NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON
WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—When Stalin machine-gunned his way up beside Hitler in Poland, Mr. Roosevelt gave deep consideration to his cash-and-carry provisions—and to his secondary hope of returning to an international law basis.
In fact he started reconsidering about a week before the event as he had reason to believe Russia might drop her neutral pose. The same thoughts that probably have occurred to you developed that early among his advisers. . . . The vision of Russia opening a back door for Hitler to Latin American raw materials and even to our planes, arms and munitions in case the embargo is repealed. . . . The possibility of Germany, Russia and Japan using the new American policy to conquer Europe, Asia and Africa, and thus effecting a purpose exactly opposite the intentions of the Roosevelt policy. . . . A new light seemed to be cast on the whole matter.
Upon reconsideration, Mr. Roosevelt decided he was right in the first place (watch his message), and for the following reasons:
CASH COUNTS
1. Hitler has no cash. Russia and Japan have very little. On the other hand Britain and France have nearly one billion in gold, $25,000,000 in cash deposits and 3,000,000,000 in securities. As a practical matter, Britain and France would still be the beneficiaries of the Bloom bill or a return to international law.
2. The trans-Siberian railway, even with its drawback, is not anything like American railways, in efficiency of equipment, its limitations would hinder Hitler in using this door, to the same extent that Russia's internal needs for oil and raw materials prevent him from reaping the full benefits of his trade pact with the soviets.
3. The British navy might be able to establish a blockade in the Pacific against the Russians (based on Singapore).
4. The only Pacific Russian port of Vladivostok freezes in winter so no advantage could be taken for six months in any event. The Russian ports of Murmansk and Archangel on the Arctic are open most of the year but they are now being watched very carefully by the British.
5. If the Japanese join the German-Russian rolling cordon, all considerations would have to be changed, but that remains to be seen. (Some also want to see how far the German-Russian cordon rolls).

"Would you mind growling at my son? We told him you're the bogeyman and that you'd get him if he didn't stop crying."

The Astrologer

William Dawson, resident of the Willard hotel, a teacher of astrology, is answering questions from The News and Herald subscribers concerning those born between 1880 and 1925. Questions should be addressed to Mr. Dawson at the Willard hotel, where he also can be reached by those interested in further information. No real names will be used in the published answers, and for that reason those asking questions should give an identification name.
Give the birth time, place of birth, and ask only one question. Be sure to give the correct name and address of the sender although this will not be used in the published item.
ANSWERS
HAYWIRE ED. Born August 3, 1882, at Norfolk, England, time not given. The experience you have already encountered should awaken you. There should not be any doubts within you with regard to the causes which thwart your desires. The pride which your ignorance creates causes stubbornness to halt your educational abilities and this reflects upon your resentful tendencies. Your success in life is dependable upon the changes you can make in yourself and in order to make them you must become being pessimistic and stubborn. You must also learn to respect the feelings of others and not exalt your rights over their rights.
MUMSY. Born May 15, 1884, at 2 p. m. at Galway, Ireland. The remainder of your life will be as successful as you desire to make it, and in order to make it successful you must cease thinking it may not be so. The sun in Taurus and harmony with the moon give to you the requirements to make your life successful, but the sun in discord with Mars and the moon in discord with Jupiter cause you to be fond of ostentation and display, to have a fiery temper and to resent any authority directed toward you. You are possessive and careful of your own interests to such a degree that you lose interest in those who may be interested in you. Perish every selfish thought, abandon your desire for success and incline yourself toward making others successful. You will be startled at the success that will rebound upon you when these methods are practiced.
A home appointment was understood to have been suggested to him. But Windsor was adamant about serving overseas, and yesterday the war office announced that the duke soon would take up a staff appointment in France with the rank of major general.
At the outbreak of the World War, Lord Kitchener refused the duke, then Prince of Wales, permission to go to France with his regiment of Grenadier guards.
"What if you were shot?" Kitchener asked him.
"What does it matter?" the prince shot back. "I have four brothers."
"If I were certain you would be shot, I do not know that I should be right in restraining you," Kitchener remarked. "What I cannot permit is the chance of your being taken prisoner."
Subsequently, the prince was appointed to the overseas staff of Sir John French.
Nazi youth, we are told, suffer from flat feet. This goose step must be more realistic than we thought.

History Repeats As Duke Refuses Home Appointment

LONDON, Sept. 21 (UP)—After 25 years, history and the Duke of Windsor have repeated themselves.
When the duke returned to England to offer his services in the war, British officials found him just as stubborn as Lord Kitchener did at the outbreak of the World War, it was said.

