a good jump if you don't make it. Therefore, always be certain to consider the importance of the jump before you take it. You are inclined to be impulsive, reckless and rebellious and your argumentative tendencies should not be exercised until you possess the facts, by which you may prove your right to argue. You can go far into educational pursuits. You could be a good orator, preacher, politician or you could travel abroad as a representative. You could succeed in raising horses or dogs.

GEORGE—Born July 11, 1924, at 7:55 p. m. Your son is a mixture of fire and water. He is emotional to a degree that is difficult to understand. At the time of his birth six planets were in watery signs, two in fire and one in air. The sign rising on the eastern horizon was Pisces, another watery sign. Your son is deficient in social qualities and he is inclined to be seclusive, discontented, suspicious, peevish and apprehensive. It would require a great amount of space here to dis-

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, July 28.—It has been no secret that the Garner opposition has been trying hard to get the idea that he plays poker and takes a drink, imbedded in the public mind so as to injure his popular political position. Scandal handlers began slipping what they thought was the poison out months ago, at the time when the polls first showed the vice president leading the pack of democratic contenders. But if it had any effect, it must have improved Garner's standing, as the polls subsequently increased his lead. Politicians on all sides here generally expect the same result from the John L. Lewis attack.

Even a wise and experienced alderman never uses this kind of attack in modern politics. It has not been considered quite bright since Grant won the civil war and the presidency twice against the same kind of personal abuse. The politicians do not shun this strategy because they are kind-hearted, merely because they have learned it is foolish and usually fatal to their causes.

SOBER AND SANE

Their reasoning is convincing. . . such attacks are designed primarily to turn the church people against a public man, but are not likely to succeed in this instance because Garner's place in the public mind is built upon his unusual sobriety, sanity, and clear-headedness in public affairs, as his public record has established. The picture of an 40 years of service. His career, which is known to everyone, is more than sufficient to offset the scandalous implications. . . then such attacks invite odious comparisons. No one, including Mr. Lewis, will propose that a man be barred from the presidency for poker playing or taking a drink. Certainly Mr. Lewis is not going to purge anyone who drinks or plays poker from the privilege of paying dues in the CIO, or his revenues are going to be sharply curtailed.

Further, Garner's reputation for being able to take a drink and play poker is not founded on the mere fact that he has been known to do these things—but that he did them well. Far more than a majority of all political men in Washington do the same thing in varying (and similarly inconsequential) degrees. But whatever reputation Garner has in penny ante circles of the senate is founded on respect for his proven superior judgment. Disciples of the Garner-for-president movement may in fact make excellent use of this point, as poker seems to be what the nations of the world are playing these days. . . . Garner's objection to sit-down strikes is what brought him to his first disagreement with Mr. Roosevelt and he has never made any secret of it. He could have expected no votes from CIO and some of his associates are authority for the comment that Garner would have denounced Lewis somewhere along in the campaign if Lewis had not played into his hands by making the cleavage clear. . . . the result is, therefore, likely to be the forcing of more persons to Garner's side than might otherwise rally there if the attack had not been made.

NO EMBARGO

The revealing fact behind Mr. Hull's move to terminate the commercial treaty with Japan is simply this: No embargo can be applied against Japan without congressional approval and congressional approval cannot possibly be obtained. No less than six bills proposing an embargo were introduced this last session but they did not have enough backing to cause their serious consideration. Perhaps the fact that the treaty made embargo proposals out of order.

LAST DAY

'Undercover Doctor' 'Trigger Fingers'

TOMORROW

Today's Sensation. Ripped from the Private News of an Ace.

S.O.S. TIDAL WAVE

with Ralph BYRD, Frank HENKS, Kay SUTTON, Dorothy LEE

SHAPSHOTS. COLOR NOVELTY. COLOR CARTOON. SERIAL AND NEWS.

LAST DAY

JACK HOLT "Roaring Timber"

TOMORROW

James Cagney

IN "The Oklahoma Kid"

RAINBOW

VOX

SIDE GLANCES

"Which do you think would be most likely to bring us some dates—new clothes or a telephone?"

Beckley will never use the power they carry. The 57-year-old farmer died at Eugene's Sacred Heart hospital of burns suffered when his home-operated acetylene power plant exploded.

In an adjoining room, Beckley's son, Henry, burned in the same explosion, fought for his life. Doctors said he had an even chance to recover, although his lungs were seared and all of his hair singed away.

POPULARITY GIRL STOPS FOR VISIT

Betty Crites, winner of a "most outstanding girl" contest at a San Francisco high school, passed through Klamath Falls Friday en route by train to Glacier national park accompanied by her mother, Mrs. M. Crites.

Miss Crites will again pass through Klamath Falls about August 7 on her return from the trip she won as a prize in the contest. Plans are being made by the Klamath County chamber of commerce to take Miss Crites on a trip to Crater Lake national park during a stopover here on the return trip.

Courthouse Records

Friday

Marriage Application Filed
 McCormack-Bousman. John W. McCormack, 23, mechanic, native of Kansas, resident of Grants Pass. Mabel E. Bousman, 23, housewife, native of Oregon, resident of Grants Pass. Three-day requirement waived.