Sub Fires On American Ship To Make Search

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (UP)—A German submarine fired a shot across the bow of the American steamer Wascosta and then sent a searching party aboard, passengers reported when the vessel arrived here yesterday.
Fragments of the shell were said to have struck the Wascosta's deck.
The submarine signaled the Wascosta to heave to 38 miles off the Irish coast at 1 p. m. September 9. Capt. George R. Self failed to answer the signal sent in international blinker code and the submarine fired, passengers said.
COLLECTION PUSHED
SALEM, Ore., Sept. 21 (UP)—The state tax commission is collecting second half state income tax payments at the rate of several thousand dollars a day, it was announced.
Total income tax collections for the year will exceed the original estimates, it was said.
Railroad taxes in 1938 averaged nearly $50 per minute.

Bremen Reported Held By British

LONDON, Thursday, Sept. 21 (UP)—Reports were prevalent here today that the liner Bremen, pride of the German merchant fleet, had reached an unnamed British port, escorted by British naval vessels.
Although there was no official confirmation forthcoming immediately, the reports were not denied. Various stories had circulated here for some days to the effect that the Bremen had been captured and was en route to England.

100 PER CENT WRONG

If you want to find the White House banishes these days, don't look out the window (where Mr. Early said they went) or in the moon mists (where Mr. Roosevelt said they existed). The infiltrating ghosts, Messrs. Corcoran, Cohen and company have in reality been in hiding, under the bed, in the doghouse, and out in the bushes, or should be. No one sent them there, except possibly their conscience. It appears their advice to the president has proved to be no less than 100 per cent wrong since the European crisis started several months ago.
One of their errors was their assumption that the Russians could do no wrong. They accepted completely the orthodox Pinko beliefs, first that Russia would be the strongest of the anti-Hitler bloc, and when that assumption proved wrong, that Russia would certainly remain neutral.

BAD LUCK

Also bad luck is pursuing the banishes. Baby Banishes Foley (Corcoran man in the treasury as general counsel) hit upon an idea of extending the Vinson-Trammell act to all industry. The act prevents more than 10 per cent profits on shipbuilding for the government or more than 12 per cent on airplane manufacturing. It sounded like a good idea, but before work on it was completed,

SNOW CRUISER TO JOIN BYRD PARTY

SEATTLE, Sept. 21 (AP)—Dr. Thomas C. Poulter of Chicago, inventor of a "snow cruiser" designed to eat through antarctic wastes, has arranged storage space for his huge machine aboard the motorship North Star which sails today for the east coast to join Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's expedition to the antarctic.
Dr. Poulter in 1934 headed the relief party of three men who rescued Admiral Byrd from the lonely observation hut where he was stricken by fumes from his kerosene lamp. Dr. Poulter, who arrived here yesterday by airplane, is a scientist of the research foundation of the Armour Institute of Technology.
His invention is a huge motor vehicle, completely closed and insulated against Antarctica's bitter cold. It will carry an airplane atop its structure.
"With the snow cruiser, we will halt at certain intervals," Dr. Poulter explained, "and the plane will go aloft on observation flights. There is an area in the antarctic as big as the United States that never has been explored. That's where we are going on this expedition."
Dr. Poulter said the snow cruiser would be equipped to carry four men and their supplies for a year, along with fuel for 5,000 miles of travel. It was designed to overcome the hardships of Dr. Poulter's tractor trip to rescue Admiral Byrd. That trip required 70 hours for 123 miles from Little America to the hut where Byrd had kept lonely vigil for four months.

Girl Saves 47 Classmates in Plunging Bus

LONGVIEW, Wash., Sept. 21 (UP)—A 15-year-old Longview schoolgirl, Lucy Watson, tonight was credited with saving the lives of 47 classmates.
It was revealed the girl took the wheel of a plunging school bus after its driver collapsed and halted the machine less than 10 feet from the deep waters of Lake Sacajawea. It was the first time she had ever driven a car.
Highly enthusiastic over the new Oldsmobiles for 1940, Dick Miller of the Marshall Cornett company, Oldsmobile dealer here, has returned from the dealer preview meeting held in Portland. He was accompanied by the members of his entire sales organization, who were likewise very much elated over the cars that Olds is to offer for the coming season.
"It's hard to imagine how they can make so many improvements each year," said Dick Miller today. "The new Oldsmobiles are bigger and better looking in every detail and with a front end design that is by far the most attractive I have ever seen. The interiors, too, are the last word in good looks, luxury and comfort."
"More than that, this year Oldsmobile will introduce a revolutionary new mechanical advancement that is destined to be the greatest forward step in driving ease, convenience and safety since the invention of the self starter. It represents the final culmination of over eight years of research and testing on the part of Oldsmobile and General Motors engineers.
"The factory assembly lines at Lansing are running now and we expect to start receiving more cars in the next few days. We now have a 1940 model on display for the people of this city in advance of the national announcement."
For every mile of railroad in the United States there is, on the average, one highway grade crossing.