Actions Filed
 G. C. Lorenz versus The Starr company. Action to collect rent totaling $819.34. Henry E. Perkins, attorney for plaintiff.

C. J. Martin and J. H. Martin versus H. D. Williams. Action to recover money totaling $421.84. William Ganong, attorney for plaintiff.

Judgments
 Paul W. Sharp and F. C. Adams, co-partners, versus Bruce Heaton. Plaintiffs awarded judgment for $186.00 and $22.40 costs.

E. E. Benner versus Luther Chase. Plaintiff awarded judgment for $394.89 and $60.20 costs.

Divorce Decree
 Lenora Keller versus Charles L. Keller. Divorce decree by default. Plaintiff declared sole owner of certain property.

Justice Court
 James O'Malley, charge, vagrancy. Sentenced to serve 90 days in the county jail, sentence suspended providing he leave county. James M. Huntley, charge, operator's license. Sentenced to serve five days in county jail.

The Family Doctor

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
 Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

AMONG the most important of the discoveries of scientific medicine in recent years are those related to the isolation and uses of the specific hormones of the sex glands, both male and female. The work is so new, however, and the difficulties of experimentation so great that actual fact is only beginning to be separated from the results of uncontrolled experiments. Much of the data now being accumulated by experiments on animals is astounding.

It has been found, for instance, that in the opossum the administration of the male sex material, known as testosterone propionate, induces development of a strange medley of the characters of both sexes. There seem, however, to be specific sex factors for various portions of the mechanism in male and in female opossums.

When this glandular material is given to rats and mice it has been found that small doses will cause stimulation of the activities of the female sex glands, whereas larger doses given over a long period of time will produce a depression of this activity. In monkeys and in women the giving of the male sex hormone produces a depressing effect on the female sex glands.

song was sung by the injected females. One of them began singing after two injections and the others after four injections and the singing was continued for periods of five to 13 days after the last injection, depending on how much of the glandular material was injected. The remaining female canary would not sing a sustained song, but instead strutted on the perch, swelled up the throat and moved about as if singing. However, the sounds that came out were interrupted and resembled only portions of the male song.

Apparently these injections did not have a permanent effect on the reproductive system of the birds because later three of the five birds were mated, built nests and laid eggs.

It was interesting that the females did not produce as much volume of sound as did the males and the investigators were not able to determine much about the tone quality. However, the range of tones, variations, trills and duration were said to be similar to those of male canaries.

The profound effects of these glandular substances in experiments thus far made, both in animals and in human beings, should indicate the extreme caution necessary in the use of substances of this character.

It is generally recognized that singling in canaries is limited to the male and many an expert believes that this is to permit the male to attract the female. In other words, the quality of singling is believed to be associated with a biologic play.

Investigators in New Jersey recently studied the effects of injecting the male sex hormone into the breast muscles of female canaries and found that in four out of five birds the typical male

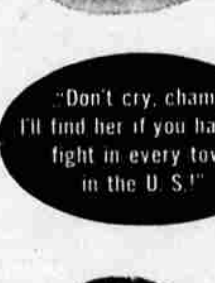

MERRILL — The Lost River inn, now under the management of D. E. Klein, Klamath Falls, is being renovated in preparation for the influx of men expected here for the harvest season. Klein stated Thursday, The manager, who has business interests in Klamath Falls, purchased the lease on the hotel from Mr. and Mrs. Levi McDonald, who have managed the hotel for several years.

TODAY ONLY GENE AUTRY "MOUNTAIN RHYTHM"

TOMORROW!
 ARE YOU WAR-WORRIED
 ...CRISIS-WEARY?
 Well, let up and LAUGH at moviedom's gayest gang!

"How can I be Kid Galahad if I haven't got a mama?"

"Don't cry, champ. I'll find her if you have to fight in every town in the U. S.!"

"I'd be a mom to you, kid but it ain't dignified for a bubble dancer."

"They say I'm a shoplifter. I just find things before they're lost!"

Warner Bros. left-and-let-left comedy K. O.

LAST TIMES • STRONGER THAN DESIRE • Virginia BRUCE
 TODAY • Walter PIDGEON

Starts TOMORROW!

Irving Berlin's given you these six new songs . . .

"An Old Fashioned Tune Always Is New"

"I Poured My Heart Into a Song"

"Song of the Metronome"

"I'm Sorry For Myself"

"Back to Back"

"When Winter Comes"

and

Sonja and Tyrone are in love again!

SONJA HENIE TYRONE POWER

Irving Berlin's SECOND FIDDLE

with RUDY VALLEE
 EDNA MAY OLIVER
 MARY HEALY · LYLE TALBOT
 ALAN DINEHART

Rudy Vallee and lovely new-star Mary Healy are in the mood for song!

COLOR CLASSIC FEATURETTE

"QUIET PLACES"

News and Cartoon

 PINE TREE ***

The KID from KOKOMO

PAT O'BRIEN · WAYNE MORRIS
 JOAN BLONDELL
 MAY ROBSON · JANE WYMAN · STANLEY
 FIELDS · MAXIE ROSENBLUM · SUELY TOLLE

PELICAN