Outstanding Event

FOUR red letter days are ahead. They are the days of the annual Klamath Junior Livestock and Baby Beef show, which opens Saturday and continues through Tuesday.
Here is an event that has proved remarkably successful and has done much to bring credit upon the name of Klamath.
Sponsored by the Klamath Falls Rotary club, the show has brought encouragement and inspiration to youthful stock growers on the farms and ranches of the Klamath country.
That has been its primary objective. The show affords opportunity to the youngsters in the Four-H and Future Farmer organizations to show their stock in competition and to sell it at the annual auction which is the climax of the exposition. The result is that each boy and girl makes every effort to obtain good animals and to feed them out as nearly to perfection as possible.
This experience is of real value to them as coming men and women. It teaches lessons which will be beneficial, even though some of them do not live on farms or ranches in their adult life.
This year, the Rotary club has made an effort to make the livestock show of interest to city boys and girls, through a "mutt dog show." Another highlight is the annual barbecue, an invitational event.
But the outstanding incident of the entire four days is to be the auction on Tuesday. Townsfolk will find it well worth their time to drop in on this event. The support that Klamath business men have given in past years at these sales has been a primary factor in making the junior livestock fair a great success.
So the four days starting Saturday are dedicated to Klamath youth. Oldsters will be repaid if they will lay aside their troubles, their worry about the war or business, long enough to visit the livestock show. It's to be at the fairgrounds.

The Family Doctor

BY DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine
High blood pressure is probably the commonest cause of death in the second half of life. After the age of 50, one death out of every four is due to high blood pressure or its consequences.
The average age of death due to high blood pressure without determinable cause is 55 years. There are certain instances in which the high blood pressure is definitely related to changes within the kidneys with inability to perform their function.
Men of medicine have carried on much experimentation in recent years to determine what causes high blood pressure. The pressure is directly proportionate to the power of the heart and the amount of resistance in the blood vessels. Since the power of the heart is not raised in some cases of high blood pressure, authorities feel the rise is due to increased resistance in the blood vessels. Their resistance depends on the caliber of the vessels and on the thickness of the blood.
In high blood pressure of unknown origin the volume and the thickness of the blood are not found to be substantially changed. It is argued that the important factor in resistance of the blood vessels and the increase of pressure must be the narrowing of the blood vessels.
For example, in arterio-sclerosis, or hardening of the arteries, the blood vessels lose their elasticity and it is harder for the heart to pump the blood through them.
There are also certain forces in the body, like the secretions of the adrenal glands, which serve to contract the blood vessels. In some cases high psychological tension or emotional excitement will bring about changes in the body resulting in contraction of the blood vessels.
As a means of preventing or controlling high blood pressure, some surgeons stop the effects of the nervous system on the blood vessels by cutting nerves. Others suggest operation on the glands which secrete the substances that bring about contraction of the blood vessels.
On various experiments different nerves have been cut to note the effect on the blood pressure of patients. Improvement of the symptoms of exceedingly high blood pressure was seen after certain nerve roots related to the spinal cord had been cut. In some instances the patients were able to take up work which formerly they had been compelled to discontinue.
Illustrating this point, there is the case of a young surgeon who was forced by rising blood pressure, inability to concentrate, falling vision, and persistent headaches, to resign his teaching positions and to give up his practice. After an operation in-

Don Woodbury Enlists in Army

The enlistment in the United States Army of Donald W. Woodbury, formerly of Klamath Falls, for service with the 15th Infantry regiment with station at Fort Lewis, Wash., was announced today by Colonel G. T. Perkins, army recruiting officer, San Francisco.
Woodbury applied for enlistment through the Eureka, Calif., recruiting office, Colonel Perkins said, and was formerly enlisted at Fort McDowell, Calif. From there he will soon be sent to Fort Lewis.

Mean Thief Wanted

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 21 (UP)—Portland police officers today searched for a new variety of "meanest thief."
They disclosed that an unidentified man stole a revolver from the holster of Patrolman Ralph Nichol after the officer died of a heart attack on a downtown corner last night.
The Royal Swedish Aero club, the semi-official club representing aviation in Sweden, has about 9000 members.